BONUS ARMIES NEAR CAPITAL SPLIT IN AIMS

Levine Group of 200 to Spurn Federal Haven at Fort Hunt, Va.

The 1933 bonus march on Washington became a reality last night with 1,000 New York veterans reported just outside of Baltimore on their way to the seat of Government and 200 World War warriors intent on refusing the administration's bonus camp privileges at Fort Hunt, Va., almost at the Capital's gates early today.

Traveling in trucks and buses the 1,000 veterans are reported to have left New York two days ago. They are the vanguard of the convention called by Emmanuel Levine, former Marine and "left wing" agitator in the last bonus camp, and his three regular bonus army associates on the Veterans' National Liaison Committee—George Brady, Albert Sellers and E. J. Williams.

Seek Only Bonus.

The 200 between Baltimore and Washington are walking and seek only immediate payment of the bonus. Levine's cohorts want not only the bonus, but restoration of disability benefits taken away by the administration $500,000,000 economy act and unemployment and farmers relief measure. The 200 declare they will not take proffered administration accommodations at Fort Hunt.

At Fort Hunt, Va., 14 miles below Washington, on the Mount Vernon boulevard, a company of United States infantrymen had begun the task of preparing a bivouac for 8,000 members of the veterans' convention approved by the administration, but the quarters for the bonus clan was not expected to be ready until tomorrow at the earliest.

The trudging band en route here from Baltimore had announced they would throw themselves upon the Federal resources, inasmuch as the administration has agreed to provide shelter and sustenance for bonus-seeking veterans. They sought the Capitol Plaza as their first camp grounds.

Police Expect No Trouble.

Capitol police last night were prepared to disperse any congregation on the plaza of the legislative establishment unless otherwise ordered. Maj. Ernst W. Brown, superintendent of Metropolitan police, who has some of his men with the oncoming bonus clan, said he expected no trouble.

The hiking veterans were led on their Capital venture by Harold Foulkrod and John H. Newlin, leaders of the B. E. F. encampment here last year which ended with the troop and tear gas exodus of July 28.

Late yesterday the veterans' national liaison committee, which Representative Hamilton Fish (Republican), New York, charged on the House floor was largely motivated by Communistic influences, held another long conference with Col. Louis M. Howe, President Roosevelt's advisory secretary.

Leaving the White House, the four committee members declined to speak at first. A few minutes later Stephen Early, White House press secretary, said that there would be no gathering in the Capital and that all their activities would be confined to the Army-supervised Fort Hunt, reached only by a Federal road and itself a Federal reservation.

Informed of this, the quartet, which has arranged the 1933 march for veterans and unemployed relief, said there would be conclaves here in the city and that there must be some mistake.

Mr. Early later declared, after the veterans had made contact with the Explorer Believes Grave Is That of Nephew of Montezuma.

Aztec Tomb Discovered

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Count Byron Khun de Prorok expressed the belief today his archeological expedition into the Mayan jungle of Mexico has discovered the tomb of Gautemoc, nephew of Montezuma and last of the Aztec emperors.

The French explorer, who gained wide recognition for his Carthaginian excavations and other work in Africa, said his party would return to the jungle next October to dig into the supposed tomb—in the State of Tobasco on the Usamacinta River, some 800 miles south and east of Mexico City.

En route to Paris to report his archeological work among the Maya tribes, the young nobleman said "if true, this would equal in importance the discovery of the tomb of Tutankh-amen."

Throughout this State, on the rim of the jungle, De Prorok said all legends led to the one spot.

In this locality, legend and history agree, Guatemoc died while a hostage in the camp of Cortez, the Spanish conqueror.

"Guatemoc," De Prorok said, "is still the hero of the peons. He was tortured by Cortez, who sought the hiding place of Aztec treasure. Refusing to divulge this, Gautemoc was hanged."

COUNT BYRON DE PROROK.

The archeologist said his discoveries among the Mayas convinced him that man did not originate in the Gobi Desert.

"For years, I've clung to that

PARLEYS LIFT OBSTACLES TO TARIFF TRUCE

British to Accept Plan in Principle, but With Reservations.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Negotiations between the United States and the organizing committee of the economic conference in London have finally succeeded in removing the most serious obstacle to general approval of the American tariff truce, during the sessions of the conference, it was learned here yesterday. Secretary Hull and President Roosevelt conferred on details of a lengthy eight-page telegram from American Ambassador-at-Large Norman H. Davis, who is now awaiting the forthcoming meetings of the organizing committee to be called the end of this week by Sir John Simon, chairman of the group.

Ottawa Pledges Reserved.

The Davis cable was not made public last night, but is known to contain the circumstances surrounding acceptance in principle by the British government of the American tariff truce. The list of British reservations treats specifically of the pledges of the Ottawa agreements, which come into effect while the conference will be meeting. It will be necessary for the British government either to suspend the operation of the Ottawa agreements or to secure the consent of the other seven nations to the British reservations.

The report of Ambassador Davis is a textual analysis of the latest draft of the tariff truce which has been agreed on to date by the conferees at London. Subsequent changes will, however, be made in the text after President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull have completed their talks with the invited statesmen at the White House here.

Parleys Speeded Here.

The American experts here under the direction of Assistant Secretary of State Moley have been accelerating their efforts of late to secure a definite basis for arriving at stabilization of currencies and tariff concessions in advance of the conference.

For the moment, the debt problem has been temporarily put in abeyance by the anxiety of the American officials to secure the tariff truce. The President will not make any move toward Congress in this regard for at least another week or ten days, it was learned yesterday. The due date for the war debt payments is June 15, and there still remains a whole month before the opening of the economic conference, where the debts will be made the subject of a collateral but independent analysis.

The organizing committee of the

COL. LINDBERGH RECOUNTS GRIM KIDNAP DETAILS

Testifies Unfalteringly in Means-Whitaker Trial on Fraud Charge.

The Government's case against Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker will be closed today. Yesterday the crowded District Supreme Court room heard Col. Charles A. Lindbergh unfalteringly recount the grim facts about the kidnaping of his son, for whose return the defendants are charged with attempting to defraud Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $35,000.

Spectators jamming seats and aisles of the small room listened intently as the boyish Lindbergh took the oath and answered United States Attorney Leo A. Rover's hesitant first question—"Was there born to you and Mrs. Lindbergh some time prior to March 1, 1932, a son?" with a firm "There was."

Colonel Answers Promptly.

Following this opening, the prosecutor brought out the facts of the child's kidnaping, and the subsequent finding of the body and the identification at the Trenton (N. J.) Morgue. Col. Lindbergh answered promptly in a low voice.

Under cross-examination by Defense Attorneys J. William Tomlinson and Joseph Turco, Col. Lindbergh said that he was sure that he dealt with the actual kidnapers when Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie) paid out $50,000 ransom. It is this money that the indictment alleges Means and Whitaker said they would get if Mrs. McLean gave them $35,000.

Mrs. McLean's testimony on cross-examination was interrupted for Col. Lindbergh's taking of the stand. He was there a brief 15 minutes and when finished United States marshals forced a way for him through the crowded halls to his automobile.

Kidnaping Details Bared.

Part of the questions and the colonel's responses were:

"On the night of March 1 did you discover that the child was gone?"

"I did."

"What time of the night was that?"

"About 10 o'clock in the evening."

"Did you ever see him alive again?"

"No."

"Did you ever see him dead?"

"I did."

"Did you identify the body as that of your child?"

"I did."

Attorney Turco asked if his client, Whitaker, had ever been mentioned by Condon or any of the others in the negotiations. Lindbergh replied in the negative and after looking closely at Whitaker said that he had never before seen him.

Mrs. McLean resumed the stand and was questioned further by the two defense attorneys in regard to the plans and contacts she made with their clients at Aiken, S. C.; El Paso, Tex., and on her return to Washington.

Rover then brought two clerks from

Senate Quiz Into Milk Cost to Be Demanded By King and Copeland

Farmers Well Paid

Capital Milk Producers Get Highest Prices.

This is the fourth of a series of articles discussing the prices of milk and cream in the District of Columbia. The series is based upon a study by The Post of milk marketing in the District.

The milk supply for the Washington market is controlled by the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, a collective bargaining association of 1,200 dairy farmers, the members of which receive a higher price for the milk than any other dairy farmers in the country.

This organization produces 90 per cent of the milk consumed here. The distribution of this milk is made by the dealers. More than 50 per cent of distribution is controlled by the National Dairy Products Corporation, which has extensive holdings throughout the country.

The following table shows the prices paid to dairy farmers in the Washington area compared with prices in a few other large cities. The prices are for a hundred pounds of milk, with butterfat content of 3.5 per cent.

Washington	$2.79
Philadelphia	1.98
Baltimore	2.26
Boston	2.29

These prices include country plant handling charges.

The price actually received by the dairy farmer, supplying the Washington market is generally higher than

New Yorker Plans to Include District in Rackets Probe.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

A Senate investigation of conditions underlying the high cost of milk in the District was promised last night by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee.

Senator King called a meeting of his full committee for Friday. He will lay before the committee facts and figures as disclosed in The Washington Post, and ask authority to appoint a subcommittee to conduct a sweeping inquiry.

The Utah senator will introduce in the Senate a resolution demanding a thoroughgoing Senate investigation into the Washington milk situation. He seeks to determine if there is a combine in the interest of holding up prices of milk and cream.

Copeland Also to Act.

Meanwhile, Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, also a member of the District Committee and former health commissioner of the City of New York, declared Washington milk prices are entirely too high. He proposed action on an independent tack.

Senator Copeland, who Monday introduced a resolution to investigate interstate "rackets," said he will press to have the Washington milk situation looked into as a part of that inquiry.

"If the diagram carried in The Post is correct, Washington residents are paying twice as much as they ought to pay for milk," said the New York senator, who devoted much of his official career in the metropolis to a study of New York's milk supply.

Milk Trust Cited.

"I see no reason why the investigation I have asked of 'rackets' should not include the District milk situation, particularly as the District gets most of its milk through interstate shipments.

"I will make inquiries to determine if there really is a milk 'racket' in Washington."

Senator King charged flatly:

"I think a milk trust is behind the high price of milk in Washington."

Incensed Over Prices.

He said he originally had planned a meeting of the Senate District Committee Friday to consider only a bill for remedying the alley dwelling situation in Washington, but following The Post disclosures, broadened the scope of the ..ssion.

"For months I have been incensed over the high milk prices prevailing here, and last session I determined to do something about it.

"During the Seventy-second Congress I introduced a resolution calling for an investigation of factors holding up District prices, but nothing came of it.

"I intend to reintroduce that resolution in the next few days, confining the investigation entirely to the milk situation. And I expect to get action."

WAGNER-LEWIS BILL OFF TO WHITE HOUSE

Swift House Action Also Is Seen for Farm Relief Inflation Measure.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Driving hard for adjournment the first week in June, congressional leaders put new zest into their parliamentary maneuvers yesterday, advancing four major measures on the Roosevelt emergency program to legislative phases assuring early enactment.

The Wagner-Lewis $500,000,000 State-aid relief bill was finally approved by the House, when that body accepted the conference report previously sustained in the Senate. The measure now goes to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature. It becomes operative at once. The funds are to be distributed through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in proportion to the expenditures of the various States on their own programs.

Final action of the farm relief bill, which includes the Thomas inflation amendment, was predicted within 24 hours. Yesterday the House rejected the Simpson cost-of-production plan. This provision, which had been added to the bill by Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, was vigorously opposed by Secretary Wallace and other administration spokesmen. Senate concurrence in this action, which is expected today, will clear the last legislative obstacle in the path of the farm bill.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt's immediate advisers on the projected bill for national industrial coordination, with the aid and support of the Federal Government, was put into final form. Senators who have had a part in writing the cooperative measure anticipated last night that the President would submit his formal recommendations on the plan to Congress today or tomorrow.

Despite the action of 49 House Democrats yesterday in petitioning for a formal party caucus on the industrial coordination bill, party leaders of both House and Senate expressed the belief there would be no serious resistance to the joint plan agreed to in the recent conferences between White House advisers and

Caucus to Study Antitrust Laws

(Associated Press.)

Forty-nine House members yesterday succeeded in forcing a Democratic caucus tonight to discuss antitrust laws.

That number of House Democrats signed a petition requesting Representative Lea (Democrat), California, caucus chairman, to call the meeting. Only 25 signatures are required on such a petition.

The procedure was initiated by Representative Shannon (Democrat), Missouri, and Speaker Rainey told newspapermen his understanding was that "We are simply going to get together and discuss antitrust laws. As I understand it, there will be no attempt to bind anybody to anything."

CAROLINE MUSANTE CLAIMS NEW ATTACK

Girl, Abducted in February, Says Two Men Made Her Drink Bitter Liquid.

Fredericksburg, Va., May 9 (A.P.).—Caroline Musante, 13-year-old Stafford County girl for whose alleged kidnaping recently two men are under arrest, told police tonight that she was attacked late today by two unidentified men.

She said the two men rushed upon her while she was in the yard of her home, bound her hand and foot and forced her to drink a "bitter" liquid from a bottle.

The girl said one of them told her that "after a couple of hours you won't be able to say anything." After placing a burlap bag over her head, the men left her near the chicken house, she said.

She was found by her sister, Kathleen, and the girl's parents were notified. Caroline was taken to a Fredericksburg hospital, where physicians emptied her stomach in an effort to determine if she had been poisoned.

Commonwealth Attorney G. B. Wallace said that an analysis of the contents had not been made, but expressed the belief that she would be able to accompany him to Baltimore tomorrow, where extradition proceedings are to be held for William Kendall, one of two men charged with the kidnaping.

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—After declaring in a police line-up that he had never been in Virginia, Harvey Otis was held without bail today for a hearing May 16 in the alleged kidnaping of a 13-year-old Virginia girl.

"I don't know a thing about it," Otis told police. "I was never in Virginia. At the time of this alleged kidnaping I was in Baltimore on the Steel Age." He was arrested as a fugitive last night when the Steel Age, an oil tanker on which he was employed, docked from Honolulu.

Dawes Burns

Effigy Flames as Chicago Pupils Rap Failure to Pay Teachers.

Chicago, May 9 (A.P.).—Several thousand school pupils gathered around a burning effigy of former Vice President Charles G. Dawes on Chicago's lake front late today in protest against the city's failure to pay its teachers.

Taking up the cudgels in behalf of their instructors, students of high schools and normal colleges paraded through the Loop, stormed the City Hall in an attempt to see Mayor Edward J. Kelly and finally wound up in Grant Park.

With the city's skyline as a background, they concluded their demonstration by burning the effigy. They criticized the prominent banker as one of a group for not purchasing tax warrants with funds by which teachers could be paid.

The effigy bore the sign, "$90,000,000 Charley." A high hat rested on the head and an underslung pipe was thrust into the mouth.

Connecticut Legalizes Sale of Wine and Beer

Hartford, Conn., May 9 (A.P.).—A proclamation legalizing the sale of 3.2 per cent beer and wine in Connecticut, effective tomorrow, was signed today by Gov. Wilbur L. Cross.

Hague Ticket Wins In Jersey Election

Jersey City, N. J., May 9 (A.P.).—Mayor Frank Hague and his Democratic organization ticket were swept into office for another four years in the city commission election today by large pluralities.

It is the fifth mayoralty term for Hague, Democratic national committeeman and prominent figure in the 1932 presidential campaign.

A fusion ticket, headed by James F. Murphy, ran far behind. Complete returns for the 305 districts gave the Hague ticket 84,066 votes, Murphy's ticket 28,673, and the Republican League candidates 802. The five successful commissioners are Hague, William B. Quinn, John J. Beggans, Michael I. Fagen and Arthur Potterton.

Six Persons Killed In Crash of Plane

Barcelona, Spain, May 9 (A.P.).—Six persons, including two pilots, the wireless operator and three passengers, were killed today when a French passenger plane fell near Viraglau. The plane, which belongs to the La Tecoere Co., was en route to Paris from Morocco.

Shortly before its crash in flames, it seemed to be in apparent difficulty, witnesses said. Rene Riguelle was the pilot, but the names of the other victims were not available immediately.

SYNDICALIST SIEGE KILLS 7 IN SPAIN

50 Hurt in Bombings and Rioting Aimed to Halt Nation's Industry.

Madrid, May 9 (A.P.).—Syndicalists tonight took advantage of nightfall to resume a terrorist reign in various sections of Spain, at least 7 persons being killed and 50 wounded in bombings and rioting in various cities.

Earlier in the day the government had issued a bulletin announcing that the threatened 48-hour strike was a "complete failure," while authorities in most cities had claimed to have the situation under control.

The strike was aimed to paralyze commerce and industry, with nation-wide terrorism as an objective.

The renewed activities were most pronounced at Barcelona, where groups attacked Catalan headquarters, placed bombs at the Avenida Theater and dynamited a street car. Another group sprayed several street cars with gasoline and attempted to burn them, but police intervened.

One civil guard and a number of rioters were wounded in several sharp exchanges. Seventy persons were arrested.

Syndicalists at Seville forced the passengers to alight from four street cars and then dynamited them. An undetermined number of demonstrators was arrested.

Four bombs which exploded at Coruna did considerable damage, while the rectory at the town of Ferrol was burned.

Bombay Doctor Called To End Gandhi Nausea

Poona, India, May 9 (A.P.).—A prominent Bombay physician was called here tonight to attend the Mahatma Gandhi, who developed symptoms of nausea during the second day of his three weeks' fast in protest against untouchability.

No Lenin

Nelson Rockefeller's Objection to Portrait Stops Work on Mural.

New York, May 9 (U.P.).—Diego Rivera, Mexican artist, said tonight that he had been forbidden to finish a huge mural painting in the R. C. A. Building of the Rockefeller Center because Nelson Rockefeller, one of its sponsors, objected to its inclusion of a portrait of Lenin.

Rivera, a professed Communist, declared he and seven assistants had been called down off the scaffolding by Rockefeller Center guards and informed they could not continue the 67-foot-long panel.

They had been working on the huge fresco more than six weeks.

The artist, dressed in paint-smeared overalls, said at the office of his lawyer, Philip Wittenberg, that the guards had handed him a letter, informing him of his dismissal, together with a check for the balance of his services. The check was for $14,000.

Louderback en Route To Face Charges Here

San Francisco, May 9 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Harold Louderback left tonight for Washington, D. C., to make final preparations for his trial before the Senate on five impeachment charges.

The trial will begin May 15.

BLACK WILL HEAD FEDERAL RESERVE

Roosevelt to Choose Atlanta Bank Governor for Meyer's Successor.

(Associated Press.)

Eugene Black, governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank, is definitely slated to succeed Eugene Meyer as governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

President Roosevelt has had Black in mind for one of the vacancies on the board, and when he encountered difficulty in finding the man he wanted for governor it is understood he decided upon Black to take over, at least temporarily, as head of the board.

Black is expected to be named immediately in order to help administer the new monetary legislation about to be enacted by Congress.

It is expected the administration will put into operation at once the provisions of the inflation bill permitting the purchase by the Government through the Federal Reserve System of outstanding Government bonds.

At present two vacancies exist on the Federal Reserve Board and a third will occur when the resignation of Gov. Meyer is formally accepted by the President. The place held by a former governor of the board, Roy Young, has never been filled nor has the vacancy caused by the failure of the Senate to confirm Wayland W. McGee.

McGee, who was appointed by President Hoover to fill an unexpired term that ended in February, was renominated by Mr. Hoover, but the Senate has never acted upon the nomination.

The members besides Gov. Meyer who are now in office are Charles S. Hamlin, Adolph C. Miller and George R. James. The resignation of Gov. Meyer left three places on the board to be filled by President Roosevelt, who also will name the governor. Secretary Woodin of the Treasury is an ex-officio member of the board and its chairman. The Comptroller of the Currency also is an ex-officio member.

The new governor of the Federal Reserve Bank will hold one of the most commanding positions in the

AmmunitionSeized Off Florida Coast

Miami, Fla., May 9 (A.P.).—Seizure of 76,000 rounds of ammunition at Tavanier, 75 miles south of Miami, by United States customs border patrolmen was confirmed here today after Sidney Brown, collector of customs at Tampa, made the announcement. The ammunition was of .44 caliber, suitable for pistols or for two types of foreign-made rifles.

Federal authorities declined to give out further information, saying they had not completed their work on the case.

The Miami Herald said it learned from reliable sources that the ammunition was destined for Cuban revolutionary forces and that it was about one-fourth of a shipment.

Paraguay Says Planes' Bombs Defied Red Cross

D. A. V. GROUP HITS NEW BONUS MARCH

Commander Says Movement on Capital Is Being Incited by Reds.

Strong opposition to the bonus army movement now developing for the second time in Washington was expressed last night at a meeting of Federal Chapter, No. 6, Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Oscar G. Jones, commander of the chapter, declared that the D. A. V. believes the bonus army movement is being incited by Reds and that the organization does not favor the holding of a huge demonstration as a means to attain its objects.

"More good can be realized by a 100 per cent attendance at the national convention of the D. A. V. in Cincinnati in June and the formulation of a proper program at that convention than by all the bonus army gatherings in the world," E. Claude Babcock, past national commander of the organization declared.

"What we need to do," Mr. Babcock said, "is to educate the disabled man into a knowledge of his own power by getting him into our outfit and formulating a program as strong as the one put over by the economy league. The bonus march doesn't amount to a whoop."

Disabled veterans of North Carolina plan to remove every member of Congress from the State and every office holder in the State who voted for the cuts in disability compensation, A. W. Hamilton, of Charlotte, N. C., declared. This news was greeted with applause by the local D. A. V. gathering.

Equality for Veterans Asked by Victory Post

Equal treatment for all former service men regardless of their affiliations or connections, while in Washington to demand payment of the soldier bonus was asked last night in a resolution adopted by Victory Post, No. 4, of the American Legion.

A copy of the resolution will be sent to the White House.

School Patrol Parade Canceled by A. A. A.

Postponement of the parade of the A. A. A. school patrols, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, was announced last night by the District of Columbia Division of the American Automobile Association. A new date will be announced.

In postponing the parade, consideration was given to the demands upon police authorities by reason of a large number of visitors in the city and the fact that officers assigned to work with the patrols may be called upon for other duties.

Glass Bill Amendment Hits Private Bankers

(Associated Press.)

The revised Glass bank reform and deposit insurance bill was finally approved yesterday by a Senate banking subcommittee with an important amendment to restrict the business of private banking houses.

The subcommittee added an amendment to require that private bankers such as J. P. Morgan & Co., which accepts deposits as well as deal in securities, must confine their functions to either one of these operations. Under the amendment private bankers which accepted deposits could not do an investment banking business and vice versa.

Sputtering Bomb Found in City Hall

Savannah, Ga., May 9 (A.P.).—A dynamite bomb with sputtering fuse attached was discovered in the city hall here today just in time to prevent what might have been a disastrous explosion.

Eight sticks of dynamite were in the bomb, wrapped in heavy paper bags and with a 6-inch pipe protruding. The fuse, lighted and burned close to the explosive, was run through the pipe.

The bomb was discovered in the rotunda of the second floor of the building, close to the office of Mayor Thomas Gamble, by Thomas D. Pruitt, a local resident, who said he went to the city hall in search of work. Pruitt cut the fuse and summoned employes who immediately called police. Pruitt was detained for questioning.

Two Are Jailed In Dispossession

Vincent Marino and his wife, of Woodside, Md., yesterday moved their residence to the Rockville Jail. Sheriff Richard H. Lansdale moved them there after Marino is alleged to have threatened to shoot the sheriff and his aids when they went to the Marino house to dispossess them.

According to police, the sheriff and his deputies went to the Marino home with a court order in favor of the mortgage holders. Marino is alleged to have told them he would not move his goods and the sheriff began moving them to the street. The man threatened to shoot them from his automobile, the officers said. They found a pistol in the car and took him to the Silver Spring Police Station.

Meantime, Mrs. Marino arrived and went into hysterics which kept up all afternoon despite the efforts of most of the feminine help at the County Building and the police. Sergt. Guy L. Jones called Dr. Gerald Scully, who said the woman was not in a serious condition.

Kaufmann to Give Jewish Drive Plan

An important meeting of the special assignment committee of the United Jewish Campaign will be held this noon at the Jewish Community Center. Edmund I. Kaufmann, drive chairman, will outline to the committee a plan to obtain larger contributions in the drive for eastern European relief and Palestine reconstruction.

The main body of men workers in the drive will gather tomorrow night at the Jewish center under the eladership of Judge Nathan Cayton, head of the men's division. Invitations have been sent out to 500 prospective volunteer workers.

The women workers will gather Friday afternoon at a tea at Woodmont Country Club. Judge Cayton will address this gathering also.

Letters Commend Post Milk Series

The public interest in the series of articles in The Post dealing with milk and cream prices in the District is reflected in the following letters received from readers.

Price of Milk in Washington Long a Surprise to President J. G. Yaden, of Federation of Citizens.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As president of the Federation of Citizens Associations of the District of Columbia, I wish to express my appreciation of the constructive and helpful work of The Washington Post in its series of articles on the price of milk in Washington, D. C.

I have not understood in the past why it is necessary for the Washington, D. C. consuming public to have to pay more for milk than do the consumers of other large cities throughout the United States.

We are told that we get a much higher grade of milk in Washington than do the consumers of other cities, and granting that this may be true, I still am not convinced that the difference in price paid for milk in Washington and in other cities is justified.

The articles in The Washington Post on this subject have convinced me that we are having to pay too much for milk in this city. I trust that through your constructive articles you will be able to throw sufficient light on the differentiation in the price of milk in Washington and elsewhere that in some way we may have a reduction in the cost of milk in Washington, D. C.

Again thanking you fo. the constructive work which your paper is doing in this instance, I remain,

J. G. YADEN,
President, Federation of Citizens Associations.

Government Employes, in Lodge Meeting, Protest Milk Prices and Commend Expose in Columns of Post.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: at a special meeting of the Panama Canal Lodge, No. 6, American Federation of Government Employes, called by its president, C. M. Mears, and held today, a motion protesting the retail prices of milk and cream in the District of Columbia was unanimously adopted.

The motion also commended The Washington Post for exposing the exorbitant and unreasonable prices imposed upon the consumers of milk and cream in the District of Columbia, and directed the secretary to notify The Washington Post and the Washington Dairy Council Association of the action taken.

E. P. SPRINGER, Secretary.

Reasons Stated for High Cost of Milk Here; Cut Is Seen as Disastrous to Dairy Farmers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been reading articles in your paper on the high cost of milk and cream in Washington. You seem to be agitating for some drop in milk prices in the District.

Today (Monday), you state there exists a 51 per cent higher milk price than in 1913, a price 54 per cent higher than that for other commodities in that year. I can not give you exact figures, but wish you to look into the following points you seem to have neglected.

1. Washington's sanitary requirements for the farmer are the most rigid of any city in the United States.

2. Washington's milk shed farmers are required to annually spend a large per cent of their profits in improvements due to "new requirements" to ship milk.

3. In Washington the large milk distributers are trust controlled—it is the distributer not the farmer who gets the excess for his milk.

4. Any cut now in producer prices means disaster for dairy farmers—many of whom have borrowed for their expensive equipment.

I realize this letter will be given very little thought, still as a Post reader for many a year I take this first opportunity to express my disagreement toward your paper's policy on milk.

Cost of Milk Falls Heaviest on Families with Children, Writes Woman Offering Figures on Food Expenditures.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Washington Post is greatly to be commended for calling the attention of the public to the milk prices charged in this city. You have shown that the cost of milk is unnecessarily high, and higher than in other cities. I should like to point out that it is, furthermore, a toll which falls heaviest on families with children.

Perhaps you might be interested in some corroborative detail, which a housewife working at her job can furnish. For some time I have been keeping a careful account of my expenditures for food, grouped under such headings as meat, dry groceries, milk, fruit, vegetables, &c. I am also keeping a record of the number of persons served at each meal so that I may compute the cost per person.

At first I could not understand why, in spite of careful buying and greatly reduced prices, my total expenditures for food since the beginning of this year, should be only slightly less than the expenditures of other years. I soon saw that milk was the constant factor. In January, of all money spent for food, 21 per cent went to the dairy company; in February, 20 per cent; in March, 24 per cent; in April, 23 per cent. This does not include so-called "dairy products," like butter, cream and cheese. It is nothing but milk.

The family consists of two adults and two growing children. We take two quarts of milk daily, of which the children drink 1½ quarts, that is, a glass apiece at each meal, the minimum allowance for health, so authorities say. The rest is used in cooking, with just a tablespoon or two of cream stolen from the top of one of the bottles for my husband's morning coffee.

The average cost per meal thus far this year in my household has been between 8 and 9 cents per person, not including milk served to the children as a beverage. One glass of milk adds a third to the cost of the meal! We have had well-balanced meals, with plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, meat occasionally and a rather smaller proportion of starches and prunes than went into the menus suggested by the home economics experts of Cornell University. The "Cornell" luncheon served at the White House, and described in The Post a few weeks ago costs 9 cents a person, with 2 1-2 cents additional where milk was served. The latter is no doubt the Ithaca price, for if Mrs. Roosevelt had ordered her milk of a Washington dairy at 13 cents a quart, she should have added 3¼ cents for each child served.

Yesterday I was in Frederick, Md., and inquired about the price of milk in that town. Bottled pasteurized milk is 8 cents per quart there. Does not much of our milk come from the region around Frederick? And if so, are not the Washington companies reaping an inordinate profit?

Perhaps some of this profit goes into newspaper advertising and radio programs of competing dairies, in which each child is urged to drink a quart of milk daily, "in order to be strong and healthy." If some one milk company sincerely wishes the children of Washington to be strong and healthy, let it dispense with offers of prizes and premiums and other sales promotion ideas, and make it easier for parents to buy the product by lowering the price. But that would probably not be in accordance with the curious ethics of milk, coal and other such companies.

Milk Prices Here Called Racket, Costing People of Washington $20,000 to $25,000 Daily, Declares Dairyman, Thankful for Expose.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In reference to your articles in The Washington Post concerning the milk situation in Washington, I wish to thank you for myself and the whole community of Washington, District of Columbia, for your efforts along this line, which is the most crying need of the people of Washington today.

Babies and children are undernourished due to the high price of milk. We have a racket here which costs the people of Washington from $20,000 to $25,000 per day. Al Capone was only a piker compared to these. The gangsters in Chicago brought the milk down to 9 cents per quart, which is more than the authorities in Washington have been able to do for the community of Washington.

J. WILLIAM SHEA.

Washington, D. C.

P. S.—I live on a small farm myself and produce about 15 gallons of milk per day. The editor and the staff writer deserve a vote of thanks from the community of Washington for bringing this to light.

Price of Cream Shown Much Out of Line Compared With Price of Butter of Which It Is Composed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is about time some one exposed the milk and cream racket in Washington, and congratulate you upon the series of articles published in The Washington Post.

Did it ever occur to you how much out of line the price of butter is in Washington with the price of cream. During the last year good butter has retailed in Washington at 22½ cents a pound. I do not know how much cream is required to produce a pound of butter, but I should judge two pounds would be a conservative estimate, otherwise a quart. Therefore a pound of butter would have cost 22½ cents against $1.15 for the cream, which has not required so much processing.

Reductions in Price Always Passed on to Producer by Distributor, Who Spares Himself Any Cut, Says Herndon Man.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am following with a great deal of interest your investigation of the milk situation in Washington, D. C. Before completing your investigation, I think it proper and fair for you to look up the prices of retail milk from 1913-1933 and also the prices received by the producer during these years. You will find, if I am not mistaken, that every decline in price to the consumer was correspondingly shared by the producer, and that the city dealer or milk distributor did not share in the reductions to the extent of the dairy farmer. If there had been a true cooperative spirit the past 15 or 20 years between the producer and distributor the price of milk in Washington would have been lower, but history records that reductions were always handed the producer. Thanking you for a reply.

C. L. KRONFELD.

DAIRY FARMERS WELL PAID FOR CAPITAL MILK SUPPLY

$2.79, because for each one-tenth per cent increase in the butter fat content he received an additional 7 cents per hundredweight. For instance, if the milk he sells has a butter fat content of 4 per cent, he receives $3.14 per hundredweight.

The allowances for the increase in the butter fat content are made generally throughout the country. The allowance paid to local producers is the highest paid any dairy farmers in dairy cooperatives, according to figures of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Association.

While the Washington milk producers are given 7 cents for each one-tenth per cent increase in butter fat, the farmers in other sections receive 3 to 4 cents. Baltimore pays 5.8 cents for each one-tenth of 1 per cent increase.

If a Washington producer delivers 100 pounds of milk to the dealer having 4 per cent butterfat, he receives an additional 35 cents per hundredweight, or $3.14. The additional allowance per hundredweight paid to dairy farmers in other sections of the country for milk having a butterfat content of 4 per cent, ranges from 15 to 20 cents.

The claim of the milk producers is that the high prices prevailing in Washington are directly attributable to the exacting regulations which they are required to meet before they are permitted by the District health officer to place their milk on the local market.

It is a fact that the health regulations are more stringent here than in other cities; but there is a question whether these regulations are entirely responsible for the exceptionally high prices.

In Baltimore, for instance, the standards required by the health department are high; but Baltimoreans pay 2 cents less for a quart of milk than do consumers in the local market.

On the distribution end of the local milk market, there has been a general tendency in the past five years toward concentration of the control of distribution. More than half of the milk consumed in Washington is distributed by companies controlled by the National Dairy Products Corporation, a New York holding company.

This company controls the Chestnut Farms Dairy and the Chevy Chase Dairy. In the last few years the holding company has been also absorbing most of the smaller dairies in Washington.

Another article dealing with an interesting phase of the milk situation in Washington will appear exclusively tomorrow in The Post.

CITIZENS PROTEST D. C. MILK PRICES

Sixteenth Street Body Takes Formal Action Against Dairy Products Rate.

The Sixteenth Street Heights Citizens Association last night went on record against the high price of milk in the District, as disclosed by the series of articles now running in The Washington Post.

Overriding a contention by Mrs. H. M. Phillips, of the association, that the price of milk in the Capital must remain high because of the strict regulations governing pasteurizing and sanitation, the members declared that regardless of higher sanitation costs, the price of milk is too high.

The motion was introduced by P. E. Schmidt, member of the group, and after short discussion, passed. The motion will be sent to the Federation of Citizens Associations for action at its next meeting.

James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, in a letter to The Post, yesterday gave his hearty approval of disclosures of milk prices being made in The Post's articles.

Following the business session, Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendent of schools, told of the cost of education and operation of public schools. School enrollment has increased since 1929, Mr. Haycock said, because young people are unable to obtain employment. This, in turn, has increased the cost of school operation, he said.

More rigid child labor laws have also tended to increase enrollment by keeping children in school until they are old enough to work, he said.

A motion was passed indorsing the Community Chest's request for $42,000 for the coming year.

Senator Long Free Of Suit for Slander

(Associated Press.)

Because a court found members of Congress can not waive their immunity, Louisiana's Senator Huey P. Long was free yesterday of a slander suit filed against him by Brig. Gen. Samuel T. Ansell, retired, but a libel action by the same plaintiff was allowed to continue.

The two suits, each seeking $500,000 damages, were brought against the self-described "Kingfish" because of the terrific tongue-lashing given Ansell by Long in the Senate last February. The libel action, however, was based on alleged distribution of these and other remarks by the senator in leaflets broadcast about the country.

Justice James M. Proctor, of the District Supreme Court, was asked to quash service of process on the senator in the latter case; but he refused.

He accepted the contention of Long's attorney, Raymond N. Beebe, that since the Constitution holds that no member of Congress may be held accountable in court for anything said in course of debate, the immunity can not be regarded as a personal privilege, but rather a declaration that the courts do not possess jurisdiction.

Parents' Trip Delayed By Son's Disappearance

Local and nearby Maryland police were asked yesterday to look out for John Smith, jr., 12, who disappeared from College Park, Md., last week while his parents were temporarily residing there.

His parents are now staying at 215 Indiana avenue northwest, their intended trip to Chicago having been interrupted by their son's disappearance.

Dr. Foster Delivers Tuberculosis Lecture

A polyglot assembly of nearly a hundred men and women of different nationalities last night at the Americanization School, Tenth and H streets northwest, listened intently to a practical talk on health and prevention of tuberculosis by Dr. Stuart O. Foster, of the tuberculosis committee of the Medical Society of the District. The lecture, which was illustrated with lantern slides, was one of the series conducted by the local Tuberculosis Association in its early diagnosis campaign.

The meeting was under the direction of Miss M. E. Alton, principal of the school.

WAGES INCREASED AS PLANTS REOPEN

Bosses Decide to Give Men Part of Profits Caused by Price Rises.

(Associated Press.)

American workmen marched back to their jobs by the hundreds yesterday and many of them read notices at the door that wages were up 10 per cent.

Encouraged by orders piling up and by price advances for their products, many employes decided to share the profits with their employes.

One company, Planter Nut & Chocolate, of Suffolk, Va., announced pay envelopes would be padded by 20 per cent effective Wednesday.

There were several dozen other firms that added 5 or 10 per cent to wages, or else planned doing so as they called back hundreds of employes dropped as long as two years ago, reinstated night shifts, or reopened long-closed departments.

Steel mills, barrel factories, automobile plants, rubber companies, clothing manufacturers—all of them were among firms that greeted pick-ups with screaming whistles that called men back to work.

Among the concerns that boosted wages, Supreme Shirt Co., of Philadelphia, 10 per cent; Armstrong Rubber Co., 10 per cent.

Ohio Storm Does $1,000,000 Damage

Dayton, Ohio, May 9 (A.P.).—A 70-mile-an-hour wind, accompanied by rain, hail and lightning swept across Southwestern Ohio today and caused damage estimated at $1,000,000. Ten persons were injured here, none seriously.

Hundreds of buildings were unroofed and power lines and trees were blown down. The wind sent a chimney of the power plant of Lincoln School here crashing through the roof of the school's cafeteria. The 900 pupils were thrown into a panic, but none was hurt.

Dayton apparently bore the brunt of the storm, heads of public utilities estimating the damage in this city at $750,000. Loss in and about New Madison and Castine in Stark County, where orchards were damaged, was put at $100,000. Additional damage was caused at Xenia and eastward.

Third Suspect to Face Bank Holdup Witnesses

Witnesses to the recent $7,640 holdup of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank branch at Eighth and G streets southeast will be taken to Philadelphia tonight to view a third suspect arrested in the robbery yesterday.

The prisoner, Max Zove, will be given an extradition hearing today before the United States commissioner in the Pennsylvania city. The two other suspects will be given a hearing Friday. According to local police they have already been identified in connection with the holdup.

Switchman Hurts Hand While Coupling Cars

Theodore Birge, 51, of 3640 Fourth street northeast, a switchman, suffered a badly crushed right hand late yesterday while coupling cars of a B & O freight train at Fourth and S streets northeast.

He was given first aid by the Fire Rescue Squad and later treated at Emergency Hospital. It probably will be necessary to amputate two fingers.

FARMERS REQUEST WALLACE OUSTER

Minnesota Holiday Association Bases Plea on Fact Price-Fixing Opposed.

Montevideo, Minn., May 9 (A.P.).—A request that President Roosevelt remove Agriculture Secretary Wallace from office was made by the Minnesota Farmers Holiday Association late today.

The association, in a resolution, said it asked this because the Secretary had not been in sympathy with efforts to guarantee agrarians the cost of production through national legislation.

The resolution as adopted said: "Whereas, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has not favored the cost of production bill for agricultural products; be it resolved, that the Minnesota Farmers Holiday Association asks the President of the United States to have Secretary Wallace removed from office."

Waiting for Honest Dollar.

The association members also decided they would pay no interest, taxes or other debts until the dollar became an "honest measure of value."

While 4,000 convention delegates, who yesterday voted to join the farm strike starting Saturday, declared in addition for a national presidential moratorium on farm, city home and personal property foreclosures, and other relief measures, these developments came in the agricultural situation:

Urge Civil Disobedience.

Distribution of circulars urging civil disobedience among farmers, based on the campaign led by the Mahatma Gandhi in India, was revealed in Minneapolis.

Gov. Clyde L. Herring, of Iowa, announced martial law rule would end in Crawford and Plymouth Counties Thursday at 9 a. m., and that civil courts would resume operations.

At Omaha, Nebr., W. W. Waters, commander of last summer's bonus expeditionary march on Washington, offered to back up with evidence his statement that the farm strike scheduled to start Saturday was "being fomented, urged and fanned into action by Communists." He declared agents of Communist organizations were active throughout the "farming district."

CONGRESS LEADERS LOOK TOWARD FINISH

influential spokesmen of American industry.

Every provision has been made in the phraseology of the proposed new law to protect the public interest against violation of the antitrust law.

The Sherman and Clayton acts are to remain on the statute books, save where they operate to prevent Government-approved trade-association arrangements designed to maintain higher standards of wages and working conditions.

House leaders anticipate that when this situation is clearly explained to those petitioning for a caucus on antitrust laws, the feeble demand for a caucus binder will be abandoned.

Rail Bill Up Soon.

The fourth major item advanced on the legislative ways yesterday was the railroad coordination bill, which would establish an experimental Federal control for one year in the interest of economy.

Before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee hearings were begun with a view to hastening a decision upon the final provisions of the measure within ten days.

Railroad labor has expressed vigorous opposition to the coordination plan, principally on the ground that all of the economies sought are to be realized eventually through reducing the number of workers.

Suggests Crossing Elimination.

Joseph B. Eastman, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, suggested that complete elimination of railroad grade crossings at public expense might serve to offset the pay roll deflation contemplated in the consolidation and coordination program.

"To a very considerable extent," he told the committee, "the elimination or reduction of waste will involve loss of employment to railroad labor."

The House Labor Committee has received from a special subcommittee a new draft of the 30-hour-week bill, modified to eliminate the provisions which would have centralized virtually all industrial management in the hands of Secretary Perkins.

Even in its new form, however, this bill carries the so-called import embargo, which would exclude all foreign goods produced in factories working more than 30 hours a week.

President Roosevelt has indicated his unqualified opposition to this provision.

The bill is generally regarded as dead for the present session.

Two Held to Grand Jury As Fatal Crash Sequel

Walter H. Allison, 19, of 2912 Twelfth street northwest, and John C. Price, 35, of 312 Indiana avenue northwest, drivers of the two vehicles involved in the collision at Thirtieth and Q streets northwest, Monday, in which Jesse V. Shipley, 24, of 1650 Avon place northwest, was killed, were ordered held for the grand jury by a coroner's jury yesterday.

Shipley died en route to Emergency Hospital. Allison, driver of the vehicle in which Shipley was a passenger, was slightly injured.

Farley Sees Building As Key to Recovery

Chicago, May 9 (A.P.).—Complete business recovery is dependent upon a revival of the building industry, Postmaster General James A. Farley said today at the opening session of the National Conference for the Renewal of Home Building.

"There is never any prosperity in a country unless the building business is active, and there must be a resumption of construction before the depression is lifted," Farley said.

Britain Reports 80,000 Fewer Idle Than March

London, May 9 (A.P.).—Eighty thousand more persons were at work in Great Britain in April than in March. The total unemployed was 2,697,000.

Since the end of January there has been a fall of 200,000, but there are still 45,453 more unemployed than a year ago. Improvement is at present noticed in building, tailoring, distributive industries, brick and tile making, dock and road building and hotel services.

Headlights on Sheep Proposed in Montana

Buttle, Mont., May 9 (A.P.).—J. N. Gossett, Madison County sheepman, proposes putting headlights on sheep. A few animals wearing collars fitted with a flashlight battery and a red reflector on the lamp, he said, will protect a band of several thousand sheep from slinking coyotes and raiding cougars.

He finds the light doesn't bother the sheep and scares off the intruders.

Colorado May Delay Repeal Action to Fall

Denver, May 9 (A.P.).—A special election for selection of delegates to a constitutional convention on the question of ratification or rejection of repeal of the eighteenth amendment was approved by the Colorado House of Representatives yesterday.

The House set the date for the special election September 16 and the convention date October 4. Previously the Senate had set the election June 29 and the convention August 7. It was believed the Senate would concur in the House amendments.

WALKER HOLDS OWN FOR COMMISSIONER

Game of Hide-and-Go-Seek Continues for High District Post.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

The merry game of guessing the identity of the new District Commissioners was going forward yesterday at the same old pace, although the odds on some of the leaders were changing.

One Democrat who has proved himself through service in the cause of the party was considered as still the odds-on bet—Ernest G. Walker.

Beyond that odds were laid according to the sympathies of the supporters of various other candidates. Melvin C. Hazen, District surveyor, who is widely known and much liked; Harry King, head of the King's Palace department store on upper Seventh street, who is the candidate of George Marshall, who has his home decorated in the same colors with which he decorated the numerous laundry offices which have earned him the title of the "big wet wash man," were considered in local political gossip as likely candidates.

Surprise to Bride.

Mr. Hazen had been thought to have the inside track. It had been thought that Mr. Walker and he would be named the new civilian commissioners. Mr. Marshall, however, plunged into the middle and enlisted the aid of a nationally known publisher, through his friendship with the publisher's local representative, and Mr. King may be appointed. One of Mr. King's family is employed by Mr. Marshall and another member of Mr. King's family acts as Mr. Marshall's attorney.

One of the rumors was that Postmaster General James A. Farley has listed the name of William W. Bride, corporation counsel, as among the favored few to be seriously considered for the post. Probably no one in Washington was more surprised about that than Mr. Bride, because he has not been a candidate in any sense and has not contemplated the possibility of his appointment, despite the fact that such a development would be eminently satisfactory to many members of the House and the Senate, including Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), of New Jersey, chairman of the powerful House District Committee.

Prospects of McConihe.

The name of John W. Childress, former chairman of the District Public Utilities Commissions, confirmation of whose reappointment was refused by the Senate, continues to be pushed forward by powerful public utilities interests.

The candidacy of Malcolm S. McConihe, who has been one of the "angels" of the local Democratic organization in bearing the tremendous burden of getting 40,000 Democratic votes to the polls in the various States, also is being actively advanced. Mr. McConihe has won the friendship and support of several influential persons in local Democratic ranks and it is no secret that the local Democratic organization would infinitely prefer his appointment to that of some of the other men who have been prominently mentioned for the post.

CIVITAN CLUB DECORATES SEVEN STUDENTS

Cited by the principals of their schools as "representatives of good citizenship and displaying outstanding leadership among their fellow students," seven District public and parochial high school students were presented with medals by the Civitan Club at a banquet in the Hamilton Hotel last night. Left to right: Shelton T. Cameron, president of the club, who made the presentations; Lucien McDonald, Central High; Charles Tyng, Western High; Abe Singer, Roosevelt High; George Bon Durant, McKinley High; Joseph Dawson, Gonzaga High, and Robert E. Lee, Eastern High. William Tobin, of St. John's College, a finalist in the oratorical contest at Catholic University last night, also received a medal.

TEAR GAS CHECKS GRANITE STRIKERS

Bombs Hurled by Militia at Barre, Vt., Disperse Threats of Riot.

Barre, Vt., May 9 (A.P.).—Tear gas was used late today by Vermont National Guardsmen as they dispersed crowds which gathered here in demonstrations by striking granite workers. Three times the guardsmen, who carried rifles with fixed bayonets, hurled gas bombs into the crowd.

The first gas attack was made in an effort to disperse a crowd of about 400 men who gathered in front of the Granite Workers Union headquarters on Main street. Moving north through the city as the guardsmen pressed them, the crowd gathered more followers until it totaled about 1,000 as it reached the granite cutting plant of Beck & Beck Co. There a demonstration against workmen who had returned to their jobs was nipped by another attack of gas.

Another crowd gathered near the home of Alfred Tanton, a worker, to await his return home but a barrage of gas broke it up.

Because of disorders last night, Gov. Stanley C. Wilson today ordered a company of Bellows Falls guardsmen to this city, bringing the number on duty in the Barre-Montpelier granite belt to 250.

$1,500 Due Roosevelt From Dutchess County

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 9 (A.P.).—Dutchess County will pay the President of the United States $1,500, if proceedings now before the board of supervisors are approved.

The $1,500 would be paid to Mr. Roosevelt for land taken from his Hyde Park estate by the county in the reconstruction of Violet avenue. The Roosevelt Hyde Park home is on the outskirts of Poughkeepsie.

Interment at Holy Rood Cemetery.

Oil Station Attendant Mistakes First Lady

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in New York today after a week's motor trip about the State, told this one:

On the outskirts of Binghamton several days ago, driving her blue roadster, she stopped to buy some gasoline.

The attendant, as the purchase was completed, gazed at her for a moment and said:

"Did anyone ever tell you that you look just like Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt?"

"Oh, lots of times," Mrs. Roosevelt replied, and drove on.

JAPANESE ADVANCE NEARS LWANCHOW

Train Will Take Foreigners From War Zone in North China.

Tientsin, China, May 9 (A.P.).—Japanese troops, apparently victorious in several major engagements, were reported tonight to be pushing on toward Lwanchow, the principal city between Tientsin and the north coast.

Fears that Tientsin, less than 100 miles west of the battlefront, would be attacked by the invaders increased as Japanese aviators bombed Changli, Funing, Lulung, and Lwanchow. Heavy fighting occurred between Chinese cavalry men and the Japanese at Anshan also, according to Chinese dispatches.

In a battle near Tsienan there were 100 Japanese casualties and 1,500 Chinese casualties, the Japanese reported. After occupying Tsienan, a Japanese infantry brigade was pressing on toward Lwanchow, driving Chinese troops before them.

Passenger traffic on the railway to the sea from Peiping and Tientsin, in which about 3,000 Americans reside, was cut off at Lwanchow.

Peiping, May 9 (U.P.).—The United States minister, Nelson T. Johnson, said today that American diplomatic and military authorities in north China are ready to cooperate in running an international train for the evacuation of foreigners in the war zone.

Johnson's indication of the American attitude was in response to a query by the Japanese charge d'affaires here, Shoichi Nakayama. The Japanese are expected to attack Peiping within a week.

POLITICIAN DRUGGED AND KIDNAPED IN CAR

Says $2,000 of Township Funds Were Stolen by Three Abductors.

Monroe, Mich., May 9 (A.P.).—William C. Pocklington, 35, who said he was a Lake County (Ill.) supervisor and commissioner of the port in Benton township, that county, arrived at the home of an aunt in Dundee, Mich., today and said he had been kidnaped from Waukegan by three men, who robbed him of $2,000 of township funds.

He said his three abductors called him to their automobile near his garage in Waukegan last Friday, covered him with a gun, forced him into their car and then gave him something that forced him to lose consciousness. The next he knew, he said he was in Milwaukee.

Then, he said, he remembers nothing more until he found himself beside a road in Michigan, he believed near Grand Rapids. How he got to Dundee, 145 miles away by a circuitous route, he claimed not to know.

He called the sheriff of Lake County from Dundee today and said he would return home tomorrow morning.

Pocklington said his abductors found the $2,000 he had secreted in his shirt but overlooked some more money he had in his trousers. Apparently, he said, he used that money in his subsequent wanderings.

He was at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Etta Gee, tonight. He said he was married and had four sons.

It was his second abduction, he said, since he entered politics 10 years ago.

Pocklington said he also is a member of a beer licensing board in Illinois.

Jews Plan Protest March in New York

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—A parade in which the American Jewish Congress expects 250,000 to participate is scheduled to march from Madison Square to the Battery tomorrow afternoon to protest German anti-Semitism and especially the burning of Jewish writers' books planned for that time. Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commander of the Twenty-seventh Division of the A. E. F., will lead the parade. As the procession passes City Hall Mayor John P. O'Brien will review it.

After the parade addresses are scheduled by Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State in the Wilson Cabinet; Gen. O'Ryan, Dr. John Haynes Holmes, former Representative F. H. LaGuardia, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise and others.

WENTWORTH GROUP MAKES OPERA HIT

"The Pirates of Penzance" Is Ably Presented at Roosevelt High.

With the assurance of professionals the Estelle Wentworth opera group sang Gilbert and Sullivan's classic "The Pirates of Penzance," last evening at the Roosevelt High School, and completely eclipsed their earlier commendable performances of "The Mikado" and "H. M. S. Pinafore." Although the size of the audience left something to be desired, this current presentation of the Community Center Department did not lack for spontaneous auricular evidence of appreciation for the masterful rendition of Sir Authur Sullivan's outstanding choral comic opera.

If Miss Wentworth's group never does another thing, its laurels have been won, for the a capella rendering of "Hail, Poetry, Thou Heaven-Born Maid!" marks a point in Washington's amateur theatrical history that no future triumph can eradicate.

To the cast only unqualified praise can be given. Merely to mention the personnel seems casual and perfunctory.

Suffice it to say, however, that J. Raymond Baine, as Frederic, the pirate apprentice; Elliott Button, as the pirate king; Ira P. Mayer, as Gen. Stanley; Harry E. Yeide, as the police sergeant, and Alma Harris, Lucie Chaconas, Margaret Horn, and Virginia Weedon, as the general's daughters; Mildred Sherman, as the piratical maid-of-all-work; and Harry Crow, as the pirate king's right-hand man, did nobly by their assigned parts.

Miss Wentworth deserves a huge bouquet of orchids for her indefatigable labors in training and directing the company, as well as playing the entire accompaniment.

Other members of the company included—

Gen. Stanley's Other Daughters: Helen Bache, Mary Bruton, Catherine Davis, Ruth Edwards, Peggy Fear, Betty Galbraith, Edith Hamacher, Germaine Johnson, Mary Kelly, Ella Neuland, Eleanor Neuland, Margaret Phillips, Dorothy Shiner, Betty Sikken, Helen Tucker, Margaret Vogt, Irene White, Anne Wilson, Irene Woltz.

Pirates: Fred Au, James Bussey, John Dulin, R. R. Edwards, Marvin Fisher, Robert Gardner, Randall Gardner, George Hayes, Carl Horn, William Hutton, Marcus Kleaver, Dick Lamb, Edwin Ludwig, James Peat, Clyde Phillips, Saverio Pisciotta, Vincent Pisciotta, Louis Rose, Ralph Shoemaker, Merrick Spalding, Harry Stafford, Joseph Stapleton, Bryant Tuckerman, Carl Vogt, Joseph Wheeler, Thomas Zepp.

Policemen: John Dulin, Robert Gardner, George Hayes, Dick Lamb, Edwin Ludwig, Ralph Shoemaker, Merrick Spalding, Bryant Tuckerman, Carl Vogt, Joseph Wheeler.

"The Pirates" will be repeated this evening at the Roosevelt High School auditorium at 8:30.

Buck Denies Help In Kidnaping Case

Barnstable, Mass., May 9 (A.P.).—A complete refutation of previous statements that "other parties" were involved with him in the kidnaping of Margaret "Peggy" McMath was made today by Kenneth Buck.

In a sworn statement given to Police Chief E. E. Hall, of Harwich, Kenneth exonerated his brother Cyril, held in the county jail here with him, of any participation in the actual abduction and took "full blame and responsibility for the crime and implicates no other person." Hall said Buck's brother Lawrence Buck, of Somerville, had been instrumental in obtaining the new statement, which Kenneth said he would sign later.

Kenneth is charged with kidnaping and extortion and Cyril with extortion. They are held in $100,000 bonds each awaiting a hearing May 22. Police charge Kenneth took "Peggy" from her school May 2, collected $60,000 ransom from Neil C. McMath, her father, and returned her to him on board a boat near the McMath home on May 5. Cyril allegedly acted as intermediary.

Chicago Fair Borrows Four Toledo Paintings

Chicago, May 9 (A.P.).—Four masterpieces borrowed from the Toledo Museum of Art for the duration of the Century of Progress Exposition, will arrive here tomorrow, the art institute announced today.

They will come under the supervision of Blake-More Godwin, director of the museum. They are Velasquez' "Man With a Wineglass," Holbein's "Catherine Howard," fifth wife of Henry VIII; Reynolds' "Honorable Mrs. Watson," and "After the Meeting," by Cecelia Beaux, an American painter.

JURY FINDS CANCER TREATMENT BRUTAL

Drs. Street, Ferris Charged With "Criminal Conduct" in Woman's Death.

Baltimore, May 9 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury, investigating the death of Mrs. Cora Britton at a hospital here May 4, reported tonight she died as a result of "criminal conduct, gross malpractice and brutal treatment at the hands of Dr. H. R. Street and Dr. Sherwood Ferris."

The jury further directed that "our findings be communicated to the authorities of Montgomery County for such action as they may deem proper in the premises."

Dr. Ferris lives at Chevy Chase, Md., and Dr. Street in Washington. Neither is connected with the Baltimore hospital where Mrs. Britton was admitted more than a month ago, suffering from a severe injury to her chest.

Both the men named by the jury attended the inquest conducted by Dr. Otto M. Reinhardt, coroner, but left before the verdict was returned, according to their counsel.

Theodore F. Voilten, county policeman assigned to the Montgomery County State's attorney office, said he would report the jury's findings to Stedman Prescott, State's attorney.

Mrs. Britton was the wife of Dr. Roland L. Britton, of Mays Landing, N. J.

Witnesses at the inquest testified that in January Mrs. Britton was taken to Washington by friends and her husband to be treated by a "secret medicine that devours cancer," invented by Dr. Street.

They said she was taken to his cancer sanatorium in Washington and later to Dr. Ferris' home in Chevy Chase, where the salve was applied. She remained there, they added, for further treatment until removed to Baltimore, April 2.

Dr. W. B. D. Penniman, Baltimore chemist, said the salve contained more than 10 per cent zinc chloride, "a very strong corrosive that destroys chemically as well as mechanically."

Testimony also was given by several Baltimore physicians and nurses who attended Mrs. Britton.

Advance Tax Payments Meet Lewiston Deficit

Lewiston, Me., May 9 (A.P.).—Three weeks ago, Lewiston, unable to negotiate the customary $350,000 temporary loan in anticipation of tax collection, reached down, grabbed its bootstraps and attempted to pull itself out of the hole.

Today the feat has been accomplished—advance payments of taxes to be committed next August had passed the $350,000 mark. All current bills and pay rolls have been met and a final payment of $50,000 will be made tomorrow cleaning up a $122,000 State tax delinquency.

War-Torn Veteran Pleads Anti-Disease Test Go On

Will L. Williamson, 42, Who Has Submitted to 26 Amputations, May Appeal to Roosevelt to Give Heed to Continued Lake Treatment.

Acting on his own initiative in behalf of fellow sufferers, a war-torn veteran is in Washington to plead with the Government to continue a successful nine-man experiment at Soap Lake, Wash., for curing the dread Buerger's disease, a form of gangrene.

Will L. Williamson, 42, victim of the disease, who has submitted to 26 amputations since 1921, hopes to plead his case before a Veterans' Administration committee and possibly President Roosevelt.

He will support his claims with physician's testimony declaring the mineral content of the lake's water the only cure for the disease yet found.

The experimental cure was begun in December, 1932, and is scheduled to be discontinued June 30. An initial appropriation of $15,000 was made for the tests.

Regardless of the success of the test, another appropriation will not be forthcoming due to the present economy program, Williamson said.

He said there are 700 veterans scattered throughout the country who are being treated for the disease in Government hospitals. "This treatment consists mostly of one amputation after another," he said.

In view of the successful tests he will advocate that these 700 men be quartered at the lake for the mineral water treatments. The lake is half way between Seattle and Spokane.

Williamson refuted recent rumors that he is in Washington as an advance man for the coming bonus army. "Such rumors are untrue," he said.

He was flown here from the Pacific Coast in an airplane furnished by the Standard Oil Co.

economic conference will probably be called into session by Sir John Simon the end of this week. Norman H. Davis will remain on in London until the committee has announced the result of American proposals for the tariff truce.

To Iron Out Reservations.

With the British acceptance practically assured, there only remains the subject of the reservations to be ironed out.

The influence of Prime Minister MacDonald was exerted on behalf of Secretary Hull's proposal, as up to Monday night Mr. Davis had been unable to get any kind of a reply from Walter Runciman, the chairman of the Board of Trade, a post of even greater importance than Secretary of Commerce here.

In the next week or ten days the solution of the joint problems of the experts to date, stabilization and tariff truce, will have advanced to such a stage that the President can begin the debt problem on the road that has already been smoothed by the preceding two agreements.

Dutch Minister Calls.

The significant visit of Dutch Minister J. H. van Royen was the subject of much comment here yesterday in view of the fight now being made in Dutch financial circles to prevent the fall from gold of the Dutch florin. Minister van Royen called at the Department of State twice yesterday and at the conclusion of his visit Undersecretary of State Phillips issued an arid communique.

The delegate of Chancellor Hitler, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, was a caller at the Department of State yesterday for conversations between him and his experts and the American technicians. He was with James C. Warburg in the morning and in the afternoon conferred with Assistant Secretary Moley's experts.

Secretary Hull and Senator Key Pittman headed the American delegation which conferred with Chinese Delegate T. V. Soong, yesterday. The main feature of the convefsations was, however, the exchange of views between Senator Pittman and Mr. Soong on the silver problem.

IT'S THE TOBACCO THAT COUNTS

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

MARINERS, sailing the high seas, take at times prescribed reckonings. Business men at intervals take stock inventories. They must know the whys and wherefores of this or that condition for self-protection.

Federal employes, who are not exiles from society, are entitled to do likewise, especially at this period, when passage of every 24 hours creates a new basis for apprehension.

Let's take a survey of the trend of events: First, in order to balance the budget, the administration favored a general salary cut, without apparent regard for its effect on domestic affairs. Congress acquiesced to the wishes of sinister outside forces, acted on the suggestion and enacted the sweeping salary reduction law. The plan in operation is now admitted to be a damaging "social experiment."

The proposal was highly unjust to employes who, surmising that their wages were guaranteed over years, obligated themselves in many ways. Unjustness was further intensified when it is considered that in the Federal expense set-up, salaries form but a comparatively small drain on the National Treasury. Other items of expense, notably those for operation of the erstwhile Federal Farm Board, loomed large as national liabilities, but, in the economy program, small expenditures must first be attacked while great expenditures should be allowed to burrow deeper and deeper into Uncle Sam's pocketbook.

WITH this historic side to the fore, let's turn to look at some startling every-day conditions. Currents and counter-currents are active on every hand. The Chicago school teachers converging in protest on banks of that city; the farmers of Iowa in belligerent mood seeking relief; the ex-soldiers in bonus-march appeal; the city entry of the white collar brigade, and the fear-besieged army of Federal employes held in mute subjection. These incidents example and emphasize critical and disturbed conditions.

The President, speaking before the United States Chamber of Commerce lately, appealed to industry not to reduce wages. Notwithstanding, Federal employes suffer wage reduction; the Secretary of Labor is now advocating a minimum wage law (the Federal Diary urges a maximum wage law) the Postmaster General, addressing a New York audience recently, advanced the idea initially that postal employes need have no fears for their jobs, yet later in his speech he intimated that while fear should be abandoned, he suggested in another moment that some hardship must perforce be suffered by Federal employes in carrying forward the administration program.

WITH this lack of consistent team play operative, it is difficult to plumb from day to day just what type of psychology the administration, or its directing cohorte, is practicing to bring order out of chaos. President Roosevelt, in his inaugural address, called for frankness and candor as high ideals in administrative action. On this basis alone the Federal employe is entitled to know definitely just where he or she stands in the scheme of things and not be the puppets of political, play-toying gestures of good will. In fairness to the human equation involved and in justice to business groups of this city, it is high time for the administrative chieftains to get together for a common plan and act in unison for the the benefit of individual and national stability.

If wages are to be upheld at living standards and if "domestic tranquillity" fostered by the Constitution, is to be continuing, the time is opportune to equalize action; to aim at a set goal rather than practice the wishy-washy, every 24-hour changing type of conduct, which does nothing more than unsettle the minds of employes, both in industry and in the Federal Government.

RALPH SHEPARD, Internal Revenue, chairman handicap committee, the Federal Diary First Annual Golf Tournament at Indian Spring, May 25, advises that many entrants have not complied with request to send in information on which to base handicaps.

"Each entrant should attend to this detail at once, as those who do not comply will be truly handicapped, since they will shoot from scratch," said Mr. Shepard.

To expedite the matter, it is suggested handicap data should be sent direct to Mr. Shepard, room 2237, Internal Revenue Building.

J. Leland Acuff, Prohibition, general chairman, pinch hitting for George Diffenbaugh, Indian Spring pro, describes the fourth hole of 355 yards, as par 45.

"From the yardage this might seem an easy par. The contrary is the case. It is slightly up-hill play from tee to green. A topped drive will most always land in a trap directly in front of the tee about 100 yards.

"A sliced drive with distance will usually lie in one of two traps placed for that purpose flanking the right side of fairway. To avoid trouble on this hole, play well to left of center of the fairway, which gives one the only opening to the green for the second shot since the green is flanked to the right and extreme left by traps and is guarded by a trap about 35 feet back of it, which protects all except the left quarter."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

Irene Dunne.

TWO distinguished stage plays that are on their way to local screens in phonoplay form were unpooled for the dramatic desks yesterday in the cosy confines of the private projection room of the Fox Film Exchange.

The first was "The Silver Cord," RKO-Radio's picturization of the successful drama by Sidney Howard, whose "They Knew What They Wanted" was the Pulitzer prize winner of its year and whose "The Late Christopher Bean" and "Alien Corn" are among the Broadway successes of the present year, unwound by Manager Hardie Meakin of RKO-Keith's at 10:30 a. m.; the other Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's film version of Robert E. Sherwood's provocative comedy, "Reunion in Vienna," run off under the auspices of City Manager Carter Barron, of Loew's at 1:30 p. m.

Save in the case of such excellent examples of the art of the cinema, this is almost an overdose of celluloid footage for what amounts practically to one continuous sitting.

Both of these subjects have been intelligently and effectively picturized, although both, strictly speaking, are not motion pictures, but rather photographed theater productions not greatly amplified in either scene or scope over the forms they originally possessed. This is perhaps a little truer of "The Silver Cord" than it is of "Reunion in Vienna."

"The Silver Cord," of course, is psychological drama, pure and simple—argumentative and interesting, to be sure, but almost wholly devoid of physical action. This is a quality that makes it an especially appropriate vehicle for the introduction of Laura Hope Crews to audiences of the serious cinema in a part which she created on the stage, and which she has largely travestied in "Out All Night," the "Slim" Summerville-ZaSu Pitts farce which so long has been agreeably prevalent at the Rialto.

Miss Crews, if you must know, effectually steals the picture from its ostensible screen favorites, the Misses Irene Dunne and Frances Dee, and the youthful Messrs. Joel McRea and Eric Linden.

Considerably more boisterous is "Reunion in Vienna." Here, too, a few more liberties have been taken with the original script. For instance, the picture is introduced by a sight-seeing tour through the Hapsburg Palace, Schonbrunn, in Vienna, where Elena, the heroine of the story, relieves gay and flirtatious court scenes in memory and establishes the fact that it was she who was the chosen of Prince Rudolph Maximilian. To those familiar with the play, this all seems a bit superfluous.

John Barrymore.

From that point on, however, the camera version adheres with reasonable fidelity to both the spirit and the movement of the Sherwood play—except that the temptation to elaborate the shabby, red-plush Hotel Lucher, rendezvous of a defunct royalty, into a hostelry of marble-columned splendor, has been a little too great to be withstood.

John Barrymore and Diana Wynyard here, of course, play the roles that were originated by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne—and play them with an approximate skill that finds Mr. Barrymore a bit more in step with the character of Rudolph than the austere and restrained Miss Wynyard is with the warmly infatuated young frau created by the less frigid Miss Fontanne.

Discriminating devotees of the gelatine theater will not permit either "The Silver Cord" or "Reunion in Vienna" to elude them.

While "Reunion in Vienna" will be visible at Loew's Palace beginning Friday, a last-minute decision of the booking powers defers the presentation of "The Silver Cord" at RKO-Keith's from this Friday, the 12th, to one week later, Friday, May 19, at which time it will be offered with Gene Dennis, psychic and mind reader, in person, as an extra added attraction.

Gene Dennis, one hears, has been a sensational stage feature in many parts of the Nation and is secured for Washington only after a considerable amount of wire-pulling and manipulation. The combination of the Dennis clairvoyance and certain of the Freudian qualities of "The Silver Cord" is expected to exert an irresistible lure to those whose perceptions penetrate a little deeper than the theater's mere surface frivolities.

In passing, incidentally, this column wishes to extend its warmest and most sincere congratulations to its staunch and valued friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hardie Meakin, who today are being buried under an avalanche of similar messages on the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of their marriage. May they have many more years together of health, happiness and prosperity!

Leon Brusiloff, conductor of the U. S. Marine Corps Sixth Brigade Band, and long musical director at Loew's Columbia Theater, before wielding the baton at the Fox, makes known with some pride that his first trumpet player, Joseph Phillip Cappanelli, has successfully passed his examination for promotion to the U. S. Marine Band, the President's own.

Mr. Cappanelli, whose military band experience has been gained exclusively under Mr. Brusiloff's conductorship, is one of the youngest successful candidates for Uncle Sam's foremost musical organization, being only 19 years of age.

Speaking of music, the American University's Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Harlan Randall, who has led these popular singers to first honors in two previous annual music week festivals at Loew's Fox, will be heard tonight on the stage at the Fox at 8:40 o'clock, in competition for the third annual senior choral trophy offered by the theater. The Glee Club's numbers will be "Parade of the Wooden Soldier," by Jessel; "Stars of the Summer Night," by Woodbury; "Climb Up, Ye Chillun, Climb," a spiritual, and "Mermaid," anonymous.

Others of today's younger contestants for festival trophies will include the Gordon Junior High School Orchestra and Harmonica Band, Mrs. Helen C. Shaw, director, at 12:10; the Roosevelt High School's Boys' Glee Club, Miss Emma Louise Thompson, director, at 2:50, and the McKinley High School Boys' Glee Club, Mrs. Bella Thompson, director, at 5:50.

Reverting momentarily to next Friday—which is a good trick, even if you can't do it—and RKO-Keith's, the incoming attraction under the new arrangement that sets back "The Silver Cord," is "The Woman I Stole," starring Jack Holt. Evidently Mr. Holt has decided that if the authors won't permit him ever to win the girl, he will just go ahead and take matters into his own hands!

Except to express further regret that if any one is to play Elsa Brandt in Sidney Howard's "Alien Corn" for the screen, it will not be Katharine Cornell, there is little that can be addressed to this latest communication from her alert and helpful public relations counsel, Mr. Ray Henderson:

"The report that Katharine Cornell will make her screen debut in a film to be produced for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America is denied by the actress. The star had not heard of the project until she read about it in a New York newspaper. Miss Cornell consistently has declined the many impressive offers she has received from Hollywood that she appear in a talking picture."

And that, as the saying goes, is that.

Then a cordial note from Mr. John Parker, author and compiler of that 1,900-page brochure, "Who's Who in the Theater," written on the letterhead of the Critics' Circle, Hall of the Institute of Journalists, 2 and 4 Tudor street, London, E. C. 4.

Although Mr. Parker is American born, he is London adopted and is honorary secretary of this considerable organization upon whose letterhead his name appears with such others of distinction as William Archer, St. John Ervine, Sydney Carroll, Charles Morgan and so many more that there is scant space left on the page for his "fraternal greetings," &c.

This long roster over which my correspondent presides as a sort of secretary, I presume, is what is commonly referred to as the Parker House roll!

Actress' Mouth Saves Her Gems

Hollywood, Calif., May 9 (A.P.).—Nancy Torres, screen actress, from Mexico City, told today of hiding two diamond rings in her mouth when she, Paulina Torres, sister of Raquel Torres, and Walter A. Merrill, film writer, were held up last night by two men and robbed of several hundred dollars in money and jewelry.

Merrill had escorted the actresses home after calling on friends. The robbery was at the door of the apartment of Nancy, who is not related to Paulina, small parts player.

Nancy said she slipped her rings off and placed them in her mouth as she climbed from Merrill's automobile under command of the holdup men. Merrill surrendered $140 cash and an antique French chain and watch valued at $350, he said.

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

May 9, 1933

A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years---1929 to 1932---we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward---through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method---new political and financial machinery---to pull us out the way we are going---forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only---the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.

And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

THE BONUS INVASION.

A new bonus army is moving toward Washington. The pleas of veterans' organizations and the attempts of the administration to turn the bonus march into an orderly convention have not dissuaded large groups of ex-soldiers from coming here. Destitute veterans are on the march with the avowed purpose of camping in Washington until their demands are met. Another grave problem is thus laid at the threshold of the White House.

There is no indication that the promise of the administration to house and perhaps feed members of the Veterans' Expeditionary Force has changed their original intention of creating trouble in Washington. A group of 1,000 men under direction of the communistic V. E. F. are expected here in a few days from New York. According to their leader, George Alman, these men are fighters and will not allow themselves to be driven out of Washington, as was the B. E. F. They will demand cash payment of the bonus, restoration of disability payments and relief for the unemployed. In the meantime they will demand food, clothing and shelter from the Government for a prolonged stay in Washington.

This army of radicals comes to Washington with the threat that "no matter how many police are in front of the White House we will walk in." It will be joined by veterans from all parts of the country who care nothing about the agreement for an orderly convention made with a few individuals who style themselves as leaders of the bonus march. When large groups of disgruntled men congregate together they can not be restrained by self-appointed leaders. No fact was more plainly demonstrated in the bonus riots of last July than the lack of control of the B. E. F. commanders over the rebellious members of that organization. When the crisis arose the leaders had to stand on the sidelines and watch their followers fight the police as an undisciplined and uncontrollable mob.

Regardless of what may result from the proposed convention, Washington is face to face with another invasion by destitute men. These groups will probably be more troublesome than were the bonus seekers last year, because a larger number of them are radicals and agitators and because they claim to have had more grievances than they had a year ago. The discharge of veterans from Federal hospitals and soldiers' homes has accentuated the bitterness of many ex-service men toward the Government and increased their recklessness.

It would be a pity to repeat the events of last summer, yet action of that kind may become necessary unless the invaders are kept moving. The situation can be handled with far greater ease now than after the veterans have intrenched themselves here. There is an urgent need for immediate action to keep the invading veterans under rigid control and to move them out of Washington as soon as their petitions have been presented. If they are allowed to remain here, either at the expense of the Government or the people of Washington, there will be unfortunate consequences.

ALCOHOL FOR MOTORS.

In response to a Senate request for a report on the use of alcohol in motor fuel, the Department of Agriculture supports the practicability and advantages offered by the bills now before Congress for a compulsory addition of grain alcohol to gasoline. The department finds that corn would provide abundant supplies of suitable raw material for the production of alcohol, although other farm products, such as wheat, rice and potatoes, could be used when prices are low.

A 10 per cent blend of alcohol, the department believes, can be utilized without technical difficulties so far as most gasoline engines now in use are concerned, without adjustments and without great difference in mileage per gallon. So far as price is concerned, with corn at 50 cents a bushel and gasoline at 13 cents a gallon, the department estimate is that a 10 per cent addition of alcohol would add 2 3-5 cents a gallon to cost.

The offsetting advantage is found to be the utilization of 560,000,000 bushels of corn and 112,000,000 bushels of barley. While agreeing that the addition of alcohol to gasoline would at first reduce consumption of motor fuel, the department believes that the resultant buying power afforded to farmers might increase the sales of automotive machinery and of gasoline so as to compensate in part for the increased cost of the blended fuel; and that the advance in price of corn and other products used in alcohol manufacture would increase the price of all food grains. All these shifts, it believes, would combine to bring about a better balance in agricultural production and stabilize income on a higher level.

Opposition to the proposal to force the use of this blended fuel is very decided, not only on the grounds of increased cost, but because the proposed fuel for various reasons is not as satisfactory as straight gasoline. Furthermore, it is argued, when measures to help the farmer are being advanced in so many other directions, why add to the burdens of the already over-taxed motorist?

ECONOMY IN THE NAVY.

Plans of the administration with respect to the Navy can not yet be accurately appraised. At present it appears that the Navy's budget will be subjected to a sweeping reduction, but it is also known that the administration plans an extensive program of public works, which may include naval construction. The full effect of the economy plan can not be estimated, therefore, until the details of the public works program become known.

The Budget Bureau will find widespread sympathy with its aim to reduce Government expenditures to the lowest level consistent with efficiency. It may be expected to apply this rule to the Navy as to all other departments. The only question involved is whether the proposed cut of $53,000,000 in the Navy's budget for next year will impair national defense. The Navy Department is more competent to answer that question than is the Bureau of the Budget.

Congress trimmed the Navy's budget as much as it considered advisable during the "lame duck" session. The items which are now being mentioned for elimination illustrate how far the trimming process has already been carried. One proposed method of bringing about further economies is the retirement of one-third of the Navy's ships from active service on a rotating plan. Another suggestion is that 1,000 officers and 2,000 enlisted men be dropped from the Navy, together with slashes in the personnel of the Marine Corps. Still another is the closing of naval training stations and the reduction of civil employes at the navy yards. Some one has suggested that the annual combined fleet maneuvers, through which the Navy puts its plans into shape for emergency defense movements, might be eliminated for economy's sake. Any of these schemes would seriously impair the strength of the United States' first line of defense.

Nearly every economy plan that has been suggested for either the Army or Navy involves the dismissal of large groups of men. This question ought to be considered from two different angles. The personnel of both the Army and Navy is below the minimum requirements for an effective machine of national defense. Furthermore, the Government is fighting a battle against unemployment. A vast program of public works is about to be submitted to Congress to afford relief to the jobless. What is the advantage of destroying jobs that are of vital importance to the country's welfare and creating more jobs for the mere purpose of affording work?

It is to be hoped that when these programs are coordinated the personnel of the Army and Navy will not be seriously diminished and that a generous portion of the construction program will be devoted to building the United States Navy up to treaty strength.

ECONOMIC CHANGES.

The reluctance of the larger nations of Europe to enter into a tariff truce, even for the few weeks remaining before the opening of the economic conference, has served to call sharp attention to the altered conditions in many smaller states. There is a growing number of observers who think that the intense development along lines of national self-sufficiency since the war has gone too far to be suspended for a return to the old status of world trade. Nations large and small have raised tariff walls for the double purpose of securing revenue and to protect home industries and agriculture.

No other country in the world has the resources of this country, or the vast consuming population that makes it possible to be so nearly self-contained; but all have found in recent years that they can more largely produce many of the raw materials they require, and also manufacture a large proportion of their needs at home. They may not be as efficient, they can not produce on the scale of great foreign competitors, but protected by tariff walls their industries survive, and profits remain in the country.

American exports of all kinds of machinery have resulted in the decrease of the exported products of the same class of machines made in the United States. This is a natural consequence, and it is short-sighted optimism to believe that all this industrial development will stop and that there will be a return in any such two-fold volume of foreign commerce as is visualized by Secretary Hull. Neither direct bargaining between two nations, nor the general assemblage of all nations in an economic conference, will induce nations to scrap their efforts in the direction of economic independence and resort in any great measure to free trade. There are still nations where little progress has been made industrially. As their needs expand they will be the battle ground for marketing the surplus of the manufacturing nations, a competitive world to which many small contenders have been added. Cheap labor or favorable access to raw materials enable some of them to compete with mass production. Their ambitions may be limited in comparison with industrial America, but to count upon a resumption and expansion of the system whereby a few nations supplied the world is visionary. Meanwhile it is a matter of satisfaction to Americans to know that nothing can take from them the possibility of enjoying at home the greatest market of all.

DISCIPLINE VS. INSURANCE.

Bitter controversy still centers about the schemes advanced on Capitol Hill to insure bank deposits. The group which is sponsoring the new Glass bill intends to press forward for its enactment at this session of Congress. But this group is not yet in harmony with the Treasury Department and various congressional factions.

As outlined by Senator Bulkley the bill does not provide for a Government guarantee of bank deposits. It would set up a Federal bank deposit insurance corporation, to which the Treasury, the Federal Reserve banks and the member banks of the Federal Reserve system would subscribe an aggregate of about $450,000,000. When any bank became insolvent funds could be drawn from the insurance corporation to keep it in operation and guarantee its depositors against loss. The absolute guarantee would reach only to accounts of less than $10,000 and the larger deposits would be partially insured.

Certainly this scheme is less objectionable than an outright guarantee of bank deposits by the Government. Yet it is a curious arrangement. It does not offer insurance against loss, but merely makes provision that innocent banks rather than the public should make good the deposits in defunct institutions. The banks would be required to pay the cost of the insurance and suffer the losses as well. If the Government should force this system upon the banks, it would be equivalent to making a capital assessment upon strong banks to pay for the mistakes of financial bucketshops.

One of the most serious defects in this scheme is that it would give the banks as a group the responsibility for preserving the savings and working capital of the nation without authority to do so. In other words, when bankers observed reckless members among their group they would be powerless to interfere with them, even though bankers as a group would be responsible for the losses incurred from such negligent and crooked practices. It is obvious that if bankers as a group are to be made responsible for all deposits they ought to be given power to discipline recalcitrant banks that threaten the welfare of the entire group.

Is the Government willing to go that far? If not, then the insurance plan is a vicious scheme to penalize good banking. It would be absurd to force the banks into guaranteeing weak institutions unless they are given the power to set those institutions in order. This measure attacks the problem from the wrong end. What is needed is not a means of distributing losses but a means of preventing them. Branch banking and rigid discipline of all banks through the Federal Reserve system would probably bring about the desired result without penalizing good banks for the benefit of insecure ones.

With the House striking out of the farm bill the provision that the farmer shall be guaranteed a reasonable profit, there is a better chance that he will get one.

Agitators among the bonus marchers are beginning to wonder if this thing of being guests of the Army is quite as soft as being guests of Gen. Glassford.

FRANCE'S EXPERIENCE

From the Topeka Capital.

The French journalist "Pertinax" in stating why France grimly sticks to the gold standard, on its low valuation, to be sure, of the franc, recalls:

"Let us remember that all Frenchmen living on fixed incomes have been deprived of four-fifths of their capital by the stabilization of 1926-1928 period. Were that one-fifth of the former capital which was left to them to be split up again, the political and social consequences would be far-reaching indeed, because the smaller, middle class is, in France, politically stronger than in any other nation."

It is well to remember that while Germany deliberately inflated the mark to rid itself of debt, France did not pursue that policy. Inflation in Germany abolished the middle class population, and the inflation which confiscated their wealth is largely responsible for the German political revolution last year and abandonment of a republican form of government.

But France did not deliberately devalue the franc. What the Poincare government did was to halt the fall of the mark and stabilize it at a fraction under 4 cents, its nominal value in gold having been something over 19 cents. When this action was taken the franc was worth less than 3 cents. Thus the French action was not inflationary, but it halted the steady devaluation of the franc and pegged it around 4 cents. This is the policy that the French government declares it will adhere to. It is on the gold standard, but at a low level.

As the franc steadily fell, what happened is as "Pertinax" describes. All fixed incomes gradually declined as the money unit dropped from 19 to 4, and French capital lost four-fifths of its value. As French tradesmen, farmers or peasants and working classes traditionally for generations made a practice of slow and steady saving and placed their money in French bonds, or "rentes," they all alike saw their savings reduced four-fifths. At last the government stepped in and forcibly checked the decline. The thrifty people of France were saved at that point, but the thrifty people of Germany were financially wiped out by the German inflation.

Deflation involves great suffering and loss, but inflation has its terrors also. One course is not a cure for the other.

WHY TURKEY IS PROUD.

Keriman Halis Hanum, the Turkish beauty queen of 1932, was lately elected "Miss Universe." On her return to Turkey from Spa she was given a civic welcome and an ovation of which a great commander, returning from a long and arduous campaign, might well have been proud, says the London Times.

The reception accorded her was not prompted merely by national pride at the success of a Turkish girl in a world beauty competition; her triumph was regarded rather as a symbol of the new freedom which Turkish women have won, and a proof to the world that Turkey has shaken off the shackles which kept her so long from taking her place among civilized nations.

Thinking It Over.

POST HASTE.

Estimates are running high on how many more "armies" will demand Government hospitality in the Capital on the scale provided for the bonuseers.

The latest plan seems to be to cut down the Army and Navy until other nations are shamed into imitation.

"We've GOT to do it." Messrs. MacDonald and Herriot were both much impressed with the President and his use of that short verb—and got!

Isn't Congress funny? Balking on granting the President authority on debts that won't be paid anyhow, but willing to give control of agriculture, industry, railroads and money.

A good many foreigners listened Sunday night for some word on debts, but time was limited.

Senator Pittman at last gets a sympathetic listener for his silver song in Dr. Soong.

Some startling news from China was forecast, but it turned out to be just another Japanese advance.

"Hitler will stand no more foreign dictation for Germany." He's in business for himself now.

If Gandhi had started out this time to devour enough to cover those bones it would have attracted some attention.

The State Department is recovering gradually from that message announcing Belgium's unconditional acceptance of the tariff holiday.

If Ambassador Davis can keep London talking about tariffs for a month it may serve as a truce.

France will not pay the last bunch of debt interest without a moratorium on the next, which marks an advance right back to December, 1932.

War debts are such a minor issue they should not cloud the economic conference, but it's hard to concentrate with a cinder in your eye.

A little nature propaganda spread among bonus guests while in camp here might enlist them all in the conservation corps, unless there is danger of their incendiary speeches starting forest fires.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ALL NATURE DOESN'T CARE.

The world goes on about its trade,
each garden wears a gay brocade
Of tulip bloom and peonies of red and pink and white.
In spite of all men say or do, the summer skies are mostly blue
And don a sable mantle starrygemmed against the night.

You'd think perhaps the birds would stop to hear what words man has to drop
Or cease their constant toil for food to catch a closer view
Of what it is we quarrel o'er, and what we build and just what for,
But evidently they don't care a fig for me and you.

An apple tree with every spring goes on about its blossoming
As if there were no banks to fail;
no men to mar the day,
And whether markets rise or fall, and undisturbed about it all Spiraeas come to bloom in June to make a white display.

The vines don't loiter on the fence to learn what mighty consequence
Of man's has wrought the neighborhood to such a hue and cry,
Man fancies he's important but, to see his bank door ope or shut
Or is he rich or is he poor no dog would turn an eye.

No Great Discoveries Are Made by Those Who Wait for a Steamship or a Pullman.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

GERMANY'S minister of justice, speaking in praise of his nation's leader, made this remarkable statement: "Hitler is the Holy Ghost."

To the people of America, safely beyond reach of the Hitler influence, that statement seems the blasphemy of an imbecile. But they also make gods of their heroes and their leaders.

Only a few years have passed since people otherwise sane believed Lindbergh more than mortal, and a nobody became a local celebrity for having touched his sleeve.

Ordinary people, who commonly honor themselves too little, think the great ones made of superior clay. This thought fills them with discouragement and they say to themselves: "The winners are born to win, and there is no use in trying if you are just a common plodder."

That, in a measure, is true. But how do you know that you lack any quality possessed by the great ones?

The celebrities you worship are not flesh and blood. They are creatures of your imagination. You have idealized your heroes and now you are awed by a mental picture that resembles them no more than it resembles you.

If you could meet celebrities and talk with them, few in the lot would measure up to your ideal.

One has fat and useless hands and dirty finger nails; one wears a soiled collar and his shoulders are white with dandruff; one needs a shave and a haircut; one has teeth too long neglected; one has hollow eyes and hands that tremble as a result of last night's drinking; one is unable to talk about anything but himself; one is incredibly ignorant of things familiar to you.

In short, they are human. In appearance and conduct they are ordinary. They disappoint you.

The thing that made them famous doesn't show. It is inside their skulls.

How, then, can you know whether you possess it? If these winners seem ordinary creatures, much like you, how can you know whether you possess the quality that made them win?

The answer is easy to find. The one who is capable of doing big things has within him an urge that impels him to create. He knows his goal and nothing can turn him aside. He is obsessed by one idea.

If you have that peculiarity, plus natural ability, you may bump your head against the stars. If not, pick some job you like and be content to earn a living. If you can't play the pipes, you can listen—and the listeners enjoy life more, anyway.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Roosevelt to the People.

Boston Transcript.

A great asset has been established for the Nation in its time of need. The country has a President who knows how to talk to the people. The voice of the people carried Franklin Roosevelt into the White House, and last night his voice carried back to them firm, clear assurance that their trust was well placed. Listeners in millions of homes, both Republican and Democratic in background, were gratified by the simple and understandable manner in which the President spoke to them of great issues.

Oddly enough, the particular passage of the President's speech most likely to convince the people of Mr. Roosevelt's honesty and dependability was the passage in which he admitted that he is not infallible. "I do not deny that we may make mistakes of procedure . . . I have no expectation of making a hit every time I come to bat. What I seek is the highest possible batting average, not only for myself, but for the team." Everyone knows that such an attitude as this squares with the realities of human life, and with the limitations as well as the virtues of human beings.

Self-Regulation in Industry.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

It is somewhat surprising to learn that the National Chamber of Commerce at its meetings in Washington has decided to support a plan for mobilization of American industry through trade associations and Federal agencies. Thus the same industries which have been demanding less government in business have declared almost unanimously for more comprehensive regulation of business. This reversal of sentiment perhaps can be traced to suggestions from the administration. The changed attitude of business leaders appears chiefly to come from the logic of the facts of present-day economic life.

Juggling With Gold.

Detroit News.

The controversy over the hoarding of gold has its amusing features. On the one side is the Government, demanding that hoarded gold and gold certificates be surrendered in exchange for other forms of money. But the Government is off the gold standard; it is not paying out gold, it is not allowing gold to be exported, and the gold holdings of the Federal Reserve system are now higher than they have been at any time since September 16, 1931.

On the other side are those who say that the Government has no right to force holders of gold to surrender it. That may be true, in the legal sense. But then they go on to argue that if gold holders give up their gold and the Government then proceeds to inflate the currency or reduce the gold content of the dollar those who surrendered their gold will have been robbed. And that brings a new factor into the case.

Need of Immediate Relief.

Houston Post.

While condemning the action of the mob at Le Mars, it is only honest to admit that the men of that lawless group had extreme provocation for their lapse from orderly conduct.

When farms and homes are being taken from honest, hard working people who have invested their life's savings in them, when families are put out into the streets and highways, when the means of livelihood are withdrawn from the breadwinners in order to satisfy debts that farm and home owners are unable to pay through no fault of their own, it is not surprising that some men will grow desperate and resort to physical violence to protect themselves and their families.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Proposed Legislation Against Racketeering Approved — Law Should Have Teeth.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am glad to see by the papers that Senator Copeland, of New York, has offered a resolution for investigation of racketeering, with a view to legislation in that connection. The senator says:

"There have grown up in this country numbers of so-called 'rackets.' The newspapers are filled with accounts of 'beer rackets,' 'poultry rackets,' 'milk rackets,' food, laundry, drug and other rackets.

"So far as the Federal Government can accomplish it, all these forms of racketeering must cease.

"The legitimate trade and commerce of this country as well as the general welfare of our people demand that 'racketeering' end."

General knowledge in regard to rackets is sufficient to warrant legislation against it. I hope the special investigation will be brief and a sharp-toothed antiracketeering law passed as soon as possible. It has been delayed too long already.

W. C. RICH.

Japan's Course in China Likened to Racketeer Tactics in This Country.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The case of the world vs. Japan is like that of Uncle Sam vs. Racketeer. The world, like Uncle Sam, is not fond of bloodshed, and in the hard job of keeping its affairs in order just now does not enjoy the idea of mussing things up in mortal combat. Japan, taking advantage of this, is on the job for plunder, and, like the racketeer, gets by with it with a murderous bluff. Japan as much as says to the world, "Lay off, you! If you don't, it'll be the big explosion for you next."

Like the racketeer, Japan gets twice as bold every time it gets away with a sack of plunder. I think the time is about ready for Uncle Sam to call the racketeer's bluff. How the world will treat the bloody bluff of Japan is not quite so certain. But I think it should be met right away if the world is really as anxious as we are told it is for peace in the future.

NAVY LEAGUE FIRES DOUGLAS BULL'S-EYE

Rotative Reserve Economy Is Held Dangerous to Nation's Safety.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy League of the United States, which fought the celebrated "Abysmal Ignorance" battle with President Hoover, fired a first salvo yesterday across the bow of the Roosevelt Ship of State.

In vigorous language it assailed the proposal for a "rotation reserve" under which, for economy's sake, the Navy is contemplating laying up one-third of its vessels at a time.

"While the second best bulldog in a dog show may get a red ribbon, in a dog fight it gets nothing but a sound licking," said the league. And a rotation reserve fleet, it contended, is very much a "second best bulldog."

The contention made was that far from one-third reduction in efficiency, the policy would cut effectiveness of the fleet by half because of the awkwardness of crews manning the ships brought out from reserve status.

"A challenge to fate, doubling the hazards to the Nation already involved in the studied neglect of our naval defense by former administrations," said the league of the plan, warning that while the President was "bravely carrying us through a veritable storm of tragic problems, involving the recovery of a sick Nation in the midst of a sick world," the other nations "stand ready to be cured at our cost."

The league struck especially at Lewis W. Douglas, the Budget Director.

"With immensely complicated problems confronting him the President must necessarily rely largely upon the Director of the Budget and other non-naval advisers. Are these latter giving him sound advice on naval affairs?

"The Navy League thinks not. If the President and the Nation come to a full realization of the effects of what the Diretcor of the Budget is forcing the Navy to do—it won't be done."

Yesterday's statement was signed by N. M. Hubbard, jr., league vice president. The one that unleashed the extraordinary squabble with President Hoover was written by William Howard Gardiner, president of the league, who charged the National Executive with "abysmal ignorance" of why navies are maintained.

Miss Dietrich Leaves Hollywood for Europe

Hollwood, Calif., May 9 (A.P.).—Accompanied by an armed bodyguard, Marlene Dietrich, German film star, and her 9-year-old daughter, left here by train today for a summer vacation in Europe.

The protection against kidnapers and extortionists would not be removed, it was stated, until the Dietrich party is aboard an outbound ship at New York. Since she received a number of threatening letters several months ago Miss Dietrich has employed three guards at her home in eight-hour shifts.

Dr. Hedin Planning Search for Ambolt

Peiping, China, May 9 (A.P.).—At the age of 68, Dr. Sven Hedin, Swedish explorer, is planning an expedition into the Sin Kiang Province of Chinese Turkestan to search for Dr. Nils Ambolt, the Swedish scientist, who has been missing in the wilds of Central Asia since November.

Dr. Ambolt, who was a member of a Chinese-Swedish expedition sent into Sin Kiang in 1927, was lost with a caravan of 80 camels during a terrific snowstorm in a lonely spot in the mountains of northern Tibet.

There he was compelled to abandon the results of four years of research in Central Asia and also scientific instruments worth thousands of dollars.

Dr. Ambolt proceeded afoot toward Cherchen Oasis, 400 miles south of Urumchi, the capital of Sin Kiang, and has not been heard of since. A recent Mohammedan revolt in Sin Kiang increased fears for his safety.

Dry Georgia Owes Beer Taxes to U. S.

Atlanta, May 9 (A.P.).—The Federal Government moved today to collect taxes on beer in "dry" Georgia. The Department of Internal Revenue announced that stamps for manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers would go on sale here tomorrow. Several applications for stamps have been made, said Josiah T. Rose, internal revenue collector.

It's a paradoxical situation in Georgia with the State legally arid, but with at least three cities—Savannah, Alma and Douglas—working under a "home-rule" plan for beer, have legalized sale of beer by council action, taking the position that since the Federal Government holds 3.2 beer is not intoxicating, it should be treated like a soft drink.

Rose made it clear that payment of beer taxes does not authorize sale of beer in dry territory.

Wisconsin's Beer Tax Exceeds $2,000,000

Milwaukee, May 9 (A.P.).—A. H. Wilkinson, collector of internal revenue, today reported the total of Federal beer taxes in Wisconsin had passed the $2,000,000 mark.

Forty-three breweries are now operating under Federal permits in Wisconsin.

HOUSE DUE TO PASS OFFICES BILL TODAY

Provisions Affecting Federal Employes Are Slated for Certain Approval.

The House will meet at an early hour this morning to go through the mechanics of considering far-reaching legislative provisions vitally affecting the welfare of employes throughout the Government service.

Passage of the legislative proposals, attached as a rider on the independent offices appropriations bill, is merely a matter of consuming the five hours of limited debate allotted the measure. Actually, approval was clinched Monday, when the House adopted an ironclad rule, prohibiting all but committee amendments.

In addition to the $585,000,000 carried in the independent offices appropriations bill, the legislative rider calls for a system of "rotative furloughs" for Federal employes, permission to discharge as well as furlough, a 30-year retirement system and a State quota standard for dismissing Federal workess.

Further, the rider would give President Roosevelt authority to cancel or modify any existing transportation contract with the Federal Government.

Representative Henry B. Steagall (Democrat), Alabama, yesterday undertook to defend the so-called State apportionment basis of dismissing Federal employes, proposed in the bill.

In a speech in the House, he declared that the District and four other States which have more than their quota of workers in the Government are monopolizing the bulk of Federal employment. He insisted apportionment provisions in the pending bill should eliminate some of the "unfairness" of the prevailing situation.

"The Civil Service as it now operates is far from satisfactory," he said.

"There is nothing sacred about it which should prevent Congress from making changes in the law. As it exists today, I think it is lopsided and unfair."

He said Civil Service laws should be administered "fairly" regardless of what party is in power.

The provision for rotative furloughs carried in the bill merely gives department heads discretionary authority to make such separations. The 30-year retirement provision permits such retirements only where 30-year workers are "involuntarily" separated from the service.

Orders giving force to both the furlough and retirement provisions are expected to be forthcoming from the White House, members of the House Appropriations Committee intimate.

CAPT. ROBERT BERRY, AID TO WILSON, DEAD

Officer in Charge of Mayflower Will Be Buried in Bernardsville.

Capt. Robert Lawrence Berry, U. S. N., former commanding officer of the presidential yacht Mayflower and naval aid to President Woodrow Wilson, died yesterday at the Naval Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., according to word received at the Navy Department. Funeral services will be held at Bernardsville, N. J., at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

Capt. Berry was born in Newport, Ky., August 5, 1880, and was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1896. He was in command of the Mayflower from 1914 to 1917, when he was ordered to duty at Bath, Me., in connection with the fitting out of the U. S. S. Manley, a destroyer. He assumed command of this vessel when it was commissioned.

From September, 1919, to December, 1921, Capt. Berry was in charge of the Naval Recruiting Station at Newark, N. J., and he served as executive officer of the U. S. S. New York from February until September, 1922, when he was transferred to command the U. S. S. Procyon.

In October, 1926, he was ordered to duty in charge of the Naval Recruiting Bureau, New York, and served in that capacity until he was placed on the retired list in 1926.

Capt. Berry made his home at Fort Thomas, Ky. He is survived by his sister, Mrs. W. C. Hill, Short Hills, N. J.

Everett Services To Be Held Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Phillips Everett, 83, who died yesterday at her home, 1409 Irving street northwest, will be held tomorrow at 1 p. m. from her late residence. She will be buried beside her husband in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Everett, who was born in Amsterdam, Ohio, has lived in Washington since 1905. She lived for many years with her parents in Crestline and Kenton, Ohio. At the latter city she was married in 1873 to Mr. Everret, a veteran of the Civil War. The couple lived in Texas and California for some years, coming to Washington about 30 years ago. Mr. Everret died in 1920.

She was a member of the First Congressional Church. Surviving are two sons, William E. and Fred P. Everret, both of Washington.

Houstonian Urged For Portugal Post

With the absence of Postmaster General Farley from Washington, patronage gossip yesterday was desultory, although there was some speculation on the possibility of naming Robert Granville Caldwell, dean of Rice Institute in Houston, as Minister to Portugal.

Another patronage development yesterday was the delay of one week in final senatorial action on the nomination of Guy T. Helvering as Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Objections were made that he did not have proper qualifications.

Two postal inspectors, one well known in Washington, were yesterday promoted to be Deputy Assistant Postmasters General, after years of service. They are Smith W. Purdum, of Hyattsville, Md., and Vincent C. Burke, of Louisville. Mr. Purdum entered the postal service 33 years ago as railway mail clerk, but for the last 27 years has been in inspection work. During the Wilson administration he was in charge of the Washington district, and since then has been on special duty out of Washington.

Canadian House Votes Trade Pact Extension

Ottawa, May 9 (A.P.).—Without debate the House of Commons today passed a bill empowering the governor in council to extend indefinitely by proclamation the trade agreement in existence between Canada and New Zealand since May 24, 1932. The treaty would have expired May 24.

Dr. Billings Dead; Roosevelt Tutor

Groton, Mass., May 9 (A.P.).—The Rev. Sherrard Billings, 74, a schoolmaster who taught a President and a President's sons, died today at the school of which he was an integral part for 40 years. Mr. Billings was one of the founders of Groton School, where President Roosevelt spent his preparatory school days before entering Harvard, and where his two sons, Franklin, jr., and John, now are enrolled.

With the Rev. Endicott Peabody, present headmaster, Mr. Billings founded the school in 1884 and had been a master since, except for a few months before his death.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3:15 p. m. at the school chapel. Graduates and friends who will attend the services are requested to communicate with Edmund P. Rogers, care of the Fulton Trust Co., 149 Broadway, New York, who has engaged special cars to be attached to a train leaving the Grand Central Station for Groton at 9 a. m.

Cardinal Cerretti's Funeral Tomorrow

Vatican City, May 9 (A.P.).—Funeral services will be conducted Thursday for Cardinal Cerretti, former auditor of the apostolic delegation at Washington, at San Ignazio Church.

Temporary burial will be in the Propaganda Fide Church until a tomb is built in Santa Cecilia Church in the Trastevere section, according to his wishes.

Cardinal Cerretti died yesterday of diabetes. His testament revealed that he left 600,000 lire (currently about $30,000) to the Santa Cecilia Church, and 400,000 lire (about $20,000) to the Santa Maria Maggiore Basilica. Several valuable mementoe were bequeathed to Pope Pius, and money and gifts were left to relatives and servants.

A requiem mass for the repose of the soul of Cardinal Cerratti Bonaventure, former auditor of the apostolic delegation here in Washington and close friend of the Right Rev. Mgr. James H. Ryan, rector of the Catholic University, who died on Monday in Rome, will be celebrated in the crypt of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception on the Catholic University campus this morning at 9 o'clock.

RITES FOR CLARENCE KIBBEY.

Funeral of Treasury Clerk Who Shot Self Will Be Held Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Clarence Kibbey, 33-year-old Treasury clerk, who shot himself to death Monday, will be held tomorrow at his home, 615 Webster street northwest, at 11 a. m. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

A certificate of suicide was issued by Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald in Kibbey's death. Ill health was assigned as the reason for the act. Kibbey is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Kibbey; a 13-year-old son, Arthur, and three brothers, C. E. Kibbey, of Montreal, and Oscar and Raymond Kibbey, of this city. His parents were killed in an automobile accident thirteen years ago.

RITES FOR MRS. WALDECKER.

Services for Rock Creek Parish Guild to Be Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Mrs. Grace A. Waldecker, life-long resident of Washington, who died Monday at her home, 714 Webster street northwest, will be held tomorow at 11 a. m. from St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mrs. Waldecker, who was an active member of the Women's Guild of Rock Creek Parish, was the wife of Ugo Waldecker, manager of Franklin Laundry. Besides her husband, she is survived by five children, Margaret, Charles, Grace, William and Robert, and one brother, Joseph Gascoigne.

SERVICES FOR A. I. SEYMOUR.

Funeral Will Be Held Today for Son of Former Secretary.

Funeral services for Arthur Irving Seymour, 38, of 2544 Seventeenth street northwest, will be held today at the S. H. Hines funeral home at 3 p. m. Mr. Seymour, who died at Garfield Hospital Monday night, was the son of Lotta L. and the late Arthur E. Seymour, former secretary of the Washington Chamber of Commerce. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

HIGH MASS HONORS PROF. HALL TODAY

Noted Capital Musician Dies at Georgetown Hospital After Long Illness.

Requiem high mass will be said at 10 a. m. today in St. Augustine's Catholic Church for Prof. Harry T. Hall, noted Washington musician, who died Sunday in Georgetown University Hospital, following a protracted illness. The Rev. George M. Rankin will officiate. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Prof. Hall was for many years one of the city's outstanding organists and choir directors. He was a student of Gregorian Chant and was instrumental in the organization and direction of the boy choir movement in Catholic churches throughout the city.

For more than ten years Prof. Hall had been organist and choir master at St. Augustine's Church. His work attracted Nation-wide attention. He was formerly director and organist of St. Paul's Catholic Church and was succeeded by Father Finn, leader and founder of the famous Paulist Choir.

Prof. Hall also was instrumental in the development of the church choir movement of St. Patrick's Church and St. Aloysius' Church. He was a member of the archdiocesan commission on Catholic music.

He was educated in St. Paul's Parochial School, Gonzaga College and Georgetown University. The Boys Choir of St. Augustine's Church will sing services at the high mass.

Pallbearers will include Andrew I. Hickey, Hugh B. Hutchison, Charles H. Benson, Lawrence J. Mills, Joseph C. Lucas and John M. Connell.

Stokes Heirs Here To Receive $71,810

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Executors of the will of Mrs. Helen L. Phelps Stokes, widow of Anson Phelps Stokes, today filed an accounting of the estate, giving the approximate value of the interest of her eight children in the estate.

The figures were: Isaac Newton Phelps Stokes, $20,833.25; Harold Phelps Stokes, $51,810; Mrs. Sarah Halkett, Washington, D. C., $44,080; Miss Helen Phelps Stokes, Bennington, Vt., $44,080; Anson Phelps Stokes, Washington, D. C., $27,730; Mrs. Ethel P. S. Hoyt, Darien, Conn., $51,550; Mrs. Caroline Hunter, Santa Barbara, Calif., $27,730, and Mrs. Mildred P. S. Hooker, New York, $51,550.

The accounting showed that $787,858.66 had been paid to beneficiaries under Mrs. Stokes' will.

New York Groups War on Tammany

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—War on Tammany Hall, with "overthrow" of that Democratic organization as the objective, was declared tonight after a conference of groups which will seek the election of a fusion mayor next November.

Maurice P. Davidson, chairman of the central committee of the city party, issued the statement after conferring with former Gov. Charles S. Whitman of the Republican mayoralty committee and Joseph M. Price of the independent fusion group.

"The campaign will be fought on the one issue of Tammany control of the city government," he said. "The Republican party will unquestionably back a genuinely non-partisan ticket."

Culbertson Shows Experts Sometimes Guess Wrong, Too.

The Meanderer

Sees Delightful Summer Fashion Show; Has Suggestions for Mother's Day Gifts.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Eighty-two costumes covering every summer need of every type of the smart Washington matron or maid were modeled in an F street specialty shop Tuesday afternoon. Daytime frocks, summer swagger suits, summer coats, sports frocks, bathing suits, cotton frocks, afternoon frocks and evening gowns were in the special groups shown.

Only a few of the costumes shown had price tags higher than $16.50. Many of them were marked $5.95 and $7.95. So that the presentation featured true fashion at modest prices. The Meanderer suggests that readers who did not visit this style show ask to be shown some of the gowns that were so well modeled and so well received. The shop is prepared to answer any questions on the models shown, and to continue in an informal way the presentation of summer fashions as they are emphasized in each department.

A flesh-pink mousseline de soie evening gown with a cascade of graceful ruffles down the length of the long gown's skirt, and a softly frilled matching cape, was one of the most appealing of the gowns offered, modeled by Miss Josephine Parks, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Tilman B. Parks, of Arkansas. All this delicate pink loveliness so fetchingly modeled has the modest price tag of $16.50.

The sensation of the fashion show in this specialty shop was a bathing ensemble in Chinese effect modeled by Miss Margery Mooreman. A scantily draped bodice of the bathing suit, fashioned of a brilliant kerchief in Oriental coloring, was supplemented by brief blue bathing trunks, over which were worn blue net pajama trousers. Topping off the extraordinary costume was a huge straw hat, in peaked effect after the manner of a Chinese coolie hat. A quick break into Chinese music by the nimble pianist who furnished music for the event gave the novel Chinese-costumed model a colorful entrance.

Larger women were given much attention in this fashion show, with a number in nearly every group emphasizing the shop's ability to serve this type of shopper.

The white-haired matron, in distinctively modish suits and gowns, had a large share of attention, too. Navy and white street ensembles of cool materials—sheer chiffons with lingerie touches—prints suitable for the matronly type—and graceful, dignified evening gowns were well received by the hundreds of women in attendance. The use of color for older women was suggested in surprising variety.

The few days remaining before Mother's Day led the Meanderer to looking for gifts for that important day we like to remember. In one specialty shop handkerchiefs at 25 and 50 cents are delightful and new. In the 50-cent handkerchiefs, a larger than usual size of sheerest white linen, with only hemstitching for trimming, has borders of white or delicate colored point de esprit. Printed, hand-finished linen handkerchiefs, with subdued or gay colors, are 25 cents, and exquisite Swiss-made handkerchiefs in Appenzell effects are also 25 cents.

A reversible negligee, deep blue on one side and Eleanor blue on the other, with its long scalloped collar bringing out the contrasting blues nicely, is $6.98 in a small specialty shop on F street. This negligee is of excellent quality and has been priced much higher.

A pair of sterling silver candlesticks, in graceful, long, slender design, costs just $2.95 in a leather and gift shop on F street. With Mother's Day so near this should be interesting to the Mother's Day shopper.

What Today Means

"TAURUS."

IF May 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:45 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:20 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:10 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:30 a. m. to 10:55 a. m. and from 1:15 p. m. to 2:40 p. m.

You will probably find it difficult on this day to "keep at" what you are doing. Many distractions will divert your thought, and it will only be by great efforts that you will be able to accomplish much of anything. You will get along "swimmingly" with those of the opposite sex, but you must take especial care not to get into any compromising situations.

The child born on this May 10 may show a tendency to be snobbish and to "look down" on those he considers not his social equals. He will not mix well with those of his age and at school he will probably be known as a brilliant though not a popular pupil. A nervy little one.

If May 10 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a person who tends strictly to his own affairs and who expects others to do likewise. You are a very easy person to get along with until you are ruffled; then you tend to burst forth with bitter and sarcastic utterances that seem really to be no part of your usual and normal self. You are not really quick to anger, but you have no patience with those who commit inexcusable blunders or are careless.

Born on May 10, you are essentially an outdoor person and will make your greatest success if you can connect yourself with some work of not too confining nature. You would seem to have the practical nature, the mathematical and analytical mind and the sound judgment that would enable you to do splendid work as an engineer. You are a leader and a commander of men; people give you their respect. Yours is a forceful character, a character which will inevitably leave its mark on the people and places in your line of march through life. There is a certain simplicity about you that is almost childlike and that attracts many to you. You are a gentle person, you think little of self, and wherever your help is needed you stand ready and willing to give it. The women make better mothers than they do wives.

Successful people born on May 10:

Horatio Allen, civil engineer.

Montgomery Blair, lawyer, politician.

John Sherman, statesman.

William R. Grace, merchant and Mayor of New York.

James Gordon Bennett, jr., journalist.

Sir Thomas Lipton, noted merchant and yachtsman.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Jumper styles are strong favorites with smart young things and youthful women types.

They have a charm all their own.

Today's model is decidedly attractive in dark blue sheer wool and silk crepe mixture. The guimpe with its young puffed sleeves and bowed neckline is coral-red crepe silk with white spots.

A black and white scheme would be lovely too. For instance, make the jumper of black crinkly crepe silk, with plain white crepe guimpe.

Style No. 2585 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust.

Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 35-inch material for jumper with 1⅞ yards of 35-inch material for blouse. Price of pattern 15 cents.

Our new Fashion Magazine for spring contains all of the new spring styles for women, misses and children as well as interesting illustrated articles—Beauty Hints, Hairdressing, How to Reduce Sensibly, Poise as an Aid to Fashions, Dressmaking Hints, etc.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A brown frock with an oddly cut jacket collared in brown astrakhan has sleeves and gilet of coral. (Courtesy of Philippe et Gaston, Paris.)

YOU probably haven't noticed, because you have been right in it all the time. But I have been away—and returning to the United States, I am particularly impressed by the prevailing air of fellowship. Where (oh, gratefully absent!) is the waiter who reduced one to a sniveling worm by the mere angle of his proboscal elevation? Where the shellacked saleswoman who made one so uncomfortable by her disparaging glances at our choice of merchandise? And, oh, lots of similar things.

In Vienna and Berlin after the war, where the rich were starving and the poor sullen, there was the contrast of wealth flaunted by visitors before the infuriated gaze of the victims of Europe's changed economic status. Here today we don't seem to have any of them. Perhaps because there are no wealthy visitors to taunt us. Hence every other person is not suspected of profiting by individual or national downfalls, and there is no suspicion of one's neighbor and neighboring pocketbook.

In general, much that is nice, much that is sporting, and much that is actually Christian has come out of the depression. Now if we only don't forget too soon—one can believe that the ideal state of civilization is not too entirely far off.

I am glad to be home.

There is one Paris couturier who has always impressed me with this very same attitude. Chez Heim, you are always amused, always informal, always at home. And this interesting couturier has carried that same spirit right over into his new salon in the Champs Elysee. Openings chez Heim are parties—and manniquins, titled loveliness and buyers enjoy themselves one and all. And one is never allowed to feel the slightest embarrassment at anything whatsoever—if you have 500 francs for a wedding gown, somehow you are made to feel like the 5,000-franc bride in all her finery. And as if this weren't enough, Heim is forever inventing new things, good things, things one wonders how one got along without—if you will allow me the expression. Or if he doesn't design them himself, he gets them from some other clever person, and, anyhow, shows them to the public for the first time.

There are a lot of these little new things to tell you about manana, so watch for them.

What would you do if you wanted to fringe your life away on something and then found that after all you couldn't get any fringe anyhow? That's what I thought. So-o-o-o-o-o when I finally had the fringe situation well in hand, and on a few things, I made you a leaflet telling you how to fringe. There are different ways, and all effective—when you know how it's all done. So send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washingotn Post for the sketch and directions of how to fringe properly and successfully. You can learn and then remember it for all time—fringe may get very, very popular, more so than it is now, one of these days, you know. There is another effective trimming idea described to you in this leaflet, too—it defies naming, but it is very, very nice.

Brown and coral is an effective combination. I liked the outfit sketched for you today, all brown, soft wool, and coral silk sleeves and vest effect. The jacket, collared in brown astrakhan, covers the blouse part of the dress and manages to achieve a wholly different effect when it is worn over said dress. While the dress can quite well be worn as it is with just a separate fur piece. All credit to Philippe et Gaston, of Paris, for this mode.

THE WEAKNESS OF AN EXPERT.

EVEN experts have their moments of weakness and their vulnerable points. The particular joints in the experts' armor that may be readily pierced soon become known to those who play against them. Take, for instance, my teammate, Mr. Michael T. Gottlieb. He has a fondness for Penalty Doubles, realizing full well that far more points can be gained in Bridge by doubling the overbids of opponents than by going on and making part-scores, or even game, for yourself. However, his fondness for Penalty Doubles sometimes—not often—gives opportunities for profitable Redoubles to his adversaries, as proved the case in a recent set match played by Mrs. Culbertson and myself against Mr. Gottlieb and Mr. Theodore A. Lightner. The match was preliminary training for the visit of the team representing Crockford's Club to Europe, where a series of matches will be played during the summer. The hand of the first rubber was:

East, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Mr. Gottlieb

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
2♣	2♠	Pass	2NT(1)
Pass	4♠(2)	Dbl.(3)	Redbl.(4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—The correct bid—better than three diamonds, as the hand pattern of East suggests the play of the hand at notrump.

2—Warranted by distributional values rather than honor-tricks.

3—This Double has as its basis the possession of 2 trump-tricks and the hope that partner will be able to find 2 tricks somewhere and thus defeat the contract. In my opinion, it is too close, as the anticipated gain apparently can not be more than 50 points. If the contract is made, it has presented the opponents with 120 points in lieu of a possible gain of 50 and risks the loss of 240 points more if the contract is redoubled.

4—Mrs. Culbertson's Redouble comes as a matter of course.

In the actual play of the hand, five were made. Mr. Gottlieb opened the club Ten, which was won with the Ace, and a spade was led from Dummy, the King losing to the Ace. Later he failed to return a club, and a heart was established in Dummy, upon which the losing club was eventually discarded. The Double thus cost not only 360 points, but 200 points additional for the overtrick. It might be said in passing, however, that Mr. Gottlieb makes many Doubles which result profitably for him and his partner. These far more than counterbalance his fondness for very weak Penalty Doubles.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PERNICIOUS ANEMIA AND IRON.

PERNICIOUS anemia is often complicated by disease of the spinal cord. The sick person suffers pains in various parts of the body, or peculiar and unpleasant but not harmful sensations in many places. Disturbance of locomotion is likely to go hand in hand with those of sensation. He is unable to balance himself in standing and he falls easily. He has various disorders of gait, or he loses his ability to walk.

The soles of his feet may become numb, as in locomotor ataxia, causing loss of balance. There are not many disorders of the spinal cord that are not matched at some time or other by the secondary changes in the spinal cord associated with pernicious anemia. Most of us think of cord involvment as being found in no form of anemia except that which commonly goes by the name pernicious, or primary. There is good ground for this, though in rare instances nerve changes are encountered in other forms of severe anemia. In these secondary anemias it may be that whatever is operating to cause the anemia is also acting on the nerves somewhere.

Dr. William Sargent is of the opinion that very large doses of iron are a specific for the diseases of the spinal cord and nerves which accompany the severe anemias, and particularly primary or pernicious anemia, which he and many others anxious to get away from the name pernicious call Addisonian anemia.

He gives Blaud's mass, the iron compound out of which the pills of that name are made. The daily dosage ranges from 40 to 150 grains. Most people who take this medicine limit their dose to 15 grains a day.

In a certain number of cases he found that in the third week of iron the nerve symptoms began to improve noticeably and the case progressed to cure, so far as these symptoms were concerned.

To get such action as this the treatment must be begun fairly early. He makes no claim that the treatment will cure advanced cases of cord disease where the nerves are already dead. In Addisonian anemia the liver treatment is proving very satisfactory.

Persons with the disease who have taken this treatment are still at work and in reasonably good health after about ten years. But the liver treatment somehow failed to overcome cord symptoms when these were present. This, then, is a treatment to be used in addition to the liver treatment in those cases of Addisonian anemia that are developing symptoms that show involvment of the spinal cord.

Pansies to Take Over Cherry Blossoms' Role

More than 1,000,000 pansies are expected to put in their appearance in the coming week in West Potomac Park, Washington park officials estimated yesterday.

The beds are located along Riverside drive, between the Tidal Basin Inlet Bridge and Fourteenth street. It is expected that the flowers will bloom from more than 55,000 plants until the middle of May. The fountain built into the middle of the beds will be lighted for visitors later this week.

4-H Club Girls to Hold Legion Milking Contest

A group of 4-H Club girls from the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia will take part in a milking contest tonight at the American Legion carnival, Thirty-fourth street and Wisconsin avenue northwest.

Under auspices of the Vincent Costello Post, more than a dozen girls will compete for cash prizes and silver cups. Several Holstein cows will be brought from the stock farm of Dr. Thomas J. Kelley, at Darnestown, Md. The carnival closes Saturday.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

A GIRL of 7 who suffered much from earache during the cold months was forced to wear to school a red woolen hood which her mother brought forth from the cedar chest where it had lain for at least a decade.

It was a perfectly good hood decorated with a large bow on top, tying like a baby's cap under the chin and having a sort of collar attached, which, tucked inside the coat, prevented the slightest draught from reaching the sensitive ears. It was ornamented around the edge with red woolen balls. A fine hood it was, but it looked like nothing the little girl or any of her playmates ever had seen. The other children teased her and the boys called her Red Riding Hood and asked her where the wolf was. She went through agonies of humiliation every time she put it on, as she had to the whole winter.

The mother held that the child was silly and that the other children were silly, too. The hood was just the thing to prevent earaches and, for her, the matter ended there.

She failed to take into account other factors in their field as important as her daughter's ear trouble.

How much the child's natural shyness and self-consciousness was augmented by the winter's experience, how much it contributed to her unwillingness to go to school and her difficulty in making friends one can not say, but certainly these results were not negligible.

An imaginative parent would have made an effort to keep her child protected from the cold without putting her through a daily ordeal.

Children should not have to wear clothing which makes them feel different, marked and therefore miserably self-conscious. It is always possible to dress them warmly and serviceably without making them look odd.

JACKSON ACQUITTED AT MARLBORO TRIAL

Police Cordon Prevents Any Demonstration at Ending of Dance Death Case.

While a cordon of police last night formed a line around the bar of the Prince Georges County courtroom at Upper Marlboro to prevent a rumored demonstration, a jury, after deliberation of 1 hour and 45 minutes, pronounced Benjamin Jackson not guilty of the murder of John Carlton.

Jackson, 26-year-old farmer, of Florenceville, Md., charged with shooting Carlton to death last January 29 while at a country dance held at the home of the victim's sister, Mrs. Mollie Chaney, near Marlboro, remained unmoved throughout the trial. The shooting, it was allaged, resulted from arguments over Jackson calling figures for the dance too fast.

Before the verdict was read by Fred B. Chitister, foreman of the jury, Judge Mitchell Diggs, presiding on the bench, warned that a demonstration in the courtroom would not be tolerated.

The prosecution, upheld by Clarence Roberts and State's Attorney Alan Bowie opened the heated trial with the introduction of more than a dozen witnesses in a vain attempt to enmesh Jackson in a maze of incriminating evidence. The courtroom was filled to the overflow.

Second Victim in Dark.

William Chaney, host at the dance and brother-in-law of Carlton, told the court that although he was a victim of the gunman's bullets, he was unable to say who fired the shots. Mrs. Mollie Chaney, his wife, who followed him on the stand, declared she saw Jackson do the shooting.

Besides a dramatic description of the fatal shooting, Mrs. Chaney said she also saw three armed men pass through the dining room, in which she was standing and which adjoined the hall where the shooting occurred. Witnesses were later produced by the defense to show she could not have seen the shooting.

As the story was unraveled to the court through a jumble of conflicting testimony, it was shown that there had been drinking at the dance, that several men present were armed and that several altercations had taken place.

Mary Grearson, one of the guests, testified that she actually saw Jackson do the shooting. Arthur Jackson, cousin of the defendant, said the accused had his hands in the air, defending himself from a blackjack assault when the shooting occurred.

Penny Stopped Bullet.

Dr. James I. Boyd, who examined Jackson several days after the incident, told the court that the wounds on the man's head could hardly have been made by a blackjack.

An interesting feature of the trial was a penny, said to have been taken from Chaney's right hand vest pocket. It had apparently stopped the second bullet from the slayer's gun, saving Chaney's life.

The shooting occurred at the Chaney home, located just outside Marlboro. According to witnesses, Jackson arrived about 11 p. m. He was soon in a disturbance with Ernest and Berkley Lusby, dance musicians, whom he is alleged to have beaten.

Jackson was ordered by William Chaney to leave the house, and made an attempt to do so, it was said. When in the hallway a fight ensued between Jackson, Chaney and a third man, whose identity was not made clear. At this time several shots were heard and Carlton, who was coming out of the room where the dance was being held, and Chaney, both fell shot.

Mme. Secretary Is 'Good Diplomat'

Secretary of Labor Perkins is not only the first woman to serve in the Cabinet, but she is "a good diplomat," too, Ann Burlak, leader of the woman's division of the Communist Party, said yesterday after a conference in the Secretary's office.

Miss Burlak called on Miss Perkins to ask the release of Edith Berkman, textile strike leader being held for deportation. Miss Perkins made no promise, but the Burlak girl, who helped lead the hunger marchers to Washington last winter, said she believed the Cabinet officer would give every one a square deal.

Praise from Miss Burlak is praise indeed, as the girl Communist is somewhat of a connoisseur of Secretaries of Labor. She called on Secretary Doak when he held office and called him a "liar," accusing him of interfering in strikes. Doak, in return, called her a "liar," but gave up because the girl could talk faster than he could.

theory. But now I must abandon it," he said, in explaining that the purpose of his expedition was to compare ethnological data on the Mayas and the Gobi Desert excavations.

Instead, De Prorok believes now the human species evolved in numerous sections of the world.

He foresees complete extinction of the Maya race within a century or so.

"They've intermarried too much. Centuries ago, they once were a huge people. Now the average height is five feet or so," De Prorok related. "The scarcity of women had led to continuous warfare between the villages. There are six men to one woman and it is a constant fight for the women."

Intelligence in the tribes is not much above that of lower animals. Life is sustained by fruit, game and herbs. They have a fear of white man that has descended from generation to generation since Cortez ploughed through the jungle on his way south after the conquest of the Aztecs.

Others with Count de Prorok in the expedition were Prof. Jacques Soustelle, of the University of Paris; Warren Hayman, geologist of Bucknell University; Henry Rothermel, representing the Boston Fine Arts Society, and Rodney Saddler, of London, in charge of photography and technical operations.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

By a vote of 4 to 1, the county board yesterday morning accepted the offer of the Fidelity & Deposit Co., of Maryland, of $350,000 in settlement of the bond of former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball. Fred A. Goesnell cast the lone negative vote. He insisted that he believed the county could collect the entire shortage of $520,154.63 if it proceeded against the bonding company.

Pursuant to an opinion of Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence that the County School Board should vote separately on the matter at a special meeting next Monday night, it voted unanimously to accept the offer.

According to Douglas, the accepted figure is $150,000 above the offer of settlement made by the bonding company about three weeks ago. Douglas stated that he refused to recommend such a settlement and Chairman Harry A. Fellows stated that he had informed Douglas that he would not consider such a figure.

Two resolutions prepared by attorneys for the bonding company and Douglas were passed by the two boards. One was in the nature of an agreement with the other board that the money collected will be assigned to various county funds in the proportion that the alleged shortage was charged against them and the other was in the form of acceptance of the offer of the bonding company.

The portion of the alleged shortage charged to the School Board was approximately one-fifth the total shortage, which provides that that body will receive about $70,000 of the money, the balance going to the various county funds.

Following resolutions adopted, settlement with the bonding company will be closed as soon as necessary legal details can be worked out.

Among these details it is understood that the bonding company will request Commonwealth's Attorney Douglas to file certain suits in each of which judgment will be taken upon agreement of council. The total of such judgment will equal $350,000 to the county in addition to the approximate $50,000 to the State.

Miss Julia Hrubec Gets White Visitation Veil

Miss Julia Hrubec, daughter of the late Leo and Elizabeth Hrubec, of Verona, N. J., was presented the habit and white veil of a novice of the Order of the Visitation in the Monastery at Bethesda, Md., at ceremonies conducted by Mgr. C. P. Thomas, P. A., assisted by the Rev. Eugene A. Hannan, chaplain of the monastery, and the Rev. J. J. Kelly, of the Church of Our Lady of the Lake, Verona, N. J.

A discourse on the cloistered life was delivered by the Rev. James M. Haynes. The musical program was under the direction of Miss Mary Helen Rowe. Miss Hrubec will take the name of Sister Mary Augustine.

Booster Committee Plans Outing in June

Instead of taking a cruise, as in past years, the Washington Merchants and Manufacturers Association will have its annual outing this year at Atlantic City on June 9 to 11, it was decided at a meeting of the booster committee yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Malcolm Gibbs has been elected chairman of the outing committee. In past years the association has chartered a steamer on the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay. No boat was available this year, and it was thought that members of the association would enjoy a change in the type of celebration.

Gen. Gorecki to Give Fidac Medal to G. U.

Gen. Roman Gorecki, of Poland, president of Fidac, will present the educational medal of this international veterans' group to Georgetown University at exercises today at 8:30 p. m. in Gaston Hall at Georgetown.

Nine countries affiliated with Fidac will be represented at the ceremony. Following the program, President Nevils of Georgetown will hold a reception in honor of Gen. Gorecki and Ambassador Stanislaw Patek, of Poland. The Fidac medal was awarded to Georgetown last September at Lisbon, Portugal, for the services of its School of Foreign Service in promoting international good will and understanding.

Ladies Fire Auxiliary Host.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department will entertain with a special program the auxiliaries in the county tonight in Lyon Park Community House.

Houston Speaker To Veterans' Sons

Elkton, Md., May 9 (A.P.).—Robert G. Houston, of Georgetown, was the principal speaker at tonight's meeting of the convention here of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, department of Maryland, and the ladies auxiliary of the organization. Houston is a former representative in Congress from Delaware. The meeting followed a banquet at the Howard Hotel. Approximately 200 delegates from Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia attended.

Department Commander Robert P. McElroy, of Washington, presided at the business meetings of the department and Mrs. Marian Z. Perry, of Wilmington, Del., at the sessions of the auxiliary.

The conventions will close tomorrow with the election of officers and selection of the city for the next year's meetings.

LOWELL'S CENSURE IN DRUG CASE SEEN

Supreme Court Appeal Based on Judge's Charge That Defendant Lied.

(Associated Press.)

Federal Judge James A. Lowell, of Massachusetts, who is threatened with impeachment because of the way he freed George Crawford, a Negro indicted in Virginia for murder, yesterday seemed destined to be rebuked by the Supreme Court on a quite separate score.

In a case argued yesterday before the high tribunal it was stated that during instructions to a jury in a narcotics case Judge Lowell said of the defendant:

"He wiped his hands during the testimony. It is a rather curious thing, but that is almost always an indication of lying. Why it should be so, we don't know, but that is the fact. I think that every single word that man said, except when he agreed with the Government's testimony, was a lie."

The court stopped the argument right there, and turned to ask former Solicitor General Thacher what he thought about this.

Thacher suggested that the defendant should have a new trial, spoke at length about the necessity of fair, unbiased instructions being given jurors. Otherwise, he said, the institution of jury trial is threatened.

Even if the court does not make any punishing remarks in its decision on the case, jurists consider that remand of a case on such grounds is outright censure.

In the Crawford case, the judge granted habaes corpus on the grounds that since Virginia does not permit Negroes to sit on juries, sending the man back for trial would be a waste of time and money for the Supreme Court would reject the verdict on constitutional grounds.

Such a furore did this create that Representative Howard W. Smith, of Virginia, proffered formal impeachment charges in the House. They were referred to a committee that is to investigate. Meantime an appellate court in Massachusetts has the Crawford case.

Crawford is wanted for trial on charge of the murder at Middleburg, Va., of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, society woman, who was found beaten to death in her home.

The case before the Supreme Court yesterday was the appeal of Angelo Quercia, of Somerville, Mass., who was convicted in Lowell's court of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

MERITS OF HOURLY NURSING STRESSED

Mrs. Davidge States Public Is Not Alive to Use of Special Service.

A study of the administration of hourly nursing service was reviewed yesterday at a meeting of the board of managers of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society at the organization's headquarters in the Albee Building.

Mrs. John W. Davidge, chairman of the nurses committee, discussed a report by Michael Davis, of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, which described the hourly nursing service from a study financed by the fund.

"The public does not always understand," Mrs. Davidge declared, "that a public health nursing association is a democratic community organization which provides part time nursing care and health instructions to those who can pay in full for their services as well as to the indigent sick of the community, whose care is provided for by donations made through the Community Chest or directly to the Visiting Nurse Association."

"We no longer hesitate," she continued, "to enter hospitals because half of the beds are provided for free patients. In like manner community health associations have the set up to carry a smaller cost than would otherwise be possible, the hourly service, the general full pay service and the free service for the destitute of the city."

A need for this type of service was expressed by Mrs. R. M. Kaufmann. Many persons, she said, would use it if they understood it was available. The society, it was pointed out, employes a staff of 74 graduate public health nurses, the majority of whom are graduates of local hospitals.

Rodeo Is Staged At Wreck Scene

Ruffin, N. C., May 9 (A.P.).—Ropes sang through the air in real "wild west" fashion today as "cow-punchers" atop polo ponies conducted a round-up of cattle that were liberated in a Southern Railway freight train wreck near here Wednesday.

Scenes reminiscent of the old West were enacted by the horsemen who were sent her from Warrenton, Va., the heart of the Old Dominion's sporting section.

Angry bulls charged their pursuers, and ponies, occasionally finding the going too rough, stumbled, but there were no serious accidents to mar the "rodeo."

Toy Concert Ended Before Hour Is Up

Washington's toy orchestra, composed of youngsters ranging from 5 to 9 years of age, gave a spring concert yesterday afternoon at the Kalorama Day School, 1840 Kalorama road northwest, under the direction of Miss Frances Gutelius.

The nine members of the unique orchestra ran through their program so smoothly that it was over in 20 minutes instead of the scheduled hour. This gave guests more time to inspect the Kalorama School and to be entertained by the principal, Miss Helen Gilliss, and faculty members.

COL. LINDBERGH TESTIFIES IN MEANS-WHITAKER CASE

an Aiken hotel, who testified as to Means' and Whitaker's registration there as guests. One of these, George A. Lenz, brought laughter to the spectators and a smile to the court with his reiterated statement, in a Southern drawl, that although he had "no doubt" that Whitaker was the man who was registered as "Nell Williams" he "couldn't swear to it."

Mr. Rover said that he would finish the presentation of the Government's case by noon tomorow. He indicated that among the witnesses he would call would be the Rev. Patrick J. Hurney, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception; Miss Elisabeth Poe and Miss Elizabeth Nelson, nurse employed by Mrs. McLean to take care of the child when Means secured it.

Means May Take Stand.

Neither defense attorney would say positively whether their clients would take the stand in their own defense. If they do not, the defense testimony is expected to be very short. Means declared, as he did during his previous trial for the defrauding of Mrs. McLean of $104,000 in ransom money, that he would testify. However, he did not take the stand at the first trial.

Other witnesses heard yesterday were George W. White, president of the National Metropolitan Bank, and Reginald Woodward, of the same bank, who told of lending $100,000 to Mrs. McLean—the money which she gave to Means.

Jewels Are Displayed.

The Rev. Robert S. Lloyd, headmaster of Georgetown Preparatory School, testified of Mean's telling him of being stopped by a man at the Highway Bridge entrance to Washington to whom he gave the $100,000 when told he represented "No. 11"—as Means had designated Mrs. McLean.

Mrs. McLean thrilled the spectators when she took a necklace and two bracelets, all of diamonds, and valued at $250,000 from her handbag and exhibited them. It was these jewels, the prosecution claims, that Mrs. McLean intended to pawn, in good faith, to get the $35,000 as a final effort to recover the Lindbergh child.

COURT REFURNISHING PUT UP TO COUNCIL

Alexandria Bar Official Says Improvements Cost Around $1,500.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Charles Henry Smith, president of the Alexandria Bar Association, appeared before the city council last night and reported that the work of remodeling and refurnishing the corporation courtroom had been completed and asked the council's approval of an expenditure of $656.77 for furniture already installed, and approval of the expenditure of $295 for new chairs, a total of approximately $1,500. The matter was referred to the city manager.

The question of a charge of $20 for tapping the Hooffs Run sewer by residents of the annexed territory was reported upon by a committee composed of Councilman Cooper, King and Davison, and the consensus of the council was that the report of the committee, favoring the abandonment of the charge, be adopted. It was referred to the city attorney, however, for study and report.

An application of B. B. Exrine for a permit to erect and maintain a gasoline filling station at the northwest corner of Washington and Franklin streets, which has been under consideration for many months, was finally approved, subject to certain restrictions.

Recommendations of a committee which inspected the city jail that certain improvements be made, including an isolation ward, replacing of wooden floors and stairs with concrete, and a bathroom, were referred to the city manager for an estimate of cost.

The council granted a petition of William M. Gates for rezoning of the west side of Patrick street, between Madison and Montgomery streets, for commercial purposes; application of A. W. Higgins for rezoning of the northwest corner of Washington and Gibbon streets for a tea room or antique shop, was denied, and application of Charles A. Davis for rezoning of the square bounded by Madison, Montgomery, Pitt and Royal streets and a portion of the square located at the intersection of the west side of Fairfax street with the south side of Oronoco street, the former for an oil storage plant and the latter for a screen factory, was set for a hearing June 13.

A report of the bank committee with reference to a request from the banks of the city that the city's funds be deposited equally in the four banks of the city, was received. The committee's report showed that this is a matter within the discretion of the city treasurer, and the council is without authority to direct banking of the funds.

An appropriation of $300 was made for the resurfaceing of Payne street, between Princess and Oronoco streets.

Permission was granted the American Legion Auxiliary to hold its annual Poppy Day sale May 27.

Virginia to Check On Beer Traffic

Richmond, Va., May 9 (A.P.).—Assistant Attorney General Edwin H. Gibson today threatened prosecution of sellers of 3.2 beer in Virginia for any purposes except medicinal.

He announced the inauguration of a State-wide checkup on wholesalers, retailers and doctors who are issuing prescriptions for the brew which now is Federally legal, but State prohibited in Virginia.

"When we find doctors violating the law and drug stores filling prescriptions for large quantities of beer not used for medicinal purposes, we shall proceed against the doctors and act on the permits of the stores," Mr. Gibson said.

Clarendon Citizens' Unit For Power Extension

Meeting last night, the Clarendon Citizens Association indorsed the proposal of the Arlington County Public Utilities Commission to have the Potomac Power & Electric Co. extend its lines throughout the county. The president was authorized to appoint a committee of ten to circulate petitions in the Clarendon area, requesting the company to consider the matter.

The action followed discussions of the subject by Edmund D. Campbell, chairman of the commission, and L. C. McNemar, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation.

Committee Is Reelected By Friendship Citizens

All members of the Friendship Heights citizens committee were reelected at the annual meeting Monday night. They will serve for a term of two years.

The members of the committee are Emory H. Bogley, John A. P. Farnham, Hutzel Metzger, Henry W. Offutt, A. C. Richmond, Mrs. S. J. Ross and Albert E. Shoemaker.

Wyman Will Head Dental Association

Dr. W. W. Wyman was the sole nominee for president of the District of Columbia Dental Society last night. Dr. B. E. Erikson was nominated for president-elect, an office similar to that of vice president, and Dr. Charles L. Smith was nominated for membership on the executive committee for three years as chairman of the publications committee, and Dr. George Albert Smith as chairman of the oral hygiene committee. All will be elected at the next regular meeting.

For members of the executive committee for one year there were nominated Dr. A. D. Weakley, Dr. Manley Michaels, Dr. Stephen Hopkins, Dr. Samuel Bognodoff, Dr. Paul Evans, Dr. Harold W. Kroge, Dr. M. Lucas, Dr. Daniel Lynch, Dr. William I. Ogus, Dr. George Becker, Dr. James A. Brown, Dr. George Ellis, Dr. Francis M. Murray and Dr. William Keroz. Four of these will be elected at the next meeting.

Glee Club Opens Season Tonight.

The Catholic University Glee Club opens its regular season of concerts tonight when it appears at Immaculate Seminary in a concert composed of a variety of numbers. The club will be directed by Dr. Leo Behrendt and will be accompanied on the piano by Frank J. Brennan.

In Reverse

Colored Settlement Wants to Exclude Whites in Their Section.

Residents of Smithville, a colored settlement between Colesville and Fairland, Md., have registered their objections to the sale of a house in their community to a white man with the Citizens Building & Loan Association of Silver Spring, Md. The association will discuss the problem Thursday night when its board of directors meets.

The colored residents contended that theirs is a purely colored settlement and that they do not wish white residents to live there. They allege that there are a number of white communities in the county which exclude colored residents and that they have just as much right to object to white residents in their community as the whites have to colored residents. It is understood that the loan association, which purchased the property at a mortgage sale, probably will accede to their request.

ONE TREASURE SHIP RETURNING TO PORT

Danger of Clash With Rival Expedition Is Averted for Time Being.

Norfolk, Va., May 9 (A.P.).—One of two rival expeditions seeking the treasure aboard the sunken liner Merida was returning to Norfolk tonight, a message from the Coast Guard destroyer Davis said. The Davis, dispatched last night to the scene of the treasure hunting activities at the request of both factions, was also returning to port.

The destroyer's message said that the trawlers Theresa and Dan and Jnord, representing the expedition headed by Capt. John Hall and Klass Everts, a well-known diver, had forsaken its position over the spot where the Merida was believed to lie.

It did not indicate whether the ship was abandoning the hunt or was returning to port for supplies.

Left on the scene was the expedition headed by Capt. H. L. Bowdoing, of New York, aboard the salvage steamer Salvor. This expedition formerly included the trawlers Sea Gull and Sea Rambler, of Hampton.

Coast Guard officials said that the Davis was dispatched to the scene at the command of Eastern Area headquarters in New York.

Child Calls Police; Can't Tell Where

Unable to remember her name or address, Dolores Gunning, 6, frantically called police over the phone yesterday to bring aid for her mother, who was lying helpless with a slashed wrist at their home at 1005 Quebec street northwest. Headquarters officers traced the call and finally brought help.

The child had picked up the instrument and blurted: "I want a cop." When questioned she only added: "My daddy's gone away and my mother is hurt." Police traced the call and entered the house an hour later, finding the child still talking over the phone, her twin brother John at her side. Her mother was lying in another portion of the house in a dazed condition.

Mrs. Gunning was treated at Garfield Hospital, and later transferred to Gallinger Hospital. The children were taken to the Woman's Bureau.

Diamond Cab Gets Station Taxi Lease

The Independent Taxi Owners Association, operating as the Diamond Cab Co., was awarded the taxicab concession at Union Station, yesterday, by the Washington Terminal Co. The Black and White-Yellow Cab Co., owned by the Parmalee interests of Philadelphia, has held the concession for several years. Bidding for the concession had been confined to the Diamond and the City Cab Co.

The amount of money involved in the transaction was not disclosed. The lease of the Black and White-Yellow Co. expires at midnight Sunday.

In 1925 the Black and White Co. realized $300,000 from the concession. Although the flat rate taxi prices have reduced cab profits in the last two years, the station rights are still considered a valuable concession.

Capital Horse Show Plans Are Completed

Final preparations were completed last night for the National Capital Horse Show, scheduled to open today at Bradley Farms, Md.

The Washington Junior League, sponsors of the show, will receive a portion of the proceeds for charity work. The first event will begin at 1:30 p. m.

BLACK WILL HEAD FEDERAL RESERVE

country due to President Roosevelt's expansion program provided for in the farm relief-inflation bill.

Under this plan the Federal Reserve Board is given the opportunity to expand its open market operations and purchase up to $3,000,000,000 of Government securities, or securities of corporations the majority of whose stock is owned by the Government.

This expansion is intended to throw huge amounts of new money into circulation, and the governor of the Federal Reserve Board will be at the helm of the organization which will direct it.

This form of expansion, termed the most easily controlled that could be devised, will be directly under the finger tips of the Federal Reserve Board, which will act on the instructions of the President and Secretary Woodin.

In effect the new law will make the board and the governors of the 12 Federal Reserve banks, who compose the system's open market operations, the directors of the President's expansion program.

Through the Federal Reserve banks the new governor and the board will play an important part in guiding the destiny of business and industry through directing and approving loans that will be made by member banks and the extension of Federal Reserve credit to business generally.

CHERRYDALE BACKS BANK REORGANIZING

75 Per Cent of Stockholders Approve People's Plan for Reopening.

More than 75 per cent of the stockholders of the People's State Bank of Cherrydale approved the proposed reorganization plans submitted to them by the State commissioner of banking at a special meeting held last night.

Clarence R. Ahalt, member of the board of directors and attorney for the bank, explained in detail the present financial condition of the bank and the necessity for the adoption of the plan by the stockholders, in order that the interests of the depositors may be properly conserved.

Walter U. Varney, counsel for the committee of nine selected by the depositors at a prior meeting, stated the plan of reorganization contemplated chartering a new bank under the name Old Dominion Bank, with a paid in capital of $50,000, surplus of $10,000 and undivided profits of $2,500, and when the organization is perfected the present bank will be merged with the new one. He further stated that it is expected to have the new bank in full operation within the next 30 days.

New Trials Overruled In Stonesifer's Slaying

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 9.—Judge Nicholas H. Green, in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court, today overruled motions for new trials in behalf of Howard Givens and Irving Ford, taxicab drivers, recently convicted as accessories to manslaughter in the killing of Howard Stonesifer, formerly employed as watchman at the Naval Academy. They were convicted jointly with Miss Rose Welch, 18-year-old Eastport girl. No move was made in behalf of Miss Welch.

The pleas were based upon the claim of lack of sufficient evidence to warrant the verdict, but Judge Green, in denying the motion, commended the jury and the conclusion it reached. It is expected sentence will be passed upon Miss Welch, Givens and Ford within the next day or two.

Whitehurst Picked To Lead Engineers

Roland Whitehurst was elected chairman of the Washington section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at a meeting last night in the Potomac Electric Power Co. auditorium.

Other officers elected for the year were Dr. H. G. Dorsey, vice chairman; G. G. Coleman, secretary and treasurer, and J. L. Carr and Dr. H. L. Curtis, members of the executive committee. They will be installed in office in July.

The method of obtaining the ocean depths was explained in an illustrated lecture by Dr. Herbert Grove Dorsey, principal electrical engineer of the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Prior to the meeting a dinner was given by the engineers in honor Dr. Dorsey at the Harrington Hotel. He was introduced by Prof. T. J. MacKavanagh, chairman of the society.

Pneumonia Threatens Police Sergt. Reed

Police Sergeant Ertis W. Reed, of the Crime Prevention Bureau, was reported in a serious condition from pneumonia last night at George Washington Hospital.

He has been sick at his home at 1417 Trinidad avenue northeast for about a week, and was taken to the hospital late yesterday.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THERE was never a better example of how careful the radio people must be with regard to what they say over the air than when an announcer recently introduced the President's son as "Hon. James Roosevelt." A listener in Brooklyn, N. Y., was so disturbed by this, declaring that even if he was the son of the President he was not entitled to the designation "Honorable" in his own right, that she wrote a personal letter to William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, in New York.

Mr. Paley, though young in years is a diplomat nevertheless. Evidently not caring to venture an opinion in such a delicate matter, he referred the letter to Lawrence M. Lowman, his right-hand man, who in turn passed the letter along to Harry C. Butcher, general manager of WJSV, in Washington, where the Roosevelt broadcast originated.

Mr. Butcher replied as follows:

"You are correct in stating that Mr. James Roosevelt was introduced on the air as the 'Hon. James Roosevelt.' Technically, this was incorrect.

"The term was used, however, after considerable debate between the head continuity writer and the announcer. It was first decided not to use 'Honorable' and the term was omitted from the continuity, but when Mr. Roosevelt walked into the studio, his appearance was so striking that our boys were overwhelmed by his graciousness and promptly reinserted 'Honorable.'

"As a matter of fact, 'Honorable' is used generally in Washington and while it is supposed to designate persons holding official positions with the Government, nevertheless, so many congressmen and senators use the term in writing to their constituents and to persons of influence in Washington, that the term becomes quite generally applied."

"TEDDY ROOSEVELT" will be the topic of Frank B. Lord, newspaper man, who covered the White House when he was President, in the "Going to Press" program over WJSV at 3:45 p. m. The introductions of Don Craig, jr., on these programs are also an interesting feature. The series to date has been tip-top in every respect.

They actually cooked a meal during a broadcast last week. To give realism and the flavor of the out-of-doors to a Western scene, during the Death Valley Days program, Edwin Whitney, director of the program, produced an electric stove and three slices of bacon.

It was hardly a meal for the hungry members of the cast, but the sizzling bacon produced such realistic odors that the studio visitors and the actors cast envious glances at the smoking skillet.

Nature took a hand in celebrating Irvin S. Cobb's return to the air last Wednesday night. As the zero hour approached for the wit of Paducah to actuate the microphone the skies became darker and the lightning played a static spring song in the clouds. The clock struck 8 and Cobb began to spin his yarns to the accompaniment of an electrical bombardment.

The broadcaster who competes with a lightning bolt is shy a portion of his audience. The man-made broadcasting plant is feeble compared to the zig-zag streaks in the heavens.

"During its brief duration, a lightning stroke develops enormous power," explains Howard S. Warren, development engineer of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. "The potential of a typical stroke may be 100,000 volts and the current 200,000 amperes, corresponding perhaps to 20,000,000,000 horsepower. If the duration of the surge is 50 microseconds, this would mean some 200 kilowatts of energy."

Cobb will be heard again tonight over WJSV at 8 o'clock.

JOSEF LHEVINNE, pianist, will present an all-Brahms program over WRC tonight at 8:30, in the last of his series of piano recitals, in honor of the centennial anniversary of the great composer's birth. Mischo Levitzki, pianist, will inaugurate a new series over the same network beginning next Wednesday night.

Lloyd Lewis, literary editor and author of "Sherman, the Fighting Prophet," will be heard over WMAL this afternoon at 2:45.

Studio mishaps which terrify the artist sometimes bring bouquets from listeners. Tito Guizar, who has broadcast some 625 programs, discovered that his greatest audience response came recently when he broke three strings on his accompanying guitar. The young Mexican tenor, more famed for his voice than for his command of English was wary of his lingual ability.

But he had to explain in English what had happened while he hurriedly replaced the strings. He came out of the studio with beads on his brow and roundly rued his luck (in Spanish). The next mail brought him countless letters asking him to repeat the stunt, and adding, "We like to hear you talk." Now his directors have him speak a bit on each program.

HANS KINDLER will come to Washington listeners this summer in his new role as guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra from the Lewisohn Stadium in New York City. It is outstanding recognition that Kindler should be invited to participate in these concerts. Among other guest conductors will be Willem Hoogestraten. The series will start July 1, and will be widely broadcast.

The program of "Radio Joe and the Budget Bunch" for tonight over WMAL at 6:30 o'clock, will be known as "George Washington University Nite," and will be dedicated to the play, "Romantic Young Lady," which the George Washington Troubadours are giving at Wardman Park Theater tonight and Wednesday and Thursday. Besides the Budget Babes, "Dodo" and Jeannette Bittner, and the Budget Boys, Les and Stanley, Radio Joe will have Bill Moran and the George Washington University Troubadours Trio.

Raoi De Costa, director of the Shoreham Concert Orchestra, will play the violin solo, "Romance," by Adolf Torovsky, for the broadcast over WMAL at 7:30 p. m.

Fannie Brice will reveal her versatility as a dialectician when she takes off several characters applying at a matrimonial bureau in a sketch tonight with George Olsen and his orchestra at 7 o'clock over WRC. She will also appear again as Mrs. Cohen, shepherding her flock at a picnic.

Marine Band Offers Popular Symphonies

A violin solo will feature the program of the United States Marine Band Orchestra concert tonight at 8 o'clock in the band auditorium at the Marine Barracks. Musician Delbert Allen will play the Russian composer Glazounow's violin concerto, opus 82. In the program are the two popular symphonies, Simphony No. 8 in B minor (Unfinished), (Schubert) and the symphony from "The New World," in E minor, opus 95 (Dvorak).

American U. School to Hear Wile.

Frederic William Wile will be the speaker at the discussion on current affairs in the making of history at American University Graduate School, Nineteenth and F streets northwest, tonight at 8 o'clock.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York—Tales of the town:

It was a rainy afternoon four years ago that I wandered into my favorite tavern in Fifty-second street for a warming cup of coolong. The place was deserted, except for a single waiter, one Pietro by name, and just arrived from Italy. He knew so little English that he could barely understand my orders, but he proudly displayed a school boy's copy book in which he was laboriously writing over and over again English words so he could learn the language.

A few days ago I walked into the dining room of a smart hotel on Park avenue, and there was Pietro, now maitre d'hotel.

"You seem to be prospering, Pietro," I greeted him.

"Ah, yes," he answered in flawless English. "I have done well. In fact, I have saved enough so that I could go back to Italy now and retire."

"Then you will soon be going back?" I inquired.

"Oh, no," he protested. "This is my country now. In Italy I am only Pietro. Here I am somebody. I am maitre d'hotel. I am now an American."

Which is a vastly different viewpoint from the one that existed a quarter of a century ago when so many immigrants landed in New York with the idea of accumulating a tidy sum and returning to their native land.

Most of them now would rather become American citizens.

New Racket.

The actors are fighting a new form of racketeer—the benefit boys.

Broadway showfolk have always been generous in giving their services to performances for the benefit of some charity cause. Even when the cause was for some obscure home for orphans or aged people of which they had never even heard.

Then it was discovered that the sponsors of many of these benefit shows were giving only a small percentage of the receipts to the charity and they held the remainder for themselves.

At one benefit for a home for destitutes, the receipts were around $2,200, but the home received only $250 of this. The actors, led by Eddie Dowling, are banding to put a stop to such practices.

Too "High Brow."

A Hollywood director recently visited a Broadway comedy on which his company held an option. He reported back to his employers that the play was too "high brow" for movie audiences.

When told this, the author of the play retorted that perhaps it was because the director was merely too "high brow" for the play.

Jack Dempsey is the newest man-about-town to join the late nighters on Broadway.

Stocks Continue Advances Under Mild Buying Flurry

Half-Point Gain Recorded as Sales Dwindle to 2,249,770 Shares.

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Stocks fluttered erratically today in the quietest market since April 28.

Unwilling to venture very far in either direction, leaders closed on a mild buying flurry and were mostly fractions to a point net higher.

Speaking generally, advances during the session were wider than the declines, and traders who have been anticipating a corrective reaction again noted the buying that was forthcoming on recessions. Sales totaled 2,249,770 shares.

Shares appeared little interested in a sharp dip by wheat. This break did cause some sympathetic selling during the afternoon that canceled gains of fractions to a couple of points, but this was easily absorbed and the final tone was rather firm. American Tobacco "B," Corn Products, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott, Goodyear, Dome Mines, Montgomery Ward and International Harvester were up 1 to 1½. Celanese, Libby Owens Ford and Industrial Rayon rallied more aggressively. Steels were moderately improved. General Motors and Du Pont figured in heavy dealings at higher prices. Rails stood virtually still.

News of wage increases and expanding employment in some sections of the country received wide publicity, though it probably had little, if any, direct Wall street influence. Such improvement as has occurred in business is receiving due recognition from the financial community which, however, is not at this time disposed to hazard extravagant forecasts on the probable extent of recovery this summer. Although the apparent reversal of business trends is none the less welcome, some quarters are waiting to see how well the rise wears and to what extent unemployment can be reduced.

United States Steel's backlog figures, due tomorrow noon, may well show an increase; if so, it will be the first upturn since last October and will be contrary to the usual April experience. American Metal Market said the automobile trade was taking one-fifth of current steel output, a smaller proportion than was the case a month ago, which means demand is broadening out. "Should products now dull become active," the review pointed out, "steel production could easily gain a half dozen points or more" from current levels.

Wall street was without detailed information as to the administration's plans for aiding industry by relaxing the antitrust laws, but believes such a program holds important possibilities. The docket of recovery measures still contains several prominent items, including the Glass banking bill, which has spent a long hibernation in committee.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Tues.	Mon.
Advances	232	201
Declines	344	435
Unchanged	152	168
Total issues	728	804

Stocks.

Mild buying sent stock prices a half-point higher in the quietest market since April 28. Sales volume dwindled to 2,249,770 shares.

Bonds.

Renewed demand failed to save bonds from a fractional loss. The average drop was one-tenth of a point. Sales decreased to $12,776,000.

Curb.

Quiet trading marked the curb. The undertone was steady. Oils were firm. The turnover declined to 255,000 shares.

Wheat.

Final news on the administration's probable handling of the farm bill sent wheat prices down. At one time the drop reached nearly 3 cents per bushel. Corn and oats slumped. May wheat sold at 69⅝ to 69¾ cents.

Cotton.

A late rally reduced earlier losses in cotton to 2 to 5 points. July sold at 8.37. Liverpool reported an easy market.

Hog Prices Reach $4 In Kansas City Market

Kansas City, May 9 (A.P.).—Hogs reached the $4 level here today in something of a belated response to the inflation movement in other markets which started several weeks ago. The price equaled the high point reached in March and last September. The day's was 10 to 15 cents.

Lambs also continued strong, rising 10 to 15 cents.

BOND MARKET SAGS IN SPITE OF BUYING

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Renewed demand for higher-grade corporation loans in today's bond market was not sufficient to overcome the easier tendencies of secondary groups and closing prices were irregularly lower.

Sales totaled $12,776,000, par value, and the average for 80 domestic corporate bonds was off one-tenth of a point.

While the recent speculative favorites apparently reflected profit taking coincident with the receding activity in stocks, the "gilt edge" classes came in for some institutional accumulation on the theory that, if the extensive open market authority of the Federal Reserve system is utilized, there may be a scarcity of other high ranking maturities.

United States Government securities continued to maintain their steady to firm position, and gains of fractions to a point or more were held by bonds of American Telephone, Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, Burlington, Columbia Gas, Consolidate Gas and Louisville & Nashville.

Among losers of fractions to a point or more were some bonds of Allegheny Corporation, American & Foreign Power and Baltimore & Ohio.

REICHSBANK STATEMENT.

Berlin, May 9 (A.P.).—The Reichsbank statement as of May 6, shows the following changes in reichsmarks: Gold and bullion decreased 9,742,000; reserve in foreign currencies decreased 112,000; bills of exchange and cheques decreased 69,081,000; silver and other coins increased 50,132,000; notes on other banks increased 4,816,000; advances decreased 105,311,000; investments decreased 140,000; other assets decreased 54,779,000; notes in circulation decreased 128,443,000; other maturing obligations decreased 46,006,000; other liabilities decreased 9,676,000. Total sold holdings, 400,799,000. Note coverage, 9.1 per cent. Rate of discount, 4 per cent.

Dollars Continue Recovery On Foreign Money Marts

London, May 9 (A.P.).—Speculators operating in the exchange market today caused quotations of the American dollar to fluctuate over a 5-cent range.

Opening at $3.94 to the pound in sympathy with overnight news from America, the rate was steadily bettered until afternoon when the dollar touched $3.90. There was a reaction of a penny or more before the closing of the exchange, and in afterhours dealings the rate dropped to $3.95½.

The movement this morning was attributed to the nervousness of speculators who had loaded up on the currency last week in the expectation of drastic inflation.

The late afternoon development appeared principally as a reversal of the earlier trading, with most dealers buying francs with dollars.

Meanwhile, the French franc strengthened to 86.75 in the last business, as compared to yesterday's quotation of 85.87 to the pound and 86.28 earlier today.

Total transactions in the dollar were smaller than at the end of last week and there was a notable halt in Continental pressure which carried the rate to $4.06 last Saturday.

Paris, May 9 (A.P.).—The moderation of President Roosevelt's views on inflation was held in financial circles as one of the chief reasons for the strong recovery of the American dollar on the bourse today.

The dollar closed at 22.03 francs, an improvement of 49 centimes over yesterday's close. It opened at 21.70 francs and rose to 22.15 in prebourse trading.

Other factors in the trading were the heavy accumulated commercial demand and the covering by shorts.

Speculators who had been hoping for a runaway stock market felt a sobering influence resulting in the swing toward dollar purchases, while commercial needs began asserting themselves.

Montreal, May 9 (A.P.).—Foreign currencies moved lower on Montreal foreign exchanges today. The pound sterling fluctuated rapidly and closed lower, while the United States dollar was higher.

The pound opened lower, at $4.49½, and then climbed to $4.51, finishing the day at $4.49½, off 1 9-16 cents. United States funds moved upward at the opening, but receded to 14¾ per cent premium, up ¼ of 1 per cent. The French franc advanced .02 of a cent, at 5.25 cents.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Gilt-edged securities were depressed on the stock exchange today, while profit taking affected transatlantic issues and mining shares. Textile and foreign bonds were well supported. Argentine rails advanced about 1 point. The closing was irregular.

Paris—Selling influenced by the reaction in Wall street and Roosevelt's speech, sent prices lower on the bourse. Rentes were an exception. The closing tone was heavy.

Berlin—Quotations on the boerse advanced a few points and the closing was sustained.

CURB PRICES STEADY IN QUIETER MARKET

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—The curb market lapsed into quiet trading today, backing and filling uncertainly most of the session, but maintaining a fairly steady undertone.

Oils were conspicuously firm, and utilities had intervals of strength. The volume fell off to 255,000 shares, compared with 318,000 yesterday.

Humble Oil advanced 1½ points in a fair turnover for that issue. Gulf gained more than a point, but was up only ½ at the finish. Fractional gains were registered by Standard of Indiana, Creole Petroleum and International Petroleum. Recent buying in this group has seemed to be predicated on the belief that the current price unsettlement would bring more effective production control.

In the utilities, American Gas & Electric was up a point at one time, but closed unchanged. Electric Bond & Share and Niagara Hudson gained fractions. Lake Shore was a firm spot in the mining issues. Industrials and specialties were mixed. Deere rose a point, then fell back in sympathy with wheat, closing up only ¼. Technicolor gained a point. Pan-American Airways advanced nearly a point in a small turnover. Great Atlantic & Pacific receded 2.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Steady buying of finished goods was reported in the cotton goods division of the dry goods markets tday. Unfinished cloths were firm with trading lighter. Rayon sales continue in fair volume. Wool goods are firm and in many agencies goods have been withdrawn. Burlaps were steady.

Steel Prices Unchnaged.

WHEAT VALUES SINK ON FARM BILL NEWS

Stop-Loss Selling Is Blamed for Declines; Corn and Oats Join Slump.

Chicago, May 9 (A.P.).—Almost 3 cents a bushel fell on wheat prices that went hand in hand with final consideration of the Roosevelt farm bill at Washington today. Corn dropped about 2 cents.

Unsettlement that accompanied the decisive voting on the farm bill was emphasized by prospects that the Government May crop report tomorrow would show a larger probable 1933 yield of domestic wheat than was indicated a month ago.

In some quarters, after the close of trading, actual enactment of the farm bill was asserted to be likely to bring about recovery from today's decline. Other trade authorities stressed gossip that a majority of professional traders here had disposed of their wheat holdings.

Wheat closed weak at virtually the day's bottom figures, 2½ to 2¾ cents under yesterday's finish; corn, 1¼ to 1⅞ off; oats, 1 to 1⅜ down, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents decline.

Stop-Loss Selling.

Much of the selling of wheat was of a stop-loss character. Houses with Eastern affiliations were conspicuous on the selling side of the market, but the bulk of the pressure appeared to come from a multitude of small-sized orders of scattered origin. Among the factors which tended to precipitate selling were setbacks in Liverpool wheat quotations and a big tumble in British exchange, together with augmented cheaper offerings of wheat abroad by Canada and Argentina.

Increased unofficial estimates of the Kansas wheat crop had a specially disturbing effect in the late transactions. One private forecast put the State's yield at 100,000,000 bushels, contrasting sharply with last month's Government estimate of 55,000,000 bushels. Delays to spring wheat seeding both in the United States and in Canada failed to act as a counterbalance, although the season in Canada was reported to be the latest ever known.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat, despite widespread new rains indicating further delay to corn planting.

Provisons sympathized with grain market downturns, notwithstanding that hog values went higher.

LATE RALLY TRIMS COTTON PRICE LOSS

July Sells at 8.37, With General Market Down 2 to 5 Points.

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—An early decline of about $1 a bale in cotton today attracted increased trade demand as well as covering or rebuying, and was followed by rallies.

After selling from 8.18 to 8.41 for July, fluctuations were rather nervous and irregular in the late trading, but that delivery closed at 8.37, with the general market closing firm, at 2 to 5 points decline.

Initial prices were 16 to 22 points lower in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and appreciation in the dollar as indicated by foreign exchange rates.

There was some selling by houses with foreign trade connections and the decline soon extended to 8.06 for May and 8.60 for December, making net losses of 19 to 26 points on the more active positions.

This represented a reaction of about ½-cent a pound from the peak of the recent advance, which was evidently sufficient to attract an increased trade demand and prices rallied with May selling up to 8.24 and December to 8.79 or within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations. Moderate setbacks followed in the late trading, but the trade buying continued and closing quotations showed rallies of some 15 to 20 points from the lowest.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was easy today under increased liquidation, promoted by the late break in grain and easier lard and crude oil markets. Final prices were unchanged to 10 points net lower. Sales were 15 contracts. Bleachable spot and May closed 4.75, July 4.84, September 4.98, December 5.15.

NATS WIN FROM BROWNS, 7-5; BOKEN AGAIN HERO

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

St. Louis, Mo., May 9.

A SOCK on the head by a wild pitch put Buddy Myer out of the Nats' line-up and Bob Boken, the blasting bee from Collinsville, threatens to keep him there.

The Nats' last two games could be aptly entitled "The Kid Connects," for in each battle it was a solo wallop by Boken, the ex-bench warmer, which decided the issue; his home run of yesterday and his single of this afternoon. The Nats are missing Buddy Myer about as much as Belgium misses the Huns.

And out there in the field Boken is no drawback. It is vividly recalled now how he put in his place Cecil Travis, the Chattanooga lad, who threatened to win the utility job from Boken at Biloxi, and the manner in which he has been roaming the second-base territory in the West leaves little, if anything, to be desired.

Boken Good Afield, Too.

The tall, gangling kid from Collinsville is about as nervous out there in the field as an oyster shucker engaged in shucking. He hasn't even looked bad on a ground ball, and has been teaming with Cronin in the play around second base as if he were a ten-year man. He goes to his right and left with equal facility, and his performance is not calculated to improve Myer's headache.

Built on the general lines of Lefty Gomez, the extremely fragile will o' the wisp pitcher of the Yankees, Boken gets abnormal power into his swing as his two legitimate home runs attest, and the secret is concealed in the leverage he gets with the bat. He grabs the bludgeon on the very end and takes a toe hold in the batter's box.

It is not surprising, therefore, that word comes from Cleveland to the effect that Myer will accompany President Griffith home to Washington after the American League meeting in Cleveland today, instead of continuing on to Chicago to join the Nats there Thursday. Myer will not be hurried back into the line-up for obvious reasons.

Sewell Adds Punch to Team.

Out where the West begins, Luke Sewell begins to hit. The lower end of the Nats' batting order has been given a heavy shot in the arm by the little catcher the Nats' obtained from Cleveland for Roy Spencer last winter.

Sewell has been to bat 24 times in the five games the Nats have played in the West and has connected safely on 14 occasions for an average of .541 during the trip. Not a single one of his blows have been tainted. He has been hitting the ball directly on the nose and only a miraculous stop by Hebert robbed him of a fifth straight hit today.

The Nats haven't had a .300 hitting catcher since Muddy Ruel achieved that mark by some miracle back in 1924. Sewell hit only .251 with the Indians last year, but this season he is aiming for the fences, as his extra-base wallops testify.

It's Earl Whitehill's turn to go to the mound for the Nats tomorrow in the third of the series for the Browns. Whitehill is one of the only two Washington pitchers to go the route in the West. The other is Stewart, who will work the last game of the series.

The Nats pinch-hitters had a 1.000 average for the day, with Dave Harris singling and Sam Rice walking. Harris almost blasted Wells out of the box with his smash in the seventh.

Levey tried to steal third in the sixth, but failed because there was a man already on the base. It's a good trick if it can be done. Goslin has almost succeeded several times.

CHISOX BUY WEBB.

Paul, Sarron Slug Way To Draw

Capacity Crowd Sees Featherweights in Thrilling Bout.

Former Champ Wins Late Rounds; Davis Beats Antonelli.

By DAVE HERMAN.

FIGHTING off Pete Sarron's sensational challenge with a walloping two-fisted comeback in the last four rounds, Tommy Paul, the cool, mechanical-like boxing machine from Buffalo, N. Y., was held to a draw for the second time in two weeks by his Dixie rival last night at Portner's Arena before a roaring, fistic-crazed capacity crowd of 2,200.

Undaunted by Sarron's early lead, during which he piled a healthy margin on points, and battling feverishly under the handicap of a deep cut above his left eye and a gash over his cheekbone, both of which were sustained during the torrid moments of the second round, Paul, former N. B. A. featherweight champion, made a stirring and strong finish which seemed to have earned the decision.

Paul proved himself the best boxer and fighter from where we sat, primarily through his careful and steady punching during the last half of the match. It was the courage displayed in going the route with blood streaming profusely down the left side of his face unquestionably moved the howling mob to admiration.

Battle Thrills Crowd.

The battle was a thriller all the way, and matched in excitement, boxing skill and action the last blood-tingling draw between two of the outstanding scrappers in their class.

Naturally, the decision came as a surprise to both camps, but if there is such a thing as a newspaper verdict, the laurel wreath should go to Paul. The Post score sheet gave Paul five of the ten rounds, four to Sarron, and one even which, after all, is a close margin.

Judge Denny Hughes already had voted for Paul; Judge George King called it a draw, and Referee Short cast his ballot for Sarron.

Sarron, stepping out fast and punching at a furious pace, easily captured the first round, and for a while the Birmingham fighter looked like a world beater. Paul brought his guns into action in the second, trained them on Sarron's jaw and body, and emerged the victor in two speedy exchanges, to take the second.

Paul's cleverness in weaving and shifting forced Sarron to whiff the ozone dozens of times during the fray, but despite his many misses the Southerner was out in front in the third, fourth and fifth. Tommy's left face was a mass of crimson and the Syrian nailed him on his cuts time and again. Sarron got three good cracks on Paul's jaw in the fourth, and clipped him twice on the same spot in the fifth.

In the sixth Paul came out with two white patches adorning both cuts. He appeared calm and determined, and quickly brought his lethal left hook into play. Sarron's pacer was slowed up, and they boxed the sixth on even terms.

Paul Begins to Hit Stride.

Pandemonium reigned in the seventh. Paul began to hit his championship stride, and twice chased Sarron to the ropes, pummeling with some of his best blows of the night. It was Tommy's round by a mile. Sarron continued to wilt in the eighth as Paul grew stronger, and the Syrian, battling desperately to catch up with the fast moving Buffalo boy, missed repeatedly.

Sarron slipped flat on his back (not from the blow) a moment after Paul had nailed him with a left hook; Sarron returned the fire, but the former champ finished with a rapid-fire attack. Sarren fought desperately in the tenth. With head bowed, he scrapped at close range with Paul, but the latter's ring generalship served him in good stead.

Roddy Davis won the eight-round semiwindup with Nick Antonelli handily. Antonelli was the target for Davis' punches in six of the rounds, but hung on gamely. Davis looked in great condition, and punched better than he ever has.

A newcomer, Johnny Pareno, from Tommy Paul's Buffalo camp, batted for Bob Cleary, and proved himself a flash by whipping Doug Swetnam in a six-rounder. Pareno was given a rousing hand. Cary Wright subdued Johnny DeMarco in the opening six-rounder.

DICKEY'S FEARS ALLAYED.

Chicago, May 9 (A.P.).—Bill Dickey, the New York Yankees' ace catcher, tonight was recovering from what at first appeared to be appendicitis, but finally was diagnosed as an attack of acute indigestion.

Dickey suffered abdominal pains at breakfast this morning, and when another attack occurred at noon, Manager Joe McCarthy, of the world champions, hastened to get a doctor. Dr. Eugene Taylor, resident of the hotel where the club stays in Chicago, examined the husky athlete and ordered him to bed for observation, fearing appendicitis.

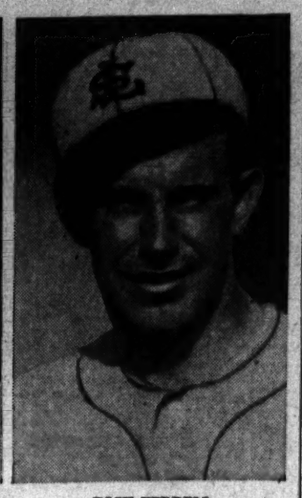
Brown and Ferrell Shifted To Red Sox for Shea, Cash

LLOYD BROWN



RICK FERRELL

BOSTON, May 9 (A.P.).—The purchase of Lloyd Brown, a left-handed pitcher, and Catcher Richard Ferrell from the St. Louis Browns for Catcher Mevin Shea and an unannounced sum of cash was reported by telephone from Cleveland tonight by General Manager Eddie Collins of the Boston Red Sox.

This deal, the most important one that the Red Sox have transacted since Tom Yawkey and Collins took over the club from Bob Quinn late in February, promised to add great strength to the tail-end club's weakest departments.

Brown, who went to St. Louis from Washington, where he won 15 out of 27 games for the Senators last year, appeared capable of making the Red Sox pitching staff one of the strongest in the American League, for it gives Manager Marty McManus six starting pitchers. The experienced Ferrell batted .315 and fielded for .986 for the Browns in 1932.

The trade, according to Collins' message to his associates, was completed during today's special American League meeting in Cleveland.

Shea, obtained from the Louisville club of the American Association last season, has been doing the bulk of the Red Sox's backstopping this year. He is a bit too inexperienced to serve as the club's premier catcher and Collins has been trying to strengthen this vital department since he became affiliated with the club.

When Yawkey and Collins bought the Red Sox they announced they had $250,000 in ready cash to use in rebuilding the club.

St. Louis, May 9 (A.P.).—The sale today to the Boston Red Sox of Richard Ferrell, catcher, and Lloyd Brown, left-handed pitcher, both of the St. Louis Browns, generally was believed executed solely because of financial advantages offered the Browns.

Although St. Louis received Melvin Shea, a catcher, as well as an unannounced sum of money from Boston in the transaction, the Browns undoubtedly lost strength as the result of the exchange. Losing here today to Washington, St. Louis dropped to the cellar of the American League.

L. C. McElvoy, vice president of the Browns, who announced the sale, declined further comment. "That's all I've got to say," he said.

Salary differences between Ferrell and the St. Louis management played a part in the transaction. This spring the catcher was a determined holdout and finally signed at a reduced figure, believed to be $8,000 annually, after President P. Dec. Ball told him flatly that his services were worth no more here.

He has been a member of the Browns since 1929, coming from Columbus of the American Association. He was fairly successful his first two years with St. Louis, but hit his best stride in 1931.

When acquired by the Browns he signed a three-year contract for $10,000 and was paid a large cash bonus, reported to total $25,000. Previously he had been called a free agent.

In signing again this spring with the Browns Ferrell announced the hope that he would be traded.

Brown has been a regular starter this season with the Browns.

Helen Wills Moody Opens 1933 Campaign Abroad

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9 (A.P.).—America's queen of the courts, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, announced today she had decided to open her campaign for 1933 honors abroad as she did last year.

Mrs. Moody said she would leave here in time to participate in a warm-up tournament in England preparatory to defense of her all-English singles crown at Wimbledon.

While she has had no information as to dates of the various tournaments leading up to the Wimbledon classic, Mrs. Moody said she thought she would enter one recalled by her as "the gypsy tournament."

Because of misinformation as to dates at Wimbledon, the American star said she would have to revise her traveling schedule. The Wimbledon tournament will be held June 26-July 8. Mrs. Moody had information it would open June 19.

"This later date somewhat upsets my plans," Mrs. Moody said. "I had intended to leave next week, but now I may remain here another week. If the date for the French championship also has been set back, I may be able to take in that tournament also. I shall come to some decision tomorrow."

Mrs. Moody won the French singles title last year, but had not intended to defend it this year.

She said she probably would make the trip alone. Her husband, Frederick Moody, jr., will accompany her to New York and is expected to join her in England in time for the play at Wimbledon.

Mrs. Moody has engaged in steady practice during the winter, playing several sets a week. Howard Kinsey, former internationalist, has been Mrs. Moody's opponent frequently, and sums up her playing as "better than ever." Kinsey said he had never seen her in "the exceptional form and power she has displayed of late."

Upon her return to this country, Mrs. Moody will compete in the national championships at Forest Hills, N. Y., in an effort to regain a title she has held seven times. She passed up the nationals last season after a long stay abroad.

Col. Bradley Sued For $3,000,000 Tax

Lexington, Ky., May 9 (A.P.).—Suit against Col. E. R. Bradley, owner of Idle Hour Farm and winner of this year's Kentucky Derby for more than $3,000,000 claimed due for delinquent taxes, was filed today in the Fayette County clerk's office. It was brought by M. J. Brennan, revenue agent for the State at large, who seeks to collect taxes on stocks and bonds claimed to have been owned by Col. Bradley on July 1 of each year during the last ten years. The petition states the stocks and bonds mentioned were wholly omitted from assessment for taxation for State and county purposes, and that taxes on them are delinquent.

The plaintiff asks that the property listed in the suit be assessed against Col. Bradley, and that he be adjudged liable to the Commonwealth of Kentucky and Fayette County. Mr. Brennan seeks to have Col. Bradley pay the taxes claimed due, 100 per cent penalty for not listing the property, 20 per cent penalty for the revenue agent and 6 per cent interest from the date payments were claimed due to the date judgment is given in the case. I. J. Miller, attorney, who brought the suits yesterday, said the total amounted to more than $3,000,000, but that he has not determined the exact amount.

Lexington, Ky., May 9 (A.P.).—Barry Shannon, financial manager for Col. E. R. Bradley, said tonight there is no ground for a suit against Bradley seeking to collect more than $3,000,000 claimed due in delinquent taxes. Stocks and bonds involved in the suit, filed today, have been listed for taxation in Florida, where Bradley is a resident, Shannon said. Taxes on the securities were paid in Florida, Shannon said.

The suit was filed on behalf of M. J. Brennan, revenue agent for the State at large.

Baby Arizmendi Denied Admission

San Ysidro, Calif., May 9 (A.P.).—Baby Arizmendi, Mexican featherweight boxer, was denied readmission to the United States today after an immigration board of inquiry had ruled he was an undesirable alien.

Immigration officers said at the time they were investigating the effect upon his immigration privileges a judgment for $3,500 returned against him in the superior court at Los Angeles would have. Frances Armenta, 17, sued Arizmendi charging he betrayed her under promise of marriage and was the father of her child. Arizmendi contested the action, but lost.

Broker's Tip Arrives at Pimlico

Bradley's Ace Ships in Good Condition; Works Today.

Few Candidates Out on Sloppy Track; Utopian Runs.

BALTIMORE, May 9 (A.P.).—Activity at Pimlico in preparation for the $25,000 added Preakness Saturday was reduced to a minimum today as continued rainfall kept the track in a sloppy condition.

Few trainers took a chance of exposing their charges to the hazards of the damp weather and the treacherous track, preferring to await more favorable conditions.

The chief development of the day was the arrival from Louisville of Mrs. Silas S. Mason's flashy colt, Head Play, loser to Col. E. R. Bradley's Broker's Tip by an eyelash in the Kentucky Derby.

The colt, in splendid condition, was taken from the train and quartered at Pimlico.

Both Broker's Tip and Head Play are expected to have their initial Pimlico workouts tomorrow. Trainers of Broker's Tip definitely announced they would send the colt around the track tomorrow morning and get a line on how he stood the trip. Definite plans for the Mason entry was not announced.

Speculation on Race Continues.

With the arrival of Head Play, the unfinished argument over the merits of the two leaders in the Derby was revived, and speculation on what they will do in the Preakness continued.

Railbirds in many quarters gave Head Play the advantage when they recalled that the Bradley colt came from behind in the last few seconds to win. The Preakness is run over a mile and three-sixteenths, while the Derby was over a course a sixteenth of a mile longer. The shorter distance was expected to favor Head Play.

W. R. Coe's Ladysman, which was the popular favorite to win the Derby, also was given a better chance for victory in the Preakness.

None of the chief contenders was given a workout today. The Wheatley Stable's Utopian, which did not enter the Derby, was clocked over the mile and one-eighth in 2 minutes and 1-5 second. The Wheatley colt's time for the first four quarter miles was: 25 2-5, 51, 1:18 3-5, 1:46 4-5.

Utopian was made to run in the center of the track since the section near the rail was so muddy and chopped as to make running hazardous.

Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, one of last year's leading juveniles, also had a brief turn on the track today.

Tribe Loses Catcher Pytlak for Ten Days

Cleveland, May 9 (A.P.).—Frank Pytlak, young backstop for the Cleveland Indians, caught eight innings of the second game of last Sunday's double-header with New York with a fracture of his index finger, an X-ray examination revealed today.

The injury will keep Pytlak out of action for about 10 days. In the meantime, the Indians will have only Glenn Myatt to do their catching. Roy Spencer, the regular receiver, still is nursing a split finger suffered last Saturday.

Coucci Kidnap Threats Are Blamed on Crank

Mineola, N. Y., May 9 (A.P.).—A police guard placed last night on reports that Silvio Coucci, jockey of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable, had been threatened with kidnaping was withdrawn today.

The report was made in a telephone message yesterday to New York police headquarters. Nassau County police were notified immediately and a policeman was sent to guard the home of Bill Brennan, trainer for the Greentree Stable, where Coucci lives.

Neither Brennan nor Coucci took the matter seriously. Today police decided that the alleged kidnap threat was the work of a crank and the guard was withdrawn.

POST MORTEMS . . .

Walter Johnson, who has seen many a United States President toss out the first ball at Griffith Stadium, will himself do the honors tonight at the Capital City League opener between the Miller and Columbia Heights nines . . . and it will be Walter's first activity in the Nats' apple orchard since he laid down the managerial reins last season . . . the Certified Barbers have what might be called an "active" mascot . . . while trailing the White Haven nine last Sunday, the Barbers had the bases loaded in the ninth and Jakie Lewis, a real slugger, was due at the tee . . . "I'm going to hit for him," said Manager Tony Burruto, who had not had a bat in his hand in months . . . "If you do, I'll bean yuh," said the mascot . . . so Lewis was allowed to bat for himself and all he did was to lash out a triple . . . and the Barbers won by a whisker . . . Lloyd Brown is getting to be quite a traveler . . . he was with the Brooklyn Dodgers before coming here . . . he started this season with the Browns and yesterday was shifted to the Boston Red Sox . . . by losing yesterday's harrowing game to the Nats, the St. Louis Browns skidded into the cellar of the American League . . . there was a hot tip among the wise ones on Old Baldy at Pimlico yesterday . . . but the noted mudder did not like that kind of mud and stopped to finish fourth . . . Old Baldy is eligible for Saturday's Preakness, but he probably will not start.

George Considine, President of the Sprocket Club, is still its only member . . . most of the other bicycle-riding eligibles are kept too busy by the telegraph companies to join . . . so Ernie Dusek wants Jim Londos to start roughing it at the Auditorium tomorrow? . . . if the Greek Adonis does, Ernie's right ear likely will be as cauliflowered as his left . . . and that's close to a record in size . . . Lorraine Gulli and Freddie Moore won the mixed doubles in the Women's Duckpin Association event . . . and, strange as it seems, Lorraine's scores were better than Freddie's.

Pitt, McKee Top Manor Golfers

Turn in 73 Cards to Lead First Day's Qualifiers.

Saunders Third, But Stroke Back; Big Field Today.

HARRY PITT, phlegmatic Manor Club champion, and Craig McKee, lanky Iowa golfer playing under the colors of Indian Spring, paced a field of 180 participants with scores of 73, each, in the opening day of the Manor invitation tournament, with close to 195 players scheduled to tee off today in the resumption of the 18-hole medal competition.

Pitt, who has captured every important invitation event in this section with the exception of his own club affair, blazed home with 38-35, while McKee stroked the two nines in 37-36.

A tremendous driver off the tee, McKee's tying of the galloping Manor "Moose," Pitt, created a stir in local golf circles. The sharer of the first day's medal lead is a student of George Washington University and is a star member of the college golf team.

Saunders Only Stroke Behind.

From Rock Creek came the roaring challenge of Harry Saunders, who finished with 36—38, 1 stroke back of the leaders. The husky Parker Nolan, of Indian Spring, turning in the most spectacular nine-hole round of the day, a 34, wound up with 75 and was tied by John C. Shorey, young Kenwood star. Nolan, playing with McKee, was red hot on the outgoing side until he struck the ninth hole, when he missed his approach and three-putted for a 6 and blew up on the incoming nine with a 41. Nolan also three-putted the tenth and seventeenth.

Pitt, big favorite, made a great recovery on the eighteenth hole to save himself from being pushed into a lower berth. He hooked his tee shot, was in the rough with his second, but made a splendid approach deaded to the pin for his par 4.

Others who cracked 80 were C. W. Stoddard, of Manor, with 78; L. T. Newton, of Indian Spring; Miller B. Stevinson, of Columbia, and Frank Weller, of Columbia, each with 79.

After starting with a 6, one over par, and a 5, one over on the fourth, Pitt rallied to finish the first nine in 38. His play on the stretch was even par. He was one over on the twelfth, and canned a birdie 3 on the thirteenth.

The cards of Pitt and McKee with par follow:

Jack Dempsey to Help Train Baer-Schmeling

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey decided today that he will pull on leather gloves again—this time to help with the training of Max Schmeling and Max Baer, whose fifteen-round battle he is promoting in the Yankee Stadium June 8.

The former heavyweight champion, who only a year or so ago was trying himself out in an exhibition tour to see if he might not eventually be fit to fight one or both of the contestants, said today that he will start light training here immediately.

He plans to box two rounds with Schmeling, another former titleholder, at the German's camp on Lake Swannanoa in New Jersey in about ten days. The following week he plans to go the same distance with Baer at Atlantic City.

He further announced today that advance sale for the match had reached $75,000, and that a sellout at the scale of $1 to $10 would draw $400,000.

Braves Score Over Bucs By 7-0

Frankhouse Yields But Three Hits as Pirates Bow.

BOSTON, May 9 (A.P.).—Fred Frankhouse's curve ball subdued the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates today as the Braves evened the series with a 7 to 0 victory.

Boston's right-hander pitched three-hit ball and gave only one walk. Tony Piet got a single for the Bucs in the third and Fred Lindstrom and Pie Traynor hit one each in the fourth. That inning was the only time Frankhouse was in danger and after the bases had been loaded by a hit batsman, he escaped when Piet forced Lindstrom at the plate with a weak grounder to the box.

The Braves, who have been in a batting slump, made 15 hits off Waite Hoyt, Hal Smith and Leon Chagnon. Five of them were doubles and they came in effective bunches.

Randy Moore Bats at 1.000 Clip.

Randy Moore had a perfect afternoon at the plate with two doubles, a single and a pass. Wes Schulmerich also had a pair of two baggers and drove in three runs and every Tribesman except the pitcher got at least one hit.

Wally Berger contributed the fielding gem, and a few other fine plays as well. In the sixth inning he raced in and caught Traynor's short fly with his outstretched gloved hand and threw to first to double Paul Waner, who had strayed from the bag.

Nats Now Half Game Behind Yankees in Flag Race.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

SPORTSMAN PARK, St. Louis, Mo., May 9.—Whitlow Wyatt's wild pitch in Detroit last Sunday echoed again in St. Louis this afternoon along about the ninth inning, and the Nats beat the Browns, 7 to 5.

The effects of the Detroit pitcher's wild heave that put Second Baseman Buddy Myer in the hospital and put Bob Boken in the Nats' line-up, won today's ball game for Washington. Boken hit no home run to win the game today as he did yesterday, but the single that he socked in the ninth with two on and the score tied represented the margin of victory.

With two games of the series here now history, the record reads: Boken, 2; St. Louis, 0. And the Nats are now in second place, a half game ahead of the idle Indians and a half game behind the equally idle Yankees.

Nats Overcome 6-to-1 Handicap.

The Nats burrowed up through a 5-1 deficit to win the game with six runs in the last three innings when they put together 10 of their 16 hits. They were still lacking a run of a tie when the entered the ninth, but not for long.

John Henry Knott, who had relieved Ed Wells in the eighth, was Knott as good in the ninth. Goslin smashed a single through Melillo, Cronin slashed a double to center and Schulte popped a single to right to score the tying run and put Cronin on third. The left-handed Hebert relieved Knott and Kuhel's grounder to Melillo was of no assistance to the Nats, but Hebert's first pitch to Boken was. Away it went on a line into center field and home came Cronin and Schulte with the winning runs.

Cronin entrusted the game at the outset to Ed Linke, who could not get his Mississippi Valley League strike-out ball across the plate in the fifth inning, when he became the baseball version of the Missing Links. He missed the plate completely to walk Melillo and Levey, and then missed Wells' bunt into the box. Before he departed in favor of Bob Burke, the Browns had scored a run on Garms' single. They got two more on West's grounder and Campbell's double and had a 3-1 lead.

Sewell Robbed of Hero Role.

For the second consecutive day, Boken, with his game-winning clouts, robbed little Luke Sewell of the headlines, for the Nats' catcher, who made five hits yesterday, made four more today and was in the thick of the battling as the Nats came from behind to win, but with Boken insinuating himself into the play at the most opportune moments in both games, Sewell was forced to content himself with a soaring batting average.

The Nats got a run back in the seventh when Pinch-hitter Dave Harris singled and Manush's double followed Sewell's third straight hit, and they put together three hits in the eighth for two runs that cut the

EURYALUS DEFEATS SPRINTERS IN PIMLICO'S FEATURE RACE

Colt Defeats Sugar Cake By Head

Star Porter Is Third; Old Baldy Sets Pace, Tires in Stretch.

Favorites Win Last Three Races Over Muddy Course.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 9.—C. R. Fleischman's Euryalus scored a sensational head victory over Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Sugar Cake here today in the 6-furlong feature race. Coming from far off the pace, these two sprinters staged a brilliant duel through the final furlong, with the son of Happy Argo taking the decision in the final strides. Star Porter was beaten a length and a half for the place by the only filly in the race.

Old Baldy, half of the W. R. Coe entry, which was backed into favoritism, led the field from the barrier rise until it was straightened out in the stretch. At this point the three ultimate money horses slopped past the tiring pace-setter.

Euryalus' victory rewarded his backers at a rate of 7 to 1.

Another fair-sized crowd turned out despite the threatening weather and the sloppy course.

Highdine Beats Juveniles.

The Willis Sharpe Kilmer Stable earned their first success of the season when Highdine made a show of eight other colts and fillies that met in the 4-furlong dash that began activities for the eighth day of the Pimlico meeting. Ridden by R. Jones and showing a decided liking for the sticky footing, Highdine scampered into the lead at once and going along smoothly all the way, crossed the line four lengths before K. E. Hitts' Repeal, who paid $30.80, while Whiteman led home the others. Sun Clothing, a well fancied entrant, lost all chance when he stumbled directly after the break.

Jockey R. Jones registered his second consecutive success when he rode Garlic to a hard-earned triumph over seven other members in the mile and one-sixteenth of the second number. Egad, from the H. R. Dulany Stable, racing as if best, but poorly handled by G. Haines, managed to save the place award and third was accounted for by Busted, which performed for E. R. Bradley. The winner covered the distance in 1:50 and paid $9.80.

Chenango Downs Jumpers.

Thomas Hitchcock, well-known polo and racing enthusiast, furnished the winner of the Reliance Steeplechase, the daily event through the field, when his good leaper, Chenango, making his initial start of the season and well handled by the amateur rider, R. McKinney, was winner of the third number. This brought out seven others to contest the 2-mile event and saw Eric the Red, owned by L. H. Drennan, and a previous winner at the current session, driving into second position, while Daniel Soot easily took the measure of the others.

Chenango was installed the choice and his score was popular despite the short odds of $5.20.

Eight sprinters furnished the contention for the 6-furlong dash under claiming conditions that was the fourth test of the day and this saw Wise Count paying $11.60, making the running for the entire journey to register by a length and one-half from Towee, of the Sagamore Stable. These two held away over the six others that contested the issue from the start. Third fell to Ral Parr's Ladino, the public choice, and he was well off the leading pair, as he just managed to earn third over Eternal Maid. Jockey E. Steffen was aboard the winner.

Aegis Gets Home Ahead.

Another choice entered the charmed circle when Aegis carried the hopes of the majority of fans to land major honors in the mile and one-sixteenth of the sixth number. Attractive eight starters the field went away in good alignment and Aegis went along closely lapped with Integrity as they opened up a long gap on the remainder of the field. The pair had the race to themselves the entire distance until the stretch where Integrity weakened slightly, Aegis winning by a half length. Integrity beat Annimessic a length and a half for the place.

Another win was registered for students of form when Revonah, a well-placed choice, smothered his field for speed in the running of the seventh number and he spread-eagled his field to score by a dozen lengths. Pretty Wise chased the winner to the conclusion of the journey to land second, while Center Lane easily garnered the short end of the spoils.

Soeur Blanche, the favorite, took the final from Ward In Chancery.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, MAY 9.

DEAR AL:

They're still hanging up mud numbers after every race. The dry track horses are getting so used to the going that every nag here probably will leave for Bowie a three X mudder. Three of mine managed to slop home today. Ran into my old friend "If" Johnson and he wants to pass along his picks for tomorrow. Here's how he likes them: Labrot entry, Hair Trigger, Jack Anthony, Clotho, The Nut, Levaal, Jambalaya, Mainsheet. And then Mrs. Bennings' boy takes these.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—BOKIE B. is an experienced plater with a number of excellent races behind him. Seems ideally placed among these and figures to lead home the Labrot entry of DAMASCENE and GRAMARYE.

SECOND RACE — DONTRA has served his apprenticeship at the races and appears due to turn in a winning effort. ASKE did fairly well the last time and holds some promise. HAIR TRIGGER goes back to third.

THIRD RACE—JACK ANTHONY comes from a barn full of well-conditioned jumpers and should not be hindered by the slippery going. Has a tough nut to crack, however, in the dependable but heavily-weighted INDIGO. GEORGE JESSEL'S last gives him third place.

FOURTH RACE—Here we have one that eats mud. KAKAPO has been handled well since arriving here and might have beat a star field the last time out had the track been soft. Worth an across-the-board wager. SPRINGSTEEL is the class on paper. LADFIELD drops so much weight that he must be considered.

FIFTH RACE—SWEEPING LIGHT finds another test in which his fine finishing ability should bring him a purse. Will like the distance and is not adverse to conditions. BROADWAY LIGHTS for the place and THE NUT to show.

SIXTH RACE—LEVAAL may break from No. 1 post tomorrow and hot foot it home ahead of this field. Toss out that last. AEGIS, if sent back, should be second. ROCK POINT to take care of the show.

SEVENTH RACE—GAY PARTY is a triple mudder and is said to be ready to win a sprint of this kind. BOHEMIAN GROVE and ALLANAH to take care of the others.

EIGHTH RACE—TUFFY G gets the Bennings call over our old friend, BRIGHT BIRD. I believe the course will be too soft for the latter. MAINSHEET for the show.

PIMLICO, MARYLAND, CHART, MAY 9, 1933.

WEATHER, CLOUDY; TRACK, MUDDY.

FIRST RACE—Four furlongs. Purse, $800. The Questionnaire. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:02. Off at 2:05. Winner, W. S. Kilmer's ch. f., by High Time—Almindine II. Trained by B. Cooch. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:49 4-5.

VICTORY FLAG	118	9	9	9	9	9	Workman		18.70

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HIGHDINE, $4.80, $3.20, $3.20; REPEAL, $30.80, $18.00; WHITE MAN, $16.30.

HIGHDINE, showing good ability in the footing, moved into a safe lead when straightened into the home stretch and finished well in hand. REPEAL, in nearest pursuit of the winner throughout, could not threaten at any stage. WHITE MAN came wide into the home stretch, but held on well. GUIDING LIGHT, forced out by WHITE MAN during the stretch run, finished with good courage. PEEDREQUE raced evenly while saving ground. SUN CLOTHING stumbled and almost fell directly after the break. He recovered gamely and closed stoutly. TIMBER FIRE raced wide, as did VICTORY FLAG.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:30. Off at 2:32. Winner, D. P. Venezano's b. or bl. h. (9), by Pot au Feu—Miss Palatine. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:35, 0:50 3-5, 1:16 2-5, 1:43 2-5, 1:50.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GARLIC, $9.80, $5.40, $4.00; EGAD, $39.40, $18.60; BUSTED, $4.40.

GARLIC, closer up than usual and securing racing room next the inner rail to reach the leaders, swung around EGAD when straightened into the home stretch and wearing the pacemaker down was slowly moving clear. EGAD, away slowly, was steered very wide going to the first turn, was rushed up fast when circling his field to take command, and then held on gamely. He raced as if best. BUSTED, closed along early, moved up stoutly to enter contention, but weakened fast during the final drive. MUSKODAY was used up racing REDCLIFFE into defeat, and J. Gilbert could not do his mount justice when his saddle slipped. PEACH BASKET was outrun. REDCLIFFE stopped.

THIRD RACE—Two miles. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Reliance Steeplechase. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Citron. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:01½. Off at 3:01½. Winner, T. Hitchcock's b. g. (6), by Hapsburg—Will Return. Trained by L. Franklin. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 4:07 (13 jumps).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHENANGO, $5.20, $4.20, $3.20; ERIC THE RED, $4.20, $2.80; DANIEL SOOT, $3.40.

CHENANGO, rated for the first mile and feneing boldly, moved to the pacemaker at the twelfth fence, and moving to the front shortly after, drew out gradually when kept under intermittent punishment. ERIC THE RED, full of run while following FORAGE CAP (displaced) the latter under sufferance and then held on well when collared. DANIEL SOOT, kept well placed and jumping well, closed with good courage. FORAGE CAP showed a good effort until he tired. ZERMATT had no excuses. SHAMUS was inclined to bear out at the turns. CITRON swerved and refused to break with his field. Was as good as left and galloped over the course.

WEATHER, RAINING.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:31. Off at 3:32½. Winner, H. C. Graham's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WISE COUNT, $11.60, $5.40, $3.00; TOWEE, $6.20, $3.00; LADINO, $2.40.

WISE COUNT, quick to begin, showed good speed in the going, saved ground wherever possible and holding on with good energy, outstayed TOWEE. Latter, kept close up from the start, closed gamely when straightened into the home stretch. LADINO, pinched back slightly midway of the back stretch, came to the outside of the leaders, but failed to respond when placed to punishment. ETERNAL MAID saved a lot of ground the entire trip and raced well. AIR PILOT could not improve his position at any stage. ON TAP showed speed in the first quarter mile. She appeared unable to untrack herself. WATER LAD was practically left.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; allowances. The Corsica. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:01. Off at 4:02½. Winner, Tedlu Stable's h. c. †W. R. Coe entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EURYALUS, $18.00, $9.00, $4.00; SUGAR CAKE, $10.00, $5.20; STAR PORTER, $3.20.

EURYALUS, eased back to accept racing room on the outside after the opening furlong, gained stoutly in the final three-sixteenths mile, and in a game finish was up in the final strides. SUGAR CAKE, in the thick of contention and racing strongly, wore down BALDY, went down inside the closing furlong, but could not stop the winner. STAR PORTER, taken under wild restraint after the break, was kept next the inner rail during the stretch run and outfinished OLD BALDY. Latter, sent into an easy lead, drew clear, but tired suddenly inside the final furlong. BOBBING finished resolutely, as did POMPOSO. The latter was worked out a mile.

WEATHER, CLOUDY.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:32. Winner, D. A. Wood's b. g. (5), by American Flag—Florence Webber. Trained by G. W. Ogle. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 3-5, 1:15, 1:42 2-5, 1:49 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—AEGIS, $5.60, $4.00, $3.20; INTEGRITY, $7.20, $6.30; ANNIMESSIC, $5.00.

AEGIS, taken under stout restraint while following INTEGRITY closely and racing on the inside, gained a slight lead during the final three-sixteenths mile, was punished mildly during the stretch run and had enough in reserve to withstand INTEGRITY. Latter, rated under strong reserve until leaving the back stretch, continued stoutly after losing command. ANNIMESSIC worked his way up on the outside and was steadily overtaking the first two during the final drive. UNENCUMBERED finished stoutly after coming wide into the home stretch. HOMEWORK raced evenly. FLYING MAX could not enter into contention.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:03. Off at 5:08. Winner, H. C. Jones' ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—REVONAH, $5.80, $3.20, $2.40; PRETTY WISE, $4.00, $3.20; CENTER LANE, $2.80.

REVONAH, having the most speed, opened up a commanding lead after six furlongs and increased his lead at will during the final stages. PRETTY WISE, kept under early pressure, was unable to menace the winner and was best of the others. CENTER LANE, forced out at the first turn, came courageously when in his best stride. AELLA was bumped and knocked off stride at the first turn, and then was rushed hard to reach a forward position, but tired. STRENUOUS was rushed through a narrow opening at the first turn, overcame interference, but stopped in the final drive. CHLOEDAIR was also bumped at the first turn.

EIGHTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:37. Off at 5:38. Winner, Starmount Stable's ch. f. (3), by Wildair—La Religieuse. Trained by J. M. Milburn. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 3-5, 1:15 3-5, 1:42 3-5, 1:47 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOUER BLANCHE, $3.60, $2.60, $2.20; EARL IN CHANCERY, $4.00, $4.20; SKIRT, $4.80.

SOUER BLANCHE, clearly best, moved into command without effort when going five furlongs and then increased her lead at her leisure during the final quarter mile. WARD IN CHANCERY worked his way up on the inside when put to a drive, was placed to punishment, but was no match for the winner. SKIRT raced fore-wardly and was easily best of the others. LIGHT BREEZE had no excuses. OUR PAL was never a factor. STROLLING TIME stopped after a half mile.

E. Dusek Sees Title Chance Tomorrow

Has Hopes of Upsetting Jim Londos at Auditorium.

ERNIE DUSEK makes his bid for recognition as head man of the Howser circuit tomorrow night at the Auditorium, where he tangles with the present incumbent, J. Londos, in a bout limited to two hours by the union rules, but which will end much sooner if J. Londos is the same person who has squashed the titular aspirations of opponents on previous visits to this city.

Dusek has let it be known that he intends to rough the champeen as much as if he were nothing more than an ordinary opponent wrangling in a semifinal bout.

"I had Londos beaten when we fought in Memphis about a year ago, only to let him get away from me," opines Erine. "There will be no slip tomorrow night. I'm gonna be the next champion."

Londos happened to be in New York when Ernie passed the remark, but it is rumored that he mumbled something akin to "Nerts," which told of the reception prepared for him. The big Greek is in good condition, more concerned over a bout with Savoldi than with any of the Duseks. Ed White, his manager, has announced that Londos will accept the Illinois State Commission's order to wrestle Savoldi for recognition as champion in that State.

The supporting card tomorrow night has been revised slightly. Chief Chewaki will grunt it out with Lou Plummer in the first 30-minute preliminary. Martin Zikoff has been matched with Eli Fischer and Rudy Dusek will tangle with Tom Alley, the lad from down under.

Gino Garibaldi, the reformed rough guy, and Dick Raines, the Titanic Texan, have been nominated for duty in the 45-minute semifinal. Had not Gino suddenly become the leading pupil in the Bible class some real action might have been expected. But it is feared that he may turn that other cheek to Raines when the big fellow punches him.

MILLERS, HEIGHTS CLASH TONIGHT

Capital City Unlimiteds In Opener

Walter Johnson Due to Toss Out First Ball at Stadium.

Play Starts at 6 P. M.; Wahler to Pitch for Heights.

IF OLD Jupe Pluvius picks up his feet and moves on to more arid regions and the supply of baseballs holds up, the eighth annual season of the Capital City League will be inaugurated tonight at Griffith Stadium. Congress Heights and Miller Furniture clash in the opening game.

A group of distinguished Washingtonians will watch Walter Johnson throw the first ball over the plate officially starting play. Miss Sybil Baker, supervisor of the playgrounds, cosponsor of the league with The Post, and Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer have been invited to attend.

G. W. to Take on Salem.

Following the Capital City League game, which will start promptly at 6 o'clock, George Washington U. will engage Salem College in a do-or-die struggle in an effort to add another game to its win column. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Elks Club Boys Band, which won the band contest held at the park last week.

It will be the Millers' first game in unlimited competition. Last year the team won the senior division banner after finishing second to Olmstead Grill in 1931. But Manager "Cac" Curtin's aggregation boasts plenty of power and it would not be surprising to see the northeast tossers leading the parade when the home stretch hoves in view.

Mr. Curtin was seized with an attack of big league strategy last night and promptly announced that his starting pitcher will not be named until the teams take the field. The rest of the team will be virtually the same that has compiled a neat little winning streak of five games. Reigleman, Sugrue, Benner and Bradley will patrol the infield, with Miller, Maupin and Turner in the pastureland.

Milburn or Wood to Pitch.

The pitching selection lies between Harry Milburn and George Wood. Wood's campaign manager is thought to have slightly the better of it and may persuade Mr. Curtin to use his candidate.

Carl Wahler has been nominated as starting pitcher for the team from across the muddy Potomac. He will have an able supporting cast helping suppress the hopes of his opponents. Xander, Clements, Porter and Nock will hold forth in the infield, with Connick, Sweeney and Harris in the outfield.

Artie Nock, shortstop, was until recently a member of the Eastern High School team. Charley Guyon failed to recognize his ability, and when somebody copped his favorite seat on the bench Nock handed in his resignation. Since starting with Congress Heights Nock has developed into a grade AA player. Against St. Joseph's Sunday he handled eight chances without a miscue.

Hurls Tonight

who will pitch for Congress Heights against the Millers in the opening game of the Capital City League booked at Griffith Stadium, preceding the George Washington-Salem game.

Central-Western May Play Today

Held in check by threatening weather, Western and Central will attempt to play thier scheduled interhigh school series game this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Eastern Stadium. Should rain again interfere, the contest will be postponed indefinitely.

Seven additional games are on the scholastic card today. Central invades National Training School for a game with Ed Crandall's charges and Eastern will journey to Charlotte Hall to battle the cadets.

Two local teams will play on Alexandria soil. Roosevelt's Rough Riders are scheduled to meet Episcopal and Emerson will oppose Alexandria High School. Tech is down for a game with the Maryland freshmen at College Park and St. Alban's will lay siege to the seven-game winning streak of Georgtown Prep at Garrett Park.

Jr. Golden Glove Finals Saturday

Final bouts in the Junior Golden Gloves boxing tournament, postponed from last Saturday because of unfavorable weather conditions, will be held at Griffith Stadium Saturday starting at 2:30 o'clock. Eight championship bouts, supplemented by four exhibitions, comprise the card.

Despite the fact that the Boys Club sponsored the event, which has grown to city-wide proportions in two years, that organization has put a single member remaining in competition. He is Angelo Pappas, 13-year-old contender for the 80-pound crown.

Pappas won the 70-pound championship last season. In twenty fights he has yet to lose a decision. Nick Latsios, of the Alexandria Boys Club, stands between him and his second Golden Gloves title. Latsios is one of six Alexandria boys fighting in the finals.

A large delegation of congressmen is expected to witness the bouts. Admission will be absolutely free.

HURLS NO-HIT GAME.

Chapel Hill, N. C., May 9 (A.P.).—Nate Andrews, sophomore right-hander, pitched a no-hit, no-run game here today for the University of North Carolina, and the Tarheels defeated Wake Forest, 3 to 0.

Four Wake Forest players reached first, three of them getting bases on balls and the fourth profiting by an error.

POLICE PLAY TODAY.

Metropolitan Police baseball team will attempt to inaugurate its campaign in the Industrial League this afternoon at 5 o'clock, on the South Ellipse, opposing the Gichner outfit. Rain has twice balked the coppers' attempt to play.

ARLINGTON NINE BOOKING.

Arlington Juniors are seeking games with strong teams on their home field. Call Clarendon 162-W-2 between 5:30 and 6:30 o'clock.

MAJESTICS ACTIVE.

Majestic nine will be busy over the week-end. Saturday it plays Rockville and Sunday travels to Winchester for a twin bill with the home team.

Capital City League Contests Scheduled

TONIGHT.
Congress Heights vs. Miller Furniture.
SUNDAY.
Der-A vs. Certified Barbers.
Griffith-Consumers vs. Stanton Cleaners.
Victor Photographers vs. St. Joseph's.
Colonials and Federal A. C. draw bye.

Bethesda-Chevy Chase Trounces Tech, 4 to 1

Tech High School scored a 4-to-1 victory over Bethesda-Chevy Chase in a well-played game yesterday. Williams and Ward led the winning attack, which amounted to only six hits. The losers made but three safeties off the combined offerings of three Tech hurlers.

Maryland U. Shuts Out W. & L.

Davidson Holds Generals to Five Hits, Winning, 4-0.

PLAYING steadily behind the stellar five-hit pitching of Southpaw Ray Davidson, University of Maryland conquered Washington and Lee, 4-0, yesterday at College Park in a game requiring only an hour and 24 minutes. It was the Old Liners' first win in five Southern Conference starts.

Davidson and Jack Jarrett waged a fine pitching duel until the eighth, when Maryland scored all four of its runs. The Generals were unable to get a man beyond second base. Both teams played errorless ball.

Maryland Rallies in Eighth.

After Wolfe filed out to start Maryland's eighth inning, Buscher singled to deep short. He stole second and third. Gorman and Maxwell then were intentionally passed to fill the bases. Nelson fanned, but the third strike was a wild pitch and Buscher scored. Wyatt, batting for Chase, also was intentionally passed. Bob Love, hitting for Jones, then lined out a single, counting Gorman and Maxwell and sending Karow, running for Wyatt, to third. Karow scored on a double steal and Davidson rolled out to end the inning. The Generals were set down in order in the ninth.

Wash.-Lee Trackmen Defeat Hyattsville

Washington-Lee High School's track team of Ballston, Va., defeated Hyattsville High, 50-40, yesterday in Byrd Stadium at the University of Maryland. It was Hyattsville's first dual meet of the season.

On the track Hyattsville outscored the Old Dominion boys, 29-25, but the latter outpointed Hyattsville, 25-11, in the field events.

Tom Hayes, Hyattsville, was the individual star, with 10 points. He won the half-mile and mile runs. Legg was high for Washington-Lee, with 9. He captured the 220-yard low hurdles, was second in the javelin, and was third in the 100-yard dash.

100-YARD DASH—Won by Cain (H); second, Brunner (W-L); third, Legg (W-L). Time, 11 seconds.

G. U. Prep Nine Host To St. Alban's Today

Georgetown Prep School's energetic little band of athletes will engage in their fiftieth major competition of the school year this afternoon at Garrett Park when the baseball team hooks up with St. Alban's. In all three sports, football, basket ball and baseball, the Little Hoyas have lost the decision only nine times.

An interesting mound duel is expected today. Tom Keating, outstanding Prep twirler, will toe the slab for the home team. His opponent will be Bill Patton, who boasts a record of more than 40 strikeouts in three games.

Buddy Myer Hands Out Tips On Playing Second Base

In view of the opening this week of the Capital City League and feeling that timely articles concerning the duties and worth of various members of a baseball team might be of benefit to those playing in the league, The Post herewith presents the third of a series of stories by regulars of the Washington team.

By BUDDY MYER
NATIONALS' SECOND-BASEMAN.

THE second baseman's job calls for him to be ready to cover two bags at all times—second and first.

Buddy Myer.

Covering first base, of course, is necessary on every bunt, when the second baseman must be ready to take the throw from the man who fields the ball, while the first baseman is drawn in by the play. Of course, with clubs using bunts not only as sacrifice plays but in an effort to get a man on base, it is difficult to foretell when a bunt is to be made and the second baseman must always be on his toes. The covering of second base by the second baseman depends on the type of hitter at bat with a man on first. The second baseman covers the bag, of course, with dead left field hitters up and the shortstop covers with right field hitters up. If you are crossed and the right field hitter hits to left, of course, the second baseman has got to hustle to the bag.

The second base job requires the shortest throw of any of the infielders, of course, and the second baseman, more than any other infielder, should take all the time necessary and not hurry his throwa, except when you've got to go deep for a ground ball.

Probably the most important part of the second baseman's duties is his work on the double plays when he's the pivot man. You've got to take the throw in the best possible throwing position and in a position where you can brace your right foot for the throw to first as quickly as possible. The man who feeds you the ball should always try to give it to you above the belt. Unlike on steals, you aren't straddling the bag.

The second baseman's part in relaying the ball on hits to the outfield depends on the man who is playing beside you. On our club Joe Cronin has the strongest arm and always is the man who relays the ball in from the outfielder. On these relays the second baseman should line himself up with the throw, to back up the man who is taking it and yell to him where to make the play.

Gun Club's Shoot Starts Tomorrow

Members of the Washington Gun Club have arranged a pretentious program for their third annual amateur championship and "New Deal" tournament to be fired at the Benning grounds tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. The winner will represent the District of Columbia at the national trapshooting championships at Vandalia, Ohio, in August.

All of the 200 targets comprising the championship race will be fired Friday, instead of being divided into two days' competition as in previous years. The second 100 will constitute the sixth match of the season with the Oriole Gun Club, of Baltimore.

All 1932 champions will be on hand to defend their titles. W. F. Burrows won the 16-yard title last year; Dr. A. B. Stine, handicap; F. P. Williams, doubles, and R. D. Morgan, all-around. Fifty targets have been added to the doubles shoot, which was 50 last year. This is in line with policies adopted by State associations throughout the country.

A number of trophies have been put up for competition in addition to a cumulative purse of $550, which will go to the champion.

G. W. Nine Is Host To Salem Tonight

After suffering its second postponement in less than a week because of rain, George Washington will attempt to play tonight at Griffith Stadium. Salem College will be its opponent, and the game will follow the opening of the Capital City League.

Salem, although hampered by inclement weather at the start of its campaign, boasts a strong club and will give the District nine a stern battle for the decision.

The visitors' starting line-up probably will be as follows: Mazza, pitcher; Vennari, catcher; Grubba, first base; Orme, second base; Bowen, third base; Tiberi, shortstop; Fagler, left field; Rosetti, center field, and Secrety, right field.

Bill Noonan, elongated former Eastern High School moundsman, looms as Coach Ed Morris' pitching selection to repel the invaders. The rest of the team will be the same that opposed West Virginia last week.

Mixed Doubles Title To Gulli and Moore

Lorraine Gulli and Freddy Moore last night won the mixed doubles tournament staged by the Washington Women's Duckpin Association at the Columbia alleys. The couple rolled a combined score of 744. Miss Gulli rattled the maples for a 381 set with games of 142, 112 and 127. Moore rolled games of 127, 114 and 122 for a 363 set.

Lodged in second place were Catherine Quigley and Ollie Pacini, who bowled sets of 317 and 375, respectively, for a grand total of 692. Merceda Esemann and Tony Santini were third with 689; Margaret Leaman and Charley Bernhardt fourth with 682, and competition for fifth place resulted in a tie between Marie Whalen and Bill Pearce and Esther Burton and Chris Xanten.

Thirty-two teams rolled in the tournament.

GRIFF PLAYERS MEET.

The following members of the Griffith-Consumers team are requested to meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at their clubhouse, 4 Seventh street northeast, to receive uniforms: McQuinn, Poole, Harding, Dave and Reed Gibson, Ware, Hoff, Parker, Dumford, Benner, Dyer and Parks. Tomorrow the Griffs play the Airways team at 5 o'clock on Diamond No. 4.

MULHALL WANTS BERTH.

Joe Mulhall, well-known sandlotter, is seeking an infield berth with a capable unlimited team. He can be reached at Columbia 0327.

ACES OPPOSE DICKERSON.

The Gaithersburg Aces will seek their fourth victory of the season Sunday when they invade Dickerson for a game with the home team.

Women Golf Field Led by Mrs. Rhyne

Tops Star Cup Field First Round Play With Net 85.

MRS. J. O. RHYNE, of Congressional, carded a medal score of 96 and had a handicap of 11 for a net of 85 to lead the field in the opening day of the annual Star Cup golf championship yesterday at the Congressional Country Club.

One stroke to the rear of Mrs. Rhyne was Mrs. J. E. Davis, of Army and Navy, who had a 100 gross and a 14 handicap.

Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of Columbia, Middle Atlantic champion, turned in the lowest medal round of the day, an 89. Her 2 handicap gave her a net of 87, two strokes from the pacesetter, Mrs. Rhyne.

Final Round Due Today.

Gonzaga Golf Drought Ends After Five Years

After five long years of fruitless endeavor, a Gonzaga High School golf team finally won a match. The victim was Takoma-Silver Spring, and the score 3½ to 2½. The teams divided the points in foursome play, but Gonzaga won the best ball competition in the first group and broke even in the second for its margin of victory.

Whittlesey (T) defeated Merkle, 4 and 3; Berberick (G) defeated Keele, 2 and 1; best ball, Gonzaga, 2 and 1. Robertson (T) defeated Preston, 7 and 5; Jarvis (G) defeated Fitzgerald, 4 and 3; best ball, all even.

NATS TRIUMPH, 7-5, ON BOKEN'S SINGLE

Browns' lead to 5-4. Cronin opened with a walk and scored on singles by Schulte and Kuhel, which ended the term of Ed Wells, who had been a deep mystery to the Nats until he went extremely shallow at this point.

Misses an Earlier Opportunity.

With the tying runs on bases and none out Boken, the first to face Knott, lifted a puny pop to Ferrell and it seemed as if the Collinsville boy would be forced to rest on his laurels of yesterday. Sewell came along with his fourth straight single to score Schulte, and the bases were full when Pinch-hitter Rice walked, but Bluege and Manush could not connect with Knott and the Nats were still a run in arrears. Then along came the ninth and Boken.

The necessity for pinch-hitting brought Alvin Crowder into the game as the Nats' fourth pitcher in the eighth and he yielded the Browns only one hit in the last two innings to receive credit for the victory.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

THE Mississippi River's widest point is not, as may seem reasonable, near the mouth—it is, in fact, closer to Chicago than it is to New Orleans. The widest part of the river, at bankful stage, is 77 miles below Cairo, Ill., where it measures 14,420 feet from bank to bank—or nearly 3 miles, according to a survey made by the Mississippi River Commisson.

Grass skirts, or similar devices of rubber, must be placed on automobile wheels during rainy weather in Japan to protect pedestrians from splashing mud and water. The "anti-splashers," as shown above, must be attached to all four wheels, and to drive an automobile during rainy weather without this equipment is in violation of Japanese law.

One of the rare and valuable species of goldfish is not, as far as color goes, a goldfish at all. The Veiltail Moor Telescope, in thoroughbred type, is jet black from nose to tail. The body, fins and even the iris and exposed part of the eyeball are black. The black goldfish is in demand as a household pet.

Curfew sounds for Oxford University from the 7-ton Tom Tower bell every night just at 9:05 o'clock, when the big bell tolls out exactly 101 times. This custom has been followed every night since 1684 with the exception of the World War period.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

$135,000 AVAILABLE FOR DISTRICT RELIEF BY ACTION OF HOUSE

Unprecedented Emergency Aid Goes to White House for Inquiry Today.

The House yesterday placed its final stamp of approval on the $500,000,000 Lewis-Wagner relief bill. The unprecedented emergency aid measure will go to the White House today for signature.

Some $250,000,000 will be available to States and the District almost immediately. Outright grants will be allotted on a basis of local expenditures already made.

Director George S. Wilson of the District Board of Public Welfare estimates the District may draw approximately $135,000 at once to help tide over the unemployment crisis here.

Agrees to Compromise.

In finally passing the bill yesterday, the House agreed to a compromise conference report, removing jobs under the proposed Federal Relief Administration from Civil Service appointment.

Defending this provision, Chairman Steagall of the House Banking and Currency Committee told members:

"I agree that wherever possible, specially trained Civil Service employes should be retained in the service.

"But under this bill, I think the Federal relief administrator should be allowed to employ local help wherever he needs it in any of the States, without regard to Civil Service."

Representative Ludlow (Democrat), Indiana, observed that to confine jobs under the relief act to Civil Service would hinder operation of the new set-up. Representative Steagall replied the proposed non-Civil Service basis would not only remove personnel difficulties, but result in economies as well.

The new act appropriates $250,000,000 to be apportioned among the States on a basis of $1 for every $3 spent locally, and another $250,000,000 to be alloted on a basis of need. There is no definition of how the money may be spent other than to relieve distress and unemployment. Opponents of the measure opposed its enactment on the ground it constitutes a Federal "dole."

ARCHDIOCESAN ORATORICAL CONTEST WINNERS

BAPTIST CHURCHES REGISTER INCREASE

Report Shows 16,420 White Members in Washington; Gain of 621.

The Baptist Church is in a splendid condition despite the depression, it was revealed in reports from Baptist churches throughout the country presented at the fifty-sixth annual meeting of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches yesterday at the Metropolitan Baptist Church.

The report showed that there are 16,420 white Baptists in Washington and vicinity, representing a net gain of 621 in the past eighteen months. The budget for the ensuing year has been fixed at $59,000.

Dr. John Compton Ball, pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church for the past 30 years and dean of the Baptist ministers in Washington, was paid a tribute by Gratz E. Dunkum, past grand master of Masons.

Recognition was taken of three new Baptist pastors in Washington, the Rev. Lynn Stevens, of Kendall Baptist; the Rev. Otho A. Eure, of Fountain Memorial, and the Rev. P. G. Murray, assistant pastor of Calvary Baptist Church.

Dr. Millington Resigns.

The resignation of Dr. H. W. O. Millington as executive secretary of the association, to take effect April 30, 1934, was announced. He has served as executive secretary for 12 years.

The following officers of the association were reelected: W. W. Everett, moderator; S. G. Nottingham, clerk; E. B. Shaver, assistant clerk; George B. Bryan, treasurer; the Rev. G. G. Johnson, D. D., vice moderator. Mr. Nottingham will also serve as secretary of the executive board.

The following committees were appointed: Committee on committees, Dr. Millington, Mr. Nottingham, Mrs. Daniel C. Shankle, the Rev. Clarence R. Ferguson and the Rev. H. M. B. Jones; committee on place and preacher, the Rev. F. W. Johnson, the Rev. Henry J. Smith and Mr. Bryan; committee to nominate executive board, the Rev. William E. LaRue, the Rev. Edward O. Clark and Harold J. Clay.

Dr. Loftis Leads Devotions.

The Rev. J. Wesley Loftis led the devotions at the morning meeting. The afternoon session was devoted to the reading of reports. At last night's service addresses were made by the Rev. J. H. Franklin, D. D., and the Rev. Charles E. Maddrey, D. D., secretary of the foreign mission board, Southern Baptist convention.

The meeting will continue through today. Miss Ethel Ryan, missionary to the Hopi Indians, will speak at the morning session. The Rev. E. E. Richardson and Mrs. E. E. Richardson will speak at the afternoon session. The Rev. J. F. Fraser, D. D., pastor of the University Baptist Church, of Baltimore, Md., will be the speaker at the concluding service this evening.

Cancellation of Oratorical Contest Broadcast Held Insult to Archbishop.

The cancellation of the planned broadcast of the oratorical contest at Catholic University last night, which was won by William Tobin of St. John's College, was termed an "insult" to Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, by the Rev. Louis Veath, of Baltimore, director of Catholic University conference of clerics and religious of the Catholic Steudents Mission Crusade, which sponsored the affair.

Father Veath declared in a short talk after the four contestants had delivered their orations that the "National Broadcasting Co. had openly insulted the archbishop." He said that arrangements had been made with Station WMAL for the broadcast and that shortly before the time scheduled, persons at the station telephoned and asked the subject of the orations.

When told that it was "The Part of the Catholic Student in Home and Foreign Mission Activity," he said, the station's representative replied that it could not be broadcast as it was not "important."

The archbishop, who announced the winner and standing of the other three contestants in the competition after Father Veath had bitterly assailed the radio company's cancellation of the broadcast, made no reference to the matter.

SLASHED D. C. CASH BILL TO CONFEREES

House Refuses to Accept Senate Liberalization of Supply Measure.

The House yesterday refused to accept the Senate's liberalized amendments to the District appropriations bill, and sent the closely cropped local supply measure to conference with the Senate.

Speaker Rainey immediately named Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, former chairman of the House District Appropriations subcommittee, to head the House conferees.

Senate conferees, headed by Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, already have been named. The initial conference session probably will not get under way until tomorrow or Friday.

Other members of the House conference named yesterday by Speaker Rainey include Representative Buchanan (Democrat), Texas; Representative Thomas Blanton (Democrat), Texas; Representative Taber (Republican), New York, and Representative Bacon (Democrat), New York.

House Appropriations Chairman Buchanan yesterday was called on by Representative Paul Kvale (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, to "explain the attitude of House conferees toward Senate increases in the bill." Kvale said he was interested particularly in necessary school increases.

Representative Buchanan replied that he could not speak for the conferees until they had met.

The Minnesota representative said he merely wanted to ascertain whether the House conferees were under any mandate to insist on the lower House figures.

Buchanan replied they were under no such mandate.

ST. JOHN'S ORATOR CAPTURES CONTEST

William J. Tobin Wins Year's Possession of Curley Mission Trophy.

William J. Tobin, jr., of St. John's College, of Washington, was judged the winner of the grand finals of the archdiocesan oratorical contest sponsored by the Catholic University Conference of Clerics and Religious of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade, conducted last night before 2,500 persons in Catholic University gymnasium.

The topic discussed by the four contestants was "The Part of the Catholic Student in Home and Foreign Mission Activity."

The four competitors represented four sections of the archdiocese. Tobin, of St. John's College, was judged the winner over the other three, all girls. He won for the Vermont avenue institution a year's holding of the Archbishop Curley Mission Trophy and individual first-place cup.

Second place went to Miss Ann Mudd, of St. Mary's High School, Bryantown, Md.; third to Miss Loretta Raum, of the Institute of Notre Dame, Baltimore, and fourth to Miss Rosalie Marie Patterson, of St. Peter's High School, Westernport, Md. All three were presented cups by the archbishop.

Mgr. David T. O'Dwyer, procurator of Catholic University, was chairman. The judges were Brother Walter, of St. Joseph's College, Baltimore; Miss Elizabeth Sweeney, of the Catholic Association for International Peace, and Dr. Charles H. McCarthy, of Catholic University.

Officers of the St. John's College Cadet Corps acted as ushers and music was provided by the band of St. Mary's Industrial School, of Baltimore.

PROPOSED NEW BANK PLAN MAY BE JOINED BY POTOMAC SAVINGS

Offutt Urges Spokane Way of Reorganization for Other Institutions.

The possibility of Potomac Savings Bank entering the plan for organization of a new national bank now being proposed to restricted banks of the city by a committee of stockholders and directors of District National Bank was indicated last night by George W. Offutt, jr., president and conservator of the first-named institution. Mr. Offutt said he had been in conference with the District National Bank reorganization committee.

He said that his bank viewed with favor the "Spokane plan" of reorganization which the District National Bank committee has submitted to depositors and stockholders of District National Bank and suggested to other restricted banks of the city, and regarded it as being the best way out of the local banking difficulty.

He said that Potomac Savings Bank officials expected to follow the plan and in the event one or two large new banks, separate and apart from all others which now exist, are formed, Potomac Savings Bank will be glad to cooperate with one of them.

Decline in Commercial.

On March 22 officials of Potomac Savings Bank, oldest savings bank in the District, announced a plan to reopen this bank as a national bank and called for a stock subscription of $500,000. More than half of this amount was reported to have been subscribed.

A statement of condition of Commercial National Bank as of February 27, date of its suspension, issued yesterday by Robert C. Baldwin, receiver of the institution, revealed its assets at that time as amounting to $14,754,877.56, or $1,630,780.66 under those of December 31, 1932, date set by the office of the Comptroller of the Currency for the last call issued to banks for the foregoing statements.

In his statement, Receiver Baldwin reminds that the value of assets as set forth are book values and do not represent actual values. He also announced a more complete report of condition of this bank will be available at the end of the second quarter, June 30.

Depositors Are Favorable.

In the statement issued yesterday, the total of assets is formed of three items: Bills receivable, $4,021,009.12; cash on hand, $379,571.77, and other assets amounting to $10,354,296.67. Liabilities totaling $13,100,583.30 are divided into unsecured liabilities totaling $6,357,705.96; deposits secured by $6,109,682.94, aggregate value of assets pledged as collateral, $4,543,848.87; rediscounts secured by $200,860.93, aggregate value of assets pledged as collateral, $187,138.27; bills payable secured by $3,994,497.73, aggregate value of assets pledged as collateral, $2,041,830.20.

A continued favorable response was reported on the part of depositors and stockholders of District National Bank and Franklin National Bank to a plan to create a new national bank in the case of the former and to reopen the latter institution.

Subscription of stock necessary to reopen Industrial Savings Bank as a national bank was urged last night at meetings at Shiloh Baptist and Third Baptist Churches.

$200 Ransom Demand Made for Great Dane

Mysterious calls asking a $200 ransom for his valuable 18-month-old great Dane dog missing since May 1, sent Frank Feeney, 1602 L street northwest, to police for help yesterday.

The dog, Princess Racket, was last seen near Fourteenth and F streets northwest. A young man and woman were said to have placed the dog in an automobile at that time. Feeney was offered $700 for the dog several weeks ago.

Junior High Teachers Reelect Hugh S. Smith

Hugh Stewart Smith, of Jefferson Junior High School, was reelected president of the Junior High School Teachers Association at the annual meeting yesterday.

Miss Grace Deal, of Gordon Junior High, was named vice president; Miss Myrtle Moore, Powell Junior High, corresponding secretary; Miss Emolyn Espey, Macfarland Junior High, recording secretary, and Thomas F. Ferry, Stuart Junior High, treasurer.

Dr. Cushing Ridicules Medical "Doo-Dads"

Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons Hears Eminent Member Praise Family Doctor of Yesteryear.

Packing the auditorium of the National Museum to the doors, 2,000 medical men attending the Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons last night heard their president, Dr. Harvey Cushing, eminent brain specialist of Boston, Mass., excoriate the scientific doo-dads of modern medicine and praise the general practitioner and family doctor.

Helping himself generously to a subtle type of irony—usually associated with such men as the late John Galsworthy whom he quoted—Dr. Cushing held up to ridicule the flash and dazzle of modern equipment with long names and diseases with names still longer.

He pointed out that despite these innovations the common ailments still remain and still have the good old homely appellations—Johnny still gets a pain and the aunt from Gopher Prairie a cold. "But a rose by any other name smells just as sweet," the specialist observed as his large audience of men and women chuckled.

Dr. Cushing described much of the talk about scientific medicine "a fetish." "The practice of medicine is an art," he said, "and can not approach being a science—although a great deal of scientific equipment is used.

"The general practitioner, although his whiskers and silk hat are gone and he no longer rides behind a horse, is still with us and plays just as important a part in the practice of medicine as ever. Such men are the backbone of the profession."

Turning his attention from the doctor to the patient, Dr. Cushing praised the "respectable people of moderate means—the men and women who try their best to pay, who write to their doctors expressing gratitude on the anniversaries of their operations." He issued a warning against the movement to put the care of the people's health under public health supervision, predicting that such a move will be to the detriment of the people of moderate means.

Casting his satiric gaze on the medical school, Dr. Cushing impaled on a scapel of derision, the professors who tell their students of the obvious preventatives" and then miss the factulty teas to avoid embarrassment."

"Modern medicine is beginning to show the strain of Babylonian hospitals," he added. "Too many of us are functioning under the influences of the saxaphone and speakeasy, becoming city slickers."

Dr. Cushing concluded his address by picturing modern medicine as a female patient and diagnosing her trouble. He found—among many other things more fitted to the medical journal than these columns—that she has been losing weight in recent months, that she needs to be psychoanalyzed.

"What she needs chiefly," he said, "is a good night's sleep. And she should get insured before it's too late."

The subject of Dr. Cushing's address was "Medicine at the Cross Roads." His audience was made up for the great part of doctors attending the meetings of the 13 constituent societies of the Congress of Physicians and Surgeons. The congress continues through tomorrow.

P. U. C. SEEKS WIDER RANGE OF AUTHORITY

The Public Utilities Commission will submit to Congress late this week several amendments to the public utility act designed to strengthen considerably its control over local utilities and to prevent the courts from reviewing engineering facts that are supported by substantial evidence in valuation cases.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday was putting the amendments in final form for submission to the commission. While it is not expected that the measures will be enacted at this special session of Congress, the commission wants to have them introduced.

Some of the amendments are similar to those proposed more than two years ago, but never passed by Congress. It is understood, however, that they are of a broader nature and that the commission is asking for more authority than was contemplated in the earlier bills.

The provision designed to shorten valuation litigation considerably is similar in principle to that upon which hearings were held in the Senate in 1930, but several changes have been made in the language. The amendment would require the courts to accept the technical facts set forth by the commission provided that "substantial evidence" supports them. This would virtually restrict appeals to legal questions of constitutionality and jurisdiction and to large economic issues.

George E. Sullivan, of the Federation of Citizens Associations, offered a similar bill to the Public Utilities subcommittee of the House District Committee more than a week ago after Representative Loring Black, chairman, had promised to try to have hearings on the proposal at this session.

With the administration's securities control bill in the final stages of enactment, the commission yesterday decided to draft separate legislation designed to place such local control in its hands. Previously, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, had said that an amendment would be offered to the national measure.

Gen. Patrick said yesterday that commission counsel had been instructed to prepare the legislation for submission in time to obtain approval of Congress before it adjourns if possible.

Man Stricken on Ride Succumbs at Hospital

James Brady, 63, of 139 B street southeast, died late yesterday from a cerebral hemorrhage at Emergency Hospital.

He was stricken while riding in an automobile driven by his daughter, Mrs. Maria Snyder, at Seventh and F streets northwest.

BEER DEALERS RUSH TO PAY APRIL TAXES

Beer dealers poured into the District tax assessor's office yesterday in a last-minute rush to file returns on April sales and pay the tax of $1 a barrel before the deadline tomorrow night. During the day 339 reports were filed covering $3,548 in taxes. This brought the total returns to $11,968 received from 1,200 licensees.

By tonight it is expected that practically all temporary permit holders will have either paid the tax at the District Building or will have filed returns by mail. Any dealer who gets his report in the mail before 9 p. m. today, when the last collection is made, will come under the line, Deputy Assessor Charles A. Russell explained.

Only 342 licensees have failed to pay the tax, according to records of the superintendent of licenses and the assessor's offices. A total of 1,542 temporary permits were issued retail dealers during April, though 42 have been issued during May. Off-sale licensees numbered 851 and on-sale permits totaled 691 on April 30.

FREEMAN REGRETS CHURCH SILENCE ON LEADING QUESTIONS

Bishop Fears Reticence Has Impaired Confidence of Public in Religion.

Fear that the church has lost the confidence of the people because of its silence on great questions was expressed last night by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, in opening the thirty-eighth annual convention of the diocese of Washington.

Bishop Freeman delivered a warning against the definite decline in the prophetic office of the church and urged the restoration of the pastoral office to its proper place. He extolled the priestly office in the reverent conduct of corporate worship.

His address was a formal charge on "the state of the church," and was delivered at a public meeting in Epiphany Church.

Another Session Today.

Clerical and lay delegates, representing the more than 80 parishes and missions in the diocese, will reconvene today at All Saints' Church for the regular business sessions, which will last two days.

Owing to the momentous year through which the country is passing, Bishop Freeman began his address by announcing that he would follow the custom now rarely recognized of having the head of the diocese present once in three years, a charge to the convention. He called upon the church to rise in its might and seize the great opportunity which the extended economic depression has presented to Christians of every name.

Would Tell of Penalties.

He concluded by calling attention to attacks against the church by communism and other forces "grown more vigorous and malevolent in their day and generation." In this connection he said: "The church in our day has been less vocal and pronounced in insisting upon a habit of life regulated by Christian teaching. The gospel for an age of sin is not as frequently heard today as in other periods, nor are the inevitable penalties of sin as vigorously taught as they once were.

"It is upon this seeming partnership of the church with the destructive elements in our social and economic life that the indictment of the Communist is based. We shall have to rid ourselves at any and all costs of that alleged 'comfortable gospel' that becomes the refuge of the self-seeking, luxury-loving and worldly-minded.

"In other words, if the church is to survive the attacks made upon its citadel, it must at all times be above reproach and aggressive in championing the rights, without respect of persons, of the less favored, and those whose penury tempteth them to sin."

THE HECHT CO.

We've cornered the COTTON DRESS CROP on our third floor and we're celebrating with a glorious

COTTON Dress Carnival!

We've gone the limit in old Southern hospitality. Everything and everybody is bright and gay and dressed in cotton, within an inch of its life.

Come and see what we and all the designing geniuses have done with the 1933 piques and linens and seersuckers and voiles and laces . . . which are like no cottons you've ever seen before. Come and be charmed. Right this minute, this particular spot is our favorite and it will be yours, too.

● Have your sports dresses initialed a brand new way.

● Bring in your last year's cottons for charity.

We're thorough, we are . . . and so, to complete a charming picture, there's old Uncle Tom with an enormous punch bowl, filled to the brim with delicious Southern mint julep, all for you . . . Not at all, it's a pleasure! Would you like the recipe?
